Save 3,000 Trapped War Refugees.

[Copyright: 1932: By the Associated Press.]

In Shanghai's battle torn Chapei area hostilities were halted while foreign relief workers rescued refugees estimated at 3,000 marooned victims of a fourteen day fight.

The Japanese high command was determined to reduce the stubborn Chinese forts at Woosung with 500 pound aerial bombs, but none was used in the first attack of the morning. Japanese warships and artillery, however, bombarded the village of Woosung and the forts beyond, while machine gunners and riflemen of the two forces, facing each other across Woosung creek, raked either bank with spurts of lead.

Blame Each Other.

The Japanese claimed their machine gunners along the creek had taken a heavy toll among the Chinese on the opposite bank. Each side accused the other of resuming the battle, interrupted during Thursday.

A four hour truce allowed the rescuers to enter the Chapei battle zone to bring out any civilians and wounded soldiers trapped there. They emerged at 11:30 a. m. and said their mercift errand had been completed as far as possible.

Father Jacquinot, French priest, who was instrumental in arranging the truce, estimated that at least 3,000 refugees were evacuated from the area. Most of them, he said, had been taken out through Chinese lines opposite the point from which the party entered.

Save Women and Children.

The first group rescued comprised twelve Chinese women and children. Father Jacquinot said his party, which included Col. Hayley Bell, British army officer, and fifteen French nursing sisters, covered the area "fairly thoroughly" from Shanghai's north station northward and eastward to the tracks of the Shanghai-Woosung railway.

Conditions in Chapei "were ghastly," Father Jacquinot said. His observations, he added, bore out previous statements that the area had been reduced to a shambles.

Many bodies, bullet riddled and burned, were scattered about, he said. All the buildings were either burned to the ground or lying in shattered fragments.

Fight Off Rescuers.

In this No Man's land, nevertheless, a number of dazed persons continued to live. The priests said they refused all efforts to drag them to safety. They seemed, he said, to have fragments of food here and there, although the source was a mystery.

The truce under which refugees have been evacuated expired at noon. Intermittent rifle fire continued throughout the morning into the afternoon. The Japanese said Chinese snipers had again entered Chapei, taking advantage of the suspension of hostilities.

The area near Chapei and along Szechuen road had been barred to all civilians, but Japanese soldiers opened it to traffic during the truce and it was jammed by crowds.

Japanese Troops Everywhere.

Japanese soldiers had difficulty maintaining order among thousands of persons, seeking to rescue belongings from the neighborhood or merely curious. Japanese bluejacket reinforcements also swarmed into the area, along with a motorcycle corps armed with machine guns.

Father Jacquinot said that while the relief party reconnoitered Chapei they frequently were halted by Chinese soldiers, who apparently were unaware of the truce of mercy, although they made no effort to fire on the rescuers.

The rescuers passed into and out of both Chinese and Japanese lines, as well as over the no man's land between. Within the Japanese area, Father Jacquinot said, the Japanese soldiers maintained the truce to the letter. So far as he knew not one Japanese shot was fired after 8 a. m., when the search began.

Chinese Snipers Busy.

While the rescuers were inside Chapei, however, sniping continued, he said, apparently from Chinese.

Neither he nor any of the others was hit, although numerous bullets fell dangerously close to them as they carried on their work.

Many refugees, although willing to

Principally on the testimony of one witness, the grand jury yesterday was reported to have voted a true bill charging Mrs. Marie Sahlin Kegel with an attempt to commit murder with poison. While police were trying last night to find and arrest her the witness retracted his story, declaring that it was all false and had been extorted from him by the torture of state's attorney's investigators.

Mrs. Kegel is the wife of Dr. Arnold H. Kegel, former health commissioner of Chicago. The poisoning incident is only one in a series of happenings that have marked their marital affairs. The physician is suing for a divorce; the victim of the alleged poisoning is Mrs. Mary Ryan, 35 years old. She was formerly a domestic in the Kegel establishment and she was to have been a witness in the divorce action.

Witness Is Grocery Clerk.

The witness who retracted is Gerald Lee, a grocery clerk. He is also said to have been named in the true bill charging Mrs. Kegel with trying to take the life of Mrs. Ryan. He has been under arrest since Tuesday.

According to Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller, he told a straightforward story of seeing Mrs. Kegel put a white powder in a glass of soda water which Mrs. Ryan drank in a drug store at Broadway and Irving Park boulevard.

Mrs. Ryan is now in the John S. Murphy hospital under treatment. Dr. William D. McNally, former coroner's chemist, is reported to have told the grand jury that she is suffering from the administering of some form of mercury.

Lee's Story to Attorney.

But Lee, in an interview last night with his own attorney, Jerome F. Kutak, asserted that he had not seen Mrs. Kegel put any poison in Mrs. Ryan's drink, and had not, in fact, been with them in the drug store.

"He told me," said Attorney Kutak, "that he was taken to a hotel after he was arrested on Tuesday and was taken to the hospital on Wednesday. There Mrs. Ryan identified him as the man who had been with her when she drank the soda. He argued with her that she was mistaken.

"Next Lee was taken back to the hotel. All night, he said, he was compelled to stand against a wall. He was continually beaten. I saw his wounds —a bruise on the head and bruises and gashes on his legs and body. Finally, he said, he signed all statements that were offered him to prevent further injuries to himself.

"But all that testimony, he declared, was perjured, and any action taken against Mrs. Kegel because of it is an injustice."

The Prosecutor's Version.

The story of Mr. Mueller and of Sergt. Michael Ahern, of the state's attorney's investigating staff, is different. They asserted that when Lee was arrested he asked:

"What do you want me for, a poisoning case?"

They said they asked him why he suspected he was wanted for such a reason, and he said he had read in the papers that Dr. Kegel was suing his wife for divorce, alleging that she had fed him ground glass. On being confronted with the evidence of Mrs. Ryan, that he was a witness to her alleged poisoning, he readily told his story, they said. This version of Lee's tale follows:

He went to meet Mrs. Kegel at Broadway and Irving Park boulevard on Jan. 25, thinking he had a "date" with her. He had made acquaintance with her while delivering groceries at the back door and was on better terms with her, he said, than grocery boys usually are with housewives.

Tells of the Powder.

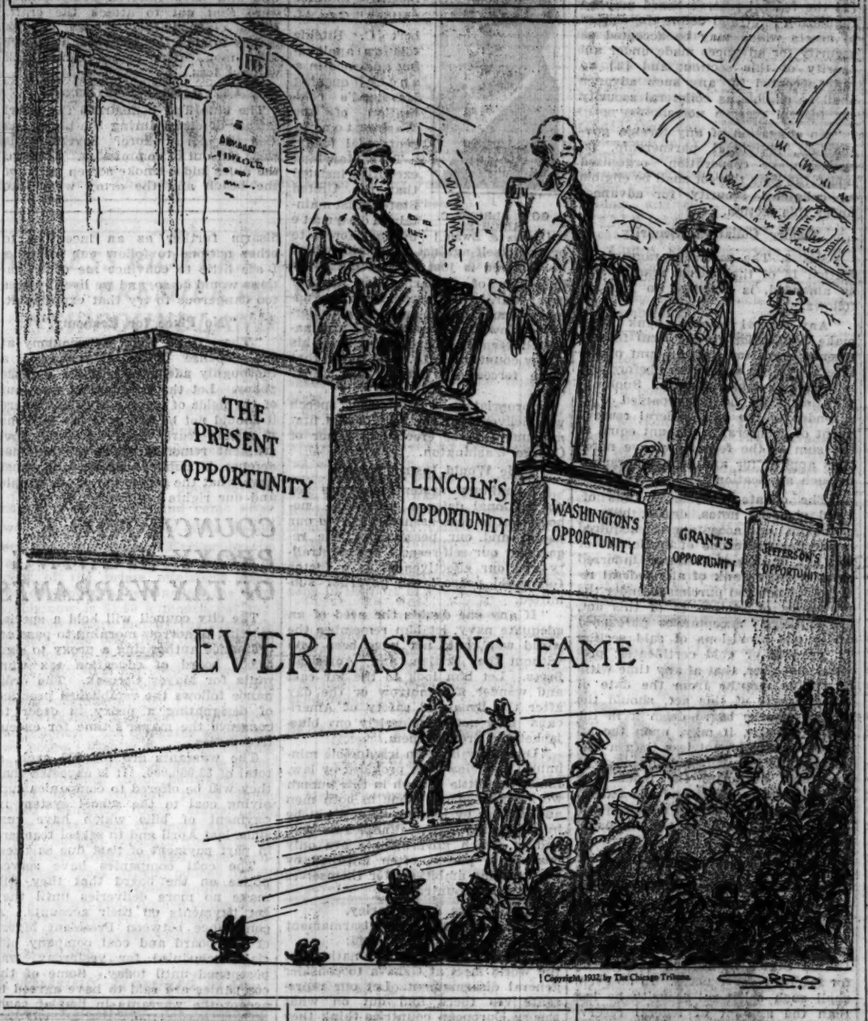

At the Broadway-Irving Park corner Mrs. Ryan joined them, seemingly by invitation of Mrs. Kegel, and all adjourned to the drug store, where they ordered drinks. When they had been served, said Lee, Mrs. Kegel sent Mrs. Ryan to the counter for cigarets and while she was gone dropped in the powder. Lee asked her what she was doing and she replied—so he said—"getting rid of Mary before the case comes up."

Mrs. Ryan's statement to the police was along the lines of this latter version of the Lee testimony.

After relating that she was married and lived at 1139 Ardmore avenue, she told of working for the Kegels and of knowing them for four

3 KIDNAP STORE OWNER; TRAPPED, SEIZED BY POLICE

Carl M. Coan, a store manager, was rescued last night by a police squad from the custody of two kidnaping bandits who had just forced him to open a safe containing $700. The gunmen and their companion, who was acting as a lookout, and all of whom are from other cities, were captured.

Coan was seized by the trio in front of his home at 5713 Magnolia avenue. His wife saw the abduction, notified police, and advised them the gunmen probably would take her husband to the store at 5254 North Clark street, which he managed.

Sergt. Thomas A. Carr and Detectives Delford R. Brust and John Settler of the Summerdale station followed the suggestion. In front of the store they seized Leonard Mason sitting in an automobile. Using him as a shield, they broke into the rear of the store. Coan was standing alongside the office safe. The other men, he said, had fled downstairs. Still using Mason as a shield, the detectives descended to the basement. Mason, fearing he might be shot by his companions, called on them not to fire. The pair emerged from hiding and surrendered.

DAILEY FREED ON RUM CHARGE IN CALIFORNIA

Santa Monica, Cal., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—In spite of adverse testimony given by Cornelius V. Leavitt, brother-in-law of President Hoover and acquitted of liquor charges here recently, Cliff Dailey, former pal of Leavitt, was freed by a jury of six men and six women today.

Dailey, who was jointly arrested and arraigned with Leavitt, but broke with Leavitt later, was accused of owning a bag containing nineteen pints of liquor which Leavitt was carrying out of the rear of Dailey's grocery when arrested last Nov. 9. Leavitt at that time maintained that Dailey handed him the sack and asked him to dispose of it because a Santa Monica policeman of the liquor squad was approaching. Leavitt repeated this story in court today.

Dailey testified the burlap bag was not his and said he was not in the store when Leavitt left with the sack.

Leavitt was cleared of his charges last month after waiving jury trial. Today he testified he had taken more than one drink on the day he and Dailey were arrested, but denied he was intoxicated.

Banish School Frills, Plea of Educator

"Take the fads, frills, and thrills out of the public schools," Henry C. Morrison, professor of education at the University of Chicago, told an audience of teachers, club women, and representatives of civic organizations at the Woman's City club last night.

Pointing out first that his remarks applied no more to the Chicago schools than to any other big city school system, Prof. Morrison said:

"What are the public schools for? They are purely training schools for citizens. It is wrong to think that it is the state's duty to educate children. Children are no more entitled to education at public expense than they are to food and clothing at public expense.

For Training in Fundamentals.

"The public schools are the very corner stone of our political fabric. The making of a citizen embraces general discipline and training in all the fundamental arts and sciences of civilization. There is no sanction for including an enormous and amazing amount of stuff in the schools merely to allow the child to pick what he wishes to study.

"We can't adjust this country to the 35 million children in it. But we can adjust the children to the country.

"I have noticed in the press lately much talk about fads and frills in the schools. That is an old story. You may be interested to know that arithmetic was once denounced as a fad and frill when it was introduced as a subject of learning into the schools.

"Nevertheless, much of what has been creeping into the schools comes under the heading of fads and frills, and I would add the term 'thrills.' One development has been the conversion of the school into an expensive clubhouse. It was never intended that a tax supported schoolhouse should be a clubhouse of the better sort."

Assails "Pseudoscience."

Prof. Morrison declared that an immense amount of "pseudoscience and half digested science" had been introduced into the teaching systems and added that women's organizations and clubs were "singularly hospitable to that sort of thing."

"The general drift of quack educators has been to allow the children to do exactly and study exactly what they please," he said. "Moreover, the schools have been carrying on a large amount of charitable work, but that is not a school job. It is part of the charity budget of the city."

Prof. Morrison condemned the "elaborate gymnasiums, stadiums, and playing fields" built for many high schools.

"Do you citizens realize that this state school system is governed by 12,000 different school boards; that New York state is governed by 9,000 school boards; that Iowa has three times as many members of boards of education as teachers?" he queried. "The system of schools in this country is governed by 150,000 different school boards. Do you wonder that we have depression?"

REPORT CHICAGO COUNTESS TO WED BRITON SHE SHOT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 11.—The Daily Express tonight said the forthcoming wedding of Miss Alice Silverthorne, the former Countess de Janze, who was prominent in Chicago society for several years, and Raymond Vincent de Trafford, wealthy Briton, will be announced in Paris tomorrow. The announcement said the wedding will be held in two weeks.

Miss Silverthorne, who is a niece of Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, was the object of widespread publicity in 1917 when she shot De Trafford during a jealous quarrel in the compartment of a train in Paris and then turned the revolver on herself and sent a bullet through her abdomen. The shooting occurred while her suit for divorce from Count de Janze, whom she married in a brilliant social wedding in Lake Forest, Ill., in 1921, was pending.

After many weeks in the hospital, during which it was thought both would die, Miss Silverthorne and De Trafford recovered. He absolved her of blame for the shooting and when she went to trial on an assault charge she was given six months suspended sentence. Later President Doumergue pardoned her. Since then there have been many reports that she would marry De Trafford.

BUYING BRACES STOCKS AS 'INFLATION' APPEARS

Prices Go Higher as Traders See Turning Point.

New York, Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Wall Street's enthusiasm for the proposed bill to liberalize the rediscount privileges of the federal reserve system was evidenced today by a broad and vigorous upswing on the security exchanges that added 3 billion dollars or more to open market values. Commodities joined the movement, invigorated by the same influence.

The advance of the New York Stock exchange was the widest in almost two months and resembled, in some of its sensational aspects, the "moratorium rally" of last June. Leading issues closed with net advances that ranged from 2 to 7 points after the speculative enthusiasm had abated to some extent late in the day. The spectacularly volatile Auburn Auto, after a maximum gain of 18¾ points, ended the day 15¾ points above the level at which it ended the afternoon before.

February Losses Canceled.

The price averages showed that the general share list, in this one spasmodic rise, had canceled all of the losses recorded in an almost uninterrupted downturn since Feb. 1.

The advance in bonds was almost as striking as that in stocks. Among domestic corporation loans there were net gains of from 1 to 6 points and in foreign issues there were irregularly distributed advances of about equal scope. United States government obligations showed modest gains as a rule. The strength was most pronounced in that section of the domestic corporation list which has been under the most persistent pressure of late.

Reversal Comes Overnight.

This group included a long list of railway bonds, some of the advances being: St. Louis-San Francisco 4½s of 1978, 2¾ points; Alleghany corporation issues, 2 to 2¾; Chicago and North Western convertible 4¾s, 2; Baltimore and Ohio 4½s of 1960, 2½; New York, Chicago and St. Louis 6s of Oct. 1, 1932, 3½; Rock Island refunding 4s of 1934, 4½; General Cable 5½s of 1947, 6, and Missouri Pacific 5½s of 1949, 4 points.

The stock market's performance was considered sensational because it reflected a complete reversal overnight. The trend was downward at the close of trading yesterday, a midday rally having worn itself out, and the Wall street community went home in a gloomy frame of mind, with many commission houses warning in their late comment that even a feeble extension of the decline would send the whole market into a new low ground for the two-and-a-half-year reaction. Such at development would have been regarded as particularly disheartening at this time.

Excess Gold Supply.

There had been some rumors late yesterday that important news of a constructive nature might emanate from Washington at any moment, but the actual announcement took the financial community by surprise. Certainly the speculative element in the stock market was not prepared for the news that leaders in congress were cooperating to speed the enactment of a bill to make useful the excess gold supply that is now more or less sterile.

The response was a burst of strength at the very opening of trading on the stock exchange. The first trade in Auburn was at 100, representing an overnight gain of 6 points. Du Pont opened up 6¼ points. United Measure Is Backed by Both Parties in Congress.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—The bill providing for "moderate inflation" of the currency framed by the coalition of the Hoover administration and the Democratic leadership in congress was introduced in the senate today by Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.] and in the house by Representative Henry B. Steagall [Dem., Ala.].

The measure, which is intended to cause a rise of commodity prices, expand credit and bolster up wabbly banks, contains the following provisions:

1 For a period of 12 months the federal reserve board is authorized to accept any direct obligations of the federal government as the basis for issuance of federal reserve notes.

How to Obtain Loans.

2 Groups of five or more member banks of the federal reserve system may obtain loans from federal reserve banks on their individual notes secured by such collateral "as may be agreed upon."

3 Any member bank "in exigent circumstances" and possessing no assets eligible to rediscount may obtain credit from a federal reserve bank on time or demand promissory notes secured by assets acceptable to the reserve bank.

In explaining the bill Senator Glass said it is not intended to cause "excessive inflation of the currency" and expressed confidence it would produce no "unwholesome inflation" unless unwisely administered by the federal reserve board.

Glass in State of Eruption.

The bill was not introduced until late in the afternoon on account of a ruction that threatened for a time to wreck the coalition. Senator Glass was in a state of eruption all forenoon over an alleged joker in the joint statement issued last night announcing the move in the direction of inflation at the instance of President Hoover. The statement said "that all of the assets" of federal reserve banks were to be available for security for issuance of federal reserve notes.

The statement had been prepared at the federal reserve board and Senator Glass had signed it on the dotted line without reading it carefully. When he discovered what he had signed he refused to approve the eligibility of "all assets" as the basis for reserve note issuance. He forced a change in the draft of the bill, also prepared by the reserve board, so as to limit such security to government obligations.

The wider provision, which according to Mr. Glass would have caused inflation of the most dangerous character, is said to have been injected into the reserve board's draft of the bill at the instance of New York bankers. There was speculation here as to what extent the erroneous statement, promising greater inflation than was warranted, influenced the soaring of quotations on the stock market today.

Sees Abundance of Paper.

Although sponsoring the measure, Senator Glass asserted there is no necessity for the legislation. He said there is an abundance of paper eligible to rediscount in all member banks of the federal reserve system. In the Chicago district, he said, there is paper eligible to rediscount in the volume of 900 millions of dollars, only 70 millions of which has been presented for rediscount. Out of 254 banks of the Atlanta district only two are wholly without rediscountable assets, he added by way of illustration.

The Democrats agreed to support the measure at a White House conference in which President Hoover, they said, painted such a black picture of the conditions in the business world that they were afraid to take the responsibility for rejecting the legislation asked by the executive.

Senator Glass asserted that only the most general agreement was reached at the White House conference.

An Erroneous Interpretation.

"The newspapers, through no fault of their own, but based upon a hastily prepared and somewhat confusing statement, have given an erroneous interpretation to the bank measure today introduced by me in the senate and by Representative Steagall in the house," said Senator Glass tonight. "When the hastily prepared statement was given out there was not any agreement upon the several provisions of the proposed bill, but all of the provisions were still subject to such alterations of their phraseology as those having charge of the measure might determine.

"The bill, as perfected and introduced, is not intended nor will it be used for excessive inflation of the currency. The temporary provision, covering a period of twelve months, merely authorizes for that time the federal reserve board, should it deem such action to be in the public interest, to use the direct obligations of the United States as a basis for currency issues, against which there must be a gold reserve of 40 per cent. This will enable the federal reserve banks to maintain a desirable volume of what is known as 'free gold,' which means gold in excess of the 40 per cent statutory requirement and not including 'ear marked' gold. This simply fortifies the gold status of the federal reserve banks in this period of extraordinary disturbance. It is altogether probable that the federal reserve banks may not find it necessary to make use of this authorization.

"Another provision of the bill that was introduced is lifted textually from what is known as the 'Glass bill,' now in process of consideration by the senate banking and currency committee, with slight modification of the specific rate of interest which may be charged to organized groups of banks desiring rediscount facilities on other than eligible paper and securities.

Joint Action by Five Banks.

"The discount rate is left to the determination of the federal reserve board; but in no event shall it be less than 1 per cent higher than the prevailing rate of discount at the federal reserve bank of any district using this facility. There must be joint action by not less than five banks in any one group and the great probability is that there will be a great many more should circumstance ever require the use of this facility.

"The third provision of the bill authorizes any single member bank, in exigent circumstance, to get accommodation at a federal reserve bank on satisfactory security not now permitted by existing law; but it may do this only after it has used all of its available eligible commercial assets and United States securities and is in immediate need of help which it may not otherwise obtain to avert failure.

They Are Carefully Guarded.

"The two provisions relating to unusual rediscount operations are so carefully safeguarded as to make it improbable that there can be any unwholesome inflation of the currency unless we may assume that the federal reserve banks, with the approval of the federal reserve board, will be unwise and improvident enough so to administer the law as to bring about dangerous expansion.

"It should be very definitely understood, as it is very explicitly agreed on all hands, that the introduction of this bill will not be permitted to displace the so-called 'Glass bill' now before the senate banking and currency committee for consideration. On the contrary, this measure is now in process of being carefully perfected and soon will be ready for consideration by the full banking and currency committee of the senate."

$5,000 VOTED TO WIDOW OF DRY'S VICTIM

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—(AP)—The house late today passed the Pittenger bill, which would award $5,000 to the widow of Henry Wirkkula, who was shot to death by a prohibition agent while driving his automobile near International Falls, Minn. The bill passed unanimously and now goes to the senate.

The bill would give the money to Mrs. Wirkkula, whose husband was slain June 8, 1929, after he failed to stop his automobile at the signal of Emmet J. White, a federal border patrolman.

Mrs. Wirkkula and her two children were in the car when Wirkkula was shot.

DEAD WOMAN IS IDENTIFIED.

The woman found dead Wednesday night on the steps of the Holy Trinity academy, 1443 West Division street, was identified yesterday as Mrs. Katherine Napietek, 75 years old, 1739 McReynolds street. Mrs. Napietek was stricken with a heart attack while on her way to Lenten services.

Text of Glass-Steagall Bill Amending Federal Reserve Act

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—The text of the Glass-Steagall bill amending the federal reserve act to liberalize the rediscount authority of reserve banks and affording them an extension of credit follows:

To improve the facilities of the federal reserve system for the service of commerce, industry and agriculture, to provide means for meeting the needs of member banks in exceptional circumstances and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled, That the federal reserve act, as amended, is further amended by inserting, between section 10 and 11 thereof, a new section reading as follows:

"Section 10 [a]. Upon receiving the consent of not less than six members of the federal reserve board, any federal reserve bank may make advances, in such amount as the board of directors of such federal reserve bank may determine, to groups of five or more independently owned and controlled member banks within its district upon their time or demand promissory notes, the liability of the individual banks in each group to be limited to such proportion of the total amount advanced to such group as the deposit liability of the respective banks bear to the aggregate deposit liability of all banks in such group, but such advances may be made to a lesser number of such member banks if the aggregate amount of their deposit liability constitutes at least ten per cent of the entire deposit liability of the member banks within such district.

Must Deposit Their Notes.

"Such banks shall be authorized to distribute the proceeds of such loans to such of their number and in such amount as they may agree upon, but before so doing they shall request such recipient banks to deposit with a suitable trustee, representing the entire group, their individual notes made in favor of the group protected by such collateral security as may be agreed upon. Any federal reserve bank making such advance shall charge interest thereon at a rate not less than one per centum above its discount rate in effect at the time of making such advance. No such note upon which advances are made by a federal reserve bank under this section shall be eligible under section 16 of this act as collateral security for federal reserve notes.

"No obligations of any foreign government, individual, partnership, association or corporation organized under the laws thereof shall be eligible as collateral security for advances under this section.

"National banking associations are authorized and empowered to indorse or guarantee notes of other member banks evidencing advances made pursuant to the provisions of this section."

Obtain Credit Accommodations.

Section 2. The federal reserve act, as amended, is further amended by adding immediately after such new section 10 [a], an additional new section reading as follows:

"Section 10 [b]. In exceptional and exigent circumstances and when any member bank has no further eligible and acceptable assets available to enable it to obtain adequate credit accommodations through rediscounting at the federal reserve bank or any other method provided by this act other than that provided by section 10 [a] any federal reserve bank, subject in each case to affirmative action by not less than six members of the federal reserve board holding office at the time, may make advances to such member bank on its time or demand promissory notes secured to the satisfaction of such federal reserve bank: Provided, that [1] each such note shall bear interest at a rate of not less than one per centum per annum higher than the highest discount rate in effect at such federal reserve bank on the date of such note; [2] the federal reserve board may by regulation limit and define the classes of assets which may be accepted as security for advances made under authority of this section; and [3] no note accepted for any such advance shall be eligible as collateral security for federal reserve notes.

"No obligation of any foreign government, individual, partnership, association, or corporation organized under the laws thereof shall be eligible as collateral security for advances under this section.

Tender Collateral Security.

"Sec. 3. The second paragraph of section 16 of the federal reserve act, as amended, is amended to read as follows:

"Any federal reserve bank may make application to the local federal reserve agent for such amount of the federal reserve notes hereinbefore provided for as it may require. Such application shall be accompanied with a tender to the local federal reserve agent of collateral in amount equal to the sum of the federal reserve notes thus applied for and issued pursuant to such application.

"The collateral security thus offered shall be notes, drafts, bills of exchange, or acceptances acquired under the provisions of section 13 of this act, or bills of exchange indorsed by a member bank of any federal reserve district and purchased under the provisions of section 14 of this act, or bankers' acceptances purchased under the provisions of said section 14, or gold or gold certificates; provided, however, that at any time within twelve months from the date of the approval of this act, should the federal reserve board deem it in the public interest, it may, upon the affirmative vote of not less than a majority of its members holding office at the time, authorize the federal reserve banks to offer, and the federal reserve agents to accept as such collateral security, direct obligations of the United States.

Call for Additional Security.

"At the expiration of one year from the approval of this act, or sooner should the federal reserve board so decide, such authorization shall terminate and such obligations of the United States be retired as security for federal reserve notes. In no event shall such collateral security be less than the amount of federal reserve notes applied for.

"The federal reserve agent shall each day notify the federal reserve board of all issues and withdrawals of federal reserve notes to and by the federal reserve bank to which he is accredited. The said federal reserve board may at any time call upon a federal reserve bank for additional security to protect the federal reserve notes issued to it."

Now Comes Heroic Story of Mrs. William Tell

William Tell, 35 years old, of Glen View, returned home early yesterday with a threat to kill his wife, Katherine, according to her story. Then her pet dog, a fox terrier, nipped William on the leg. So William threatened to kill the dog. As he dragged the animal to the back yard Mrs. Tell, fearing he was still in the house, tied several sheets together and lowered herself out her bedroom window. She telephoned the police. They arrived in time to save the terrier and to lock up William. Tell later was fined $25 by Justice A. J. Sengstock in Morton Grove.

'TOO DANGEROUS' TO CUT DEFENSE, RITCHIE ASSERTS

Adequate Military Forces Vital, He Declares.

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—We live in times "too dangerous" to try the experiment of weakening our national defenses "as an incentive to other nations," Gov. Albert C. Ritchie told an applauding audience in a speech opening Maryland's celebration of the Washington bicentennial today.

GOV. ALBERT C. RITCHIE. [Harris & Ewing.]

The Maryland executive insisted that the United States must maintain adequate military forces to protect itself against the world, which he declared is just now giving every indication of preparing for another great war. He asserted that the nation's armed forces are now considerably below the provisions of the national defense act and called upon his fellow countrymen to unite to see that these forces are not further weakened.

Appropriately enough the speech was delivered at the foot of the first monument to be erected in honor of George Washington.

He Would Insure Safety.

"A military system adequate for our national defense threatens nobody, but it does assure safety to our people and our possessions, due regard for our self-respect and neutrality and our effectiveness as a factor for 'world peace,' the governor submitted.

"If any one doubts the need of an adequate navy, let him remember the world war could not have been won without the British and American fleets. Let him look to the far east and wonder if tomorrow or the day after the lives and safety of Americans may not rest solely on bluejackets to protect them.

"Our army is at an irreducible minimum, far below that provided by law. Is not this little enough in this human world, marked not alone in both men and nations by human virtues, but by human faults and weaknesses as well, and in which governments are only mortals in power, often impelled by overvaulting ambitions for themselves or for their countries?"

Favors Arms Parley.

Taking up the present disarmament conference, the governor said:

"By all means, let the nations of the world meet at Geneva to consider general disarmament. Let our representatives there find out on what theory European countries think they cannot afford to pay their just debts to us while they can afford to pay huge sums on armaments which are an economic drain on them and an incentive to future wars.

"We see a world which has just emerged from the most destructive war in its history giving every indication of preparing for another one.

"We should not encourage those who would have the United States disarm further as an incentive to other nations to follow our example. I see little to convince me other nations would do so, and we live in times too dangerous to try that experiment.

"No Place for Economy."

"There is no place for economy at the expense of maintenance of a thoroughly adequate national defense policy. Let the government stay out of the fields of private business where it should not be and save the millions it spends yearly there. Let the government remember that the national defense is public business and must have what the protection of our people and our rights require."

Blue Fleet Girds for Attack on Hawaii; Uses Smoke Screen

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, Feb. 11.—Excitement prevailed before dawn today when battleships of the attacking blue fleet appeared on the horizon and a major offensive appeared imminent in the mimic war between the United States army and navy forces here. It was only a gesture, however, and with Saturday the last day on which the island can be captured, according to the rules, the defending black forces are still supreme.

The transport St. Mihiel, of the blue fleet, was located during last night north of Oahu island, and while it was still dark thirteen army planes were sent out to attack the craft. Pilots claimed they landed enough bombs to sink the transport with her 3,000 men. The planes came back without loss.

Lay Down Smoke Screen.

The blue fleet bombarded the Pearl Harbor defenses during the night and also the north shore. Several guns were put out of commission. At dawn the blues laid a smoke screen north of the beach and the army went into action at all points, expecting the long awaited landing. But the screen proved to be only a cover for work in removing the mines.

40 Miles of Fighting.

The landing of soldiers must take place before the time limit of the maneuvers expires Saturday. Land fighting is expected for forty miles between the north beaches and Pearl Harbor, with every foot of the way disputed. The roads are clogged with infantry and artillery from Fort Schofield on the way to reinforce the shore defenses.

It is expeteed that attacking aircraft will try to reduce further the black plane's before a landing is attempted.

Modify Ban on Shore Leave.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Navy department order forbidding shore leave at Honolulu to the officers and men of the battle fleet have been modified by Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, it was announced today. Upon the recommendation of Admiral Frank H. Schofield, commander in chief, the personnel of five submarines and a battleship have been granted permission to visit Honolulu. The six vessels are scheduled to arrive at Pearl Harbor about Feb. 14.

The ban on shore leave for the navy at Honolulu was issued as a result of developments in the Massie rape case last month.

COUNCIL TO O. K. PROXY SIGNING OF TAX WARRANTS

The city council will hold a special meeting tomorrow morning to pass an ordinance authorizing a proxy to sign 60,000 board of education tax warrants for Mayor Cermak. The ordinance follows the established practice of designating a proxy in order to conserve the mayor's time for executive duties.

The warrants are for $50 each, a total of $3,000,000. It is expected that they will be offered to companies supplying coal to the school system in payment of bills which have run since last April and to school teachers in part payment of past due salaries.

The coal companies have served notice on the board that they will make no more deliveries until they get payments on their accounts. A conference between President Myers of the board and coal company officials, scheduled for yesterday, was postponed until today. Some of the companies are said to have agreed to accept the warrants in lieu of cash.

RUSSIA PLEADS FOR ARMS CUTS; HITS PARIS PLAN

Litvinov Stresses Total Disarm Scheme.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Feb. 11.—Instead of trying merely to unload the Russian total disarmament package on the disarmament conference, Maxim Litvinov, soviet commissar for foreign affairs, deposited for consideration today a series of proposals on the scale of others already piled up here for the various commissions to work on, once everybody has had his say.

Speaking ever so politely, the commissar said that the soviets wish destruction of the most aggressive types of armament, including tanks, superheavy long range artillery, ships of more than 10,000 tons, naval artillery of more than twelve inch caliber, aircraft carriers, military dirigibles, heavy bombing planes and other means of destruction from the air, and all apparatus for chemical, incendiary and bacteriological warfare.

Would Disarm Japan.

After they had recovered from the shock of the bolshevik's polite presentation of his thesis, however, some of the delegations saw in it essentially an offer by the proprietors of the world's biggest army to renounce the use of weapons they cannot manufacture.

Litvinov definitely conditioned his offer on the equivalent of disarmament by the powers on Russia's borders, by which he meant principally Japan. He charged that Russian émigrés are mobilizing in the east.

Litvinov gave especial attention to the French. He took hold of the French proposals for an armed league to enforce international justice as a preliminary to a reduction of armaments, and he brought out the obvious criticisms that many other powers have been aching to bring up, chiefly that it would mean going back over the problems which have already been fruitlessly debated for ten years at Geneva.

"World Army Insufficient."

An international army at the service of the league would not be big enough, he thought to handle any possible combination of aggressors. "Far from preventing war, it could not always even assure victory to the side attacked," he said.

"What guarantees are there that an aggressor will really be found," he said, "and that when found it will really be he? The man in the street would have little difficulty in giving an answer, and no doubt his answer would be the right one. But when it is an international organization of individual governments which have to give an answer, they are not always ready and are reduced to issuing appeals, exhortations, and threats simultaneously to both sides.

Stresses Total Disarmament.

"What guarantees are there," he continued, "that an international army would not be exploited in the interests of some state which has won for itself a leading position in the international organization through separate alliances, ententes, and agreements?"

Litvinov, of course, stressed the need of a general and total disarmament as the only way to assure security and avert war. Mere limitation and reduction, he said, could not be enough.

"The soviets want security against war as distinguished from the security by which is meant assurance of the utmost possible chance of victory to a state subjected to an attack," he pointed out.

All of which, he said, does not mean that the soviets deny the efficacy of all other ways of consolidating peace.

Complains of Mistreatment.

Litvinov again complained pitifully that the soviets are being mistreated.

"One of the strongest naval powers," he said, "does not conceal its hostility and even goes so far as to refuse to extend normal peaceful relations."

American Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson, who had been vaguely smiling, pricked up his ears at this. Andre Tardieu, French war minister, did the same when the commissar cast reflections on countries which refused to confirm pacts of nonaggression with Russia.

ROB TWO ON PAY DAY.

Two bandits with drawn revolvers took $175 from Elmer Easton, 1118 North State street, and $90 from Fred Saunderson, 3217 Belle Plaine avenue, soon after they were paid by the International Exterminator company, at 1150 North Wells street, yesterday afternoon.

HIGH WIND HITS CITY; MERCURY UP FOR RECORD

Damage Heavy; Cold on the Way.

Record temperatures, extremely high winds, and thunder and lightning yesterday gave Chicago one of its most unusual February days.

The wind velocity, according to the weather bureau's instruments, reached a maximum of 62 miles an hour in a gust. The highest official sustained velocity was 42 miles an hour. However, THE TRIBUNE'S anemograph showed that at the top of Tribune tower the velocity was almost steady at 48 miles an hour from 3 to 4 p. m. Gust readings as high as 65 miles were noted on the velocity disk. For several hours the anemograph showed velocities over 40 miles.

Much Colder After Record.

The official forecast indicated that it would be much colder today than yesterday, when the maximum temperature was 64, a record unapproached on Feb. 11. The highest previous reading on this date was 55, in 1895. Today, it is expected, will be partly cloudy and tomorrow fair.

Considerable damage was caused to buildings and signs in the city and suburbs by the gale. Trees were uprooted and wires hurled down. Downstate winds of tornado force caused large property loss and the injury of several persons. In Cincinnati fifty houses were unroofed by a tornado and in Indianapolis two men lost their lives in a storm.

At about 7 a. m., shortly after the thunderstorm that precipitated a half inch of rain on the city in a short time, the roof was ripped from Forest Ridge public school at 149th street and Laramie avenue, in Bremen township. No one was in the school at the time. The 107 pupils took an enforced holiday and it was estimated repairs would cost $10,000.

Fifteen Buildings Damaged.

Building Commissioner John Ericson said that fifteen buildings in the city had been damaged, most of them small structures. Skyscrapers of the modern type were unharmed. Frank D. Chase, engineer and architect, said that they are built to withstand a pressure of forty pounds to the square inch and will stand up under a wind of five times as high as any that occur in this region.

Police roped off the sidewalk when a cornice on the Hunter building at 327 West Madison street was loosened and firemen climbed to the roof to pull the stone work out of its precarious position. A sign was blown off a one story building at 500 North Michigan avenue and a billboard at the southeast corner of Grand and Michigan avenues was twisted and overturned.

Windows Broken, Trees Hit.

Windows were blown out at 120 East 115th street, 10857 South Michigan avenue, and 4700 South Ashland avenue. The roof of a porch at 7418 Parnell avenue was ripped off. Trees were uprooted at 1715 West 100th street, 4725 Kenmore avenue, 7341 Rogers avenue, 1341 Pratt boulevard, 2312 Carolina street and 2322 North Spaulding avenue.

Wires were torn from poles in 9th and 10th avenues in Maywood.

Damage was even more severe downstate. At the village of Mapleton, twelve miles from Canton, the schoolhouse was destroyed by a tornado. Near Mapleton the home of Mrs. Mamie Beetler was leveled. Members of the household escaped with slight injuries. The total loss in the vicinity was about $50,000.

Grundy County Loss $10,000.

At Braceville, in southern Grundy county, the loss due to wind was estimated at $10,000. Two barns were blown down on the farm of Riley Foor, near Pana. Peoria, where the temperature climbed to 74; Morris, Shelbyville, and Mattoon were among the Illinois towns reporting damage.

One of the men killed at Indianapolis, Ind., was struck by lightning and the other was crushed when a crane on which he was working blew over on him. Near Cleveland, O., three men in a boat were swamped by high waves on Lake Erie and were drowned.

New Attack Case

HONOLULU, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Police today investigated a complaint of Mrs. Fannie Tribus, 40, that she was attacked by a man late last night. "He held me and kissed me," she said. "I finally freed myself, hit him over the head with a milk bottle, and he ran away."

Des Plaines Taxpayers to Plan School Fund Drive

Taxpayers living in the Des Plaines school district have been asked to attend a meeting to be held in the Des Plaines Junior High school tonight, where a campaign to raise funds for four grade schools will be discussed. There is a possibility, it was said, that these schools will have to be closed unless tax anticipation warrants can be sold. Several teachers, unpaid for two months, have announced that they will resign unless they are paid at least a part of their salaries on March 1. The four schools have 1,000 pupils and sixty teachers.

JOBLESS RIOTERS BEAT PREMIER IN NEWFOUNDLAND

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Feb. 11.—(AP)—A delegation of unemployed today assaulted Prime Minister Squires and other officials, after battling police and partly wrecking the government council chambers here.

The mêlée followed upon several meetings in the city and came after two attempts had been made to interview the premier. Earlier in the day 500 men and women assembled in front of the prime minister's office and demanded a hearing on the dole, which now is $1.60 a month per person. They were met by the secretary of state, who told them there was no hope for an increase. A parade of about 1,500 then marched through the city, with the march halting at the council chambers.

A delegation was sent to interview the premier. The delegates waited for two hours. Finally the crowd became unmanageable and stormed the building. Rushing into hallways, the crowd broke through police lines, pulled banisters from stairs, and broke plate glass in doors and windows. Several attacked the premier and others with him and were manhandling them when police finally brought order. Premier Squires was hit on the jaw and knocked to the floor. Both hands were cut by missiles hurled by the crowd. He also received numerous scratches.

ROCKFORD BANKS IN PLEA TO LEAVE DEPOSITS INTACT

Rockford, Ill., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Every depositor in Rockford's banks will be asked to sign a pledge not to withdraw his accounts.

The decision to ask this support of Rockford citizens was reached today when plans evolved by the "committee of six" were approved by representatives of city-wide organizations. The suggestion was made after the Rockford National bank, one of the largest in the city, closed yesterday.

Mayor J. H. Hallstrom is chairman of the committee which enlisted a volunteer organization of 2,800 persons in support of the plan.

Rochelle Bank Closed.

Rochelle, Ill., Feb. 11.—(AP)—The People's Loan and Trust company was closed today by order of the directors. The bank was robbed of several thousand dollars last fall.

Mother of Polly Moran Undergoes Operation

FACTOR IS FREED OF EXTRADITION ORDER BY JUDGE

Released on $50,000 Bond Pending Appeal.

John (Jake the Barber) Factor, who is wanted by Great Britain as an $8,000,000 fake stock swindler, was freed of an order committing him for extradition by Federal Judge George A. Carpenter yesterday.

JOHN FACTOR.

Judge Carpenter sustained a habeas corpus petition which contended that Factor cannot be extradited because his alleged offense is not a crime in Illinois, and the treaty between Great Britain and the United States provides that the offense must be a crime not only in the country demanding extradition but in the state in which the accused is apprehended.

Freed on $50,000 Bond.

Factor was ordered released from the custody of the United States marshal in bond of $50,000. Judge Carpenter said Factor ought not to go free without giving bond until the final disposition of the extradition case by the Appellate courts. He explained that the Supreme court has recognized the authority of a lower court to demand bail in such cases on the theory that its judgment may be reversed by a higher court.

Mayor J. H. Hallstrom is chairman of the committee which enlisted a volunteer organization of 2,800 persons in support of the plan.

Franklin R. Overmyer, counsel for the British crown, announced that he would begin immediately to prepare an appeal to the United States Circuit court in the name of Marshal H. C. W. Laubenheimer, the respondent in the habeas corpus action.

His Basis for Appeal.

Mr. Overmyer announced that he would base his appeal on the ruling of Commissioner Edwin K. Walker, who certified an order for Factor's extradition to the secretary of state, on a ruling of Federal Judge Louis FitzHenry, who refused to free Factor on the same ground relied upon by Judge Carpenter, and on another ruling by former Federal Judge Landis, which was sustained by the United States Supreme court.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES CALL 30 MILLION CUT IMPOSSIBLE

Oppose Kelly Proposal as Too Severe.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The school trustees yesterday openly opposed the recommendation of the D. F. Kelly tax warrant sales committee that the 1932 budget be trimmed an added $30,000,000. They referred to the suggestion with such phrases as "impossible," "impractical," "that it would wreck the schools," "it would mean a severe slash in salaries," and "the Kelly committee is not fully informed on the public schools."

It was significant, however, that only one trustee said he will fight any further reduction in the budget. Technically the budget now totals $93,820,145, but the trustees have agreed to pare out an added $3,775,000, so the budget really stands at $90,045,000.

Cite Growth of Schools.

The chief argument of the trustees against a $30,000,000 slash to the level of 1924 is the growth in the schools. The superintendent's department and the fiscal agents of the board were busy compiling data. When this task is completed, the board plans to ask a meeting with the Kelly committee "to explain the financial aspects of the school situation," as one trustee phrased it.

Roughly reckoned, there are $1,000 more pupils in the junior and senior high schools than in 1924, according to the trustees, and those are the spots where the school costs are highest. Another figure tentatively put out is that the net increase in the schools since 1924 is about 74,000 pupils, and the increase in teachers has been 2,490.

While Mr. Kelly did not add to nor explain his recommendation yesterday, it is understood that his advisers reckoned on an increase of 74,000 pupils since 1924 and allowed $130 a year for each pupil on the average, or a total added cost of $9,620,000 to the 1924 expense. It is reported that the Kelly informants took this into account before writing the board this advice:

"It therefore seems obvious that the businesslike thing to do would be to prepare a budget that is based on 1922 and 1924 expenditures, rather than on 1929 taxes."

Whether that report is correct will probably be disclosed if the Kelly committee meets with the board. The record expense for 1924, as officially published by the board, was $50,848,132, but at that time the loss and cost of collecting taxes was not classified as an expense.

Add Tax Loss to Cost.

That cost in 1924 was $4,273,121, so that the total expenditures of the school system for 1924 may be said to have been $55,121,253 as compared with the 1932 budget of $93,820,145. To the $55,121,253 expense for 1924 may be added the estimated cost of $9,620,000 for 74,000 added pupils, bringing the total to $64,741,253.

The per pupil cost of the schools for 1930 and 1931 has not yet been made available, but the trustees cited the costs for previous years to prove that they are not extravagant. The following table shows the cost per pupil a year for elementary, junior high, and senior high schools, together with the membership in the schools:

Year.	Elementary.	Junior High.	Senior High	Membership.
1928	88.31	118.33	149.55	451,166
1927	81.08	110.03	146.49	439,104
1926	77.51	103.32	148.43	426,777
1925	77.11	110.02	151.12	416,184
1924	77.18	124.36	149.60	404,492
1923	77.75	.....	152.15	385,564

The per pupil cost at the Normal college, Crane college and the continuation schools run higher than in the high schools, according to the board's records.

Commenting upon the Kelly proposal, President Myers said: "I have no desire to criticize, but it is impracticable to trim out $30,000,000."

"It is impossible," commented Trustee English. "How can we educate 80,000 more pupils now than 10 years ago at the cost of 10 years ago?"

"It is beyond our power to trim out $30,000,000 without wrecking the school system," said Trustee McJunkin.

Mr. Kelly's chief argument for a large cut is his contention that the property owners cannot pay the taxes necessary to operate the schools on the basis which the board proposes to spend this year. No trustee challenged that claim yesterday. No trustee has had the courage to predict that the board will obtain this year more than half of the $90,045,000 it proposes to spend.

PUBLIC MUST AID IN WARRANT SALE, D. F. KELLY ASSERTS

D. F. Kelly, president of The Fair and chairman of the tax warrants sales committee named by the mayor, made an ardent appeal for a civic awakening yesterday as the speaker at a luncheon of the Hamilton club. Mr. Kelly said the tax warrant drive will start in about 30 days. While he spoke hopefully of the results, he admitted that order cannot be restored in a day.

"But 1932 will bring out the best and the worst in all of us," said Mr. Kelly, "and we will attain the best results only if men who are disinterested are encouraged to work faithfully for the improvement of local conditions.

"When the necessary legislation is obtained and court decisions are obtained, we will start the drive for the sale of tax warrants. Without that sale the city, county, schools and other local governments cannot obtain cash with which to operate and perform the necessary services for the community.

"The banks cannot be expected to purchase more warrants, so they must be absorbed by the public."

TAX BOOTLEGGER AND END DEFICIT, M'ADOO'S PLEA

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—If a dry Uncle Sam will tax the wet bootlegger 100 per cent on his illegal profits our federal budget will be balanced, William Gibbs McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury, suggested today in a letter to Representative Charles R. Crisp [Dem., Ga.], acting chairman of the house ways and means committee.

Basing his argument on the theory that under present conditions "the criminal is rewarded and the honest man is punished," Mr. McAdoo demanded legal taxation of illicit business and estimated that a 100 per cent tax on bootleg profits would turn $1,500,000,000 in revenue into the United States treasury annually.

"It may not be possible to collect 100 per cent of the illegal income," Mr. McAdoo said in his letter, "but presently the wholesalers—the crux of the problem—could be reached, and if they should be driven out of business the small operator or retailer will find it difficult to ply his nefarious trade."

Earlier in the day Representative Crisp advanced a new deficit remedy on the floor of the house when he insisted that congress has got to have enough "backbone" to levy extra taxes and the nation has got to "gird itself with stamina" to pay those extra taxes if we are to balance the national budget.

"Soaking the rich," he maintained, as members on both sides of the aisle cheered his impassioned speech, "would not be sound economics. The revenue necessary to the balancing of the budget must come "of necessity," he declared from either some form of general manufactures or sales tax or from an excise tax levied on sundry and divers commodities or industries.

California Landslide Blocks Railway Traffic

Santa Barbara, Cal., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—A landslide six miles south of here, due to the continued rains of the last three weeks, today buried 100 feet of the coast line at Summerland and covered the Southern Pacific railroad tracks. Train traffic north and south, between San Francisco and Los Angeles, was held up from eight to 18 hours. The landslide ate away an 80 foot bluff.

NEAR NORTH SIDE SWELLS THE LIST OF UNPAID TAXES

Writs Block Collection in Several Cases.

Some of the property owners in the area immediately north of the Chicago river have apparently followed the example of certain loop owners who have failed to pay any part of their 1929 taxes. The payments were due last May 15.

The county tax lawyers assert that eventually every real estate owner will be required to pay taxes. It is explained that possibly some have been assessed too much. If those property owners would pay what they deem fair and contest the remainder in court the local governments would have that cash on which to operate.

Officials point out that a measure is now before the legislature to give credit on future tax bills for any excess tax payment which a property owner may now make.

No Taxes Paid on This Property.

A property described in volume 479 of the tax records is one of those on which no 1929 taxes have been paid. This property, valued for taxing purposes at $579,287, is credited on the records to Ben Cohen, 139 North Clark street. The taxes are $36,437.16 for 1929. Objection to that amount was filed in court last July.

Another property is credited on the records to the Chicago Title and Trust company, which probably holds it in trust for the real owner. That property is described under items 540 and 541 in volume 479. It is valued at $53,875 and the taxes on it total $3,388.74. Its owner did not file a protest in court, but permitted the property to be forfeited to the state for taxes.

Lessee Does Not Pay.

The Lambert Tree estate has paid $102,962.05 in taxes and is contesting only $15,269.62. One property of the Tree estate has been leased on the agreement that the lessee pay the taxes. This property is described in tax volume 306, item 486. The tenant has not paid the taxes. Instead he has objected in court.

The north side property described under item 498, volume 479, is credited on the tax records to the East Gate Hotel company. This property is valued at $172,804. The taxes total $10,869.38. No part of them has been paid.

Under item 403, volume 479, is listed a property valued at $100,546, which is set opposite the names of Joseph H. and H. M. De Frees, care of of the Michigan-Ohio Building corporation. An injunction has been obtained to prevent collection of the $6,324.35 in taxes, and no part of the sum has been paid.

Writ Bars Tax Collection.

Foreman Brothers Banking company, care of Hedberg & Bistor, are the names set opposite a legal description of a property listed under item 195, volume 479. This property is valued at $334,750. An injunction restrains collection of the taxes of $21,055.78.

In volume 479, item 506, is described a property credited to J. V. Farwell. This is valued for the purposes of assessment at $519,065. The taxes on the property total $32,649.19. An injunction prevents their collection.

Under item 120, volume 479, is a property credited to H. A. Howard. It is valued at $217,875. The taxes of $13,704.34 have been objected to and no part of them has been paid.

DONATIONS TO FUND FOR HUNGRY SCHOOL CHILDREN FALL OFF

Gifts to the Hungry School Children's fund fell off yesterday, although it had been pointed out that the last of the balance had been withdrawn the day before and sent to the school board for distribution to the 211 schools that have been dependent upon the fund for free lunches.

On Wednesday the fund stood at zero until contributions sent in during the day totaled $192.45. Yesterday's contributions of $140.35 give the fund a total of $332.80. It requires $3,000 to feed the neediest of the public school children in 211 schools for a week or ten days.

A total of $35,712 has been received by the fund since it was started last fall.

Freshman Girls at N. U. Boycott Japanese Tea

Freshman co-eds of Northwestern university yesterday began an economic campaign against Japan. They agreed to drink no more Japanese tea. They declared they would maintain this boycott at restaurants, sorority parties, and sorority "rushes." The freshman boycott followed an open meeting held on Wednesday night, in which a resolution was adopted recommending commercial pressure on Japan to influence her to cease her military policies in China.

Anne Nichols' Ex-Aid Ends Life by Hanging

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—William DeLignemare, 42, former business manager for Anne Nichols, and the playwright's representative during most of the long run of "Abie's Irish Rose," committed suicide today by hanging. He had broken with Miss Nichols last year, and had been in reduced circumstances and despondent in recent months. DeLignemare formerly was an attaché of the French embassy at Washington, D. C. Letters in his effects, according to police, indicated that Miss Nichols had helped him financially recently.

MANY PROTEST "ECONOMIES" IN COUNTY BUDGET

Charitable Institutions Complain of Cuts.

Copies of the county's $42,199,000 budget were made available for public scrutiny yesterday and the immediate chorus of complaints which went up from representatives of county employés, civic organizations, and taxpayers gave promise of a lively session on Feb. 20. On that date a hearing will be held at which the public may offer suggestions. The budget must be adopted in final form on Feb. 29.

Forty per cent of the "drastic reductions" or $608,234 of the $1,500,000 saving claimed by the commissioners affected the charitable institutions cared for by the county, despite the many speeches made by members of the board at budget hearings to the effect that economies should be made elsewhere. The remaining 60 per cent was made up by the reduction of approximately 15 per cent in the salaries of employés.

Add 62 Jobs to Pay Roll.

However, the "retrenchment budget" shows that the commissioners added 62 jobs to the pay roll. In 1931 there were 3,575 regular employés and for 1932 this number was increased to 3,637. Commissioner Amelia Sears has insisted that 389 jobs should be lopped off if real economy is desired.

The "economy budget" shows an increase of $1,706,241 over 1931, despite the following slashes in the allotments for charitable institutions:

	1931.	1932.
County hospital	$2,836,803	$2,435,453
Oak Forest [poor farm]	967,805	850,488
Bureau of public welfare	1,447,634	1,398,066
Home for dependent children	255,860	215,861
	$5,508,102	$4,899,868

Representatives of these four institutions told the commissioners that there would be large increases in the number of persons to be cared for this year. Assistant Controller Michael J. O'Connor said that the county's share of the state poor relief bonds now being sold would probably go in part to supplement the above reduced appropriations.

Nursing School Spared.

One institution which did not feel the paring knife was the Cook County School of Nursing, whose dean, Miss Laura R. Logan, was once summoned before the board to explain purchases of high priced furniture for her living quarters with county funds. The new nursing home now under construction calls for a penthouse with three baths for the accommodation of Miss Logan.

Commissioner Charles H. Weber, who is chairman of a committee investigating the nursing school expenditures, yesterday sent an auditor to bring in the pay roll records at the school.

Photos Win Divorce

MRS. HELEN F. EGAN.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Every time her husband hit her in the eye she hurried to a photographer and had her picture taken, Mrs. Helen F. Egan, 4906 West Adams street, told Judge Craig Hood yesterday in the Circuit court. She showed him three photographs of black eyes and bruises which won her a divorce from Redmond J. Egan Jr., a city hall clerk, and caused Judge Hood to send Egan to jail for six months.

The jail sentence was technically for contempt of court. Egan was $285 in arrears on temporary alimony payments.

"When he was sober he was wonderful," Mrs. Egan said of her husband. "But one night he came home awfully drunk and demanded that I get up at once and give his mother two dozen eggs. When I refused he knocked me unconscious. When I came to, I was lying in a pool of blood, and my entire face was black and blue."

Egan contested the case, denying the charges of cruelty.

O. K. FOR BOND ISSUE CLEARS PARK OFFICIALS

Officials of the west parks system expressed satisfaction yesterday at the adoption by the legislature of a bill authorizing a $4,000,000 bond issue for the west parks. "Although the bill carried no emergency clause and consequently does not become effective until July," said President W. R. James, "we are greatly encouraged."

"On the basis of this bill some means may be found whereby we can get some cash for our employés. Meanwhile, it will undoubtedly serve to strengthen their credit. Our people are happy." There are between 900 and 1,000 employés, according to Mr. James, none of whom has been paid since June.

MEDICAL GROUP ASSAILS BEVAN'S LIQUOR CHARGE

Calls Doctor Violator if He Has Evidence.

Dr. Arthur Dean Bevan, chief of the department of surgery at the Presbyterian hospital and former president of the American Medical association, showed an "extraordinary lack of confidence in his professional brethren" when he testified recently before the Bingham senatorial committee that 90 per cent of liquor prescriptions written by physicians had a bootleg taint.

This accusation is contained in the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical association, which will be distributed tomorrow. The charge is part of an editorial criticising Dr. Bevan's testimony.

In addition to this editorial protest, said to be one of many emanating from medical circles throughout the country, Dr. Bevan possibly may be summoned before the ethics committee of the Chicago Medical society to defend his senate statements.

The Journal editorial points out that if Dr. Bevan has actual evidence to support his testimony he is guilty under the law with those violating the law for not turning over that evidence to the authorities.

Dr. Bevan, in his senate testimony, said that many physicians with small incomes increased their earnings $1,200 annually by writing out liquor prescriptions. He asserted that many physicians thus permitted druggists and bootleggers to sell liquor by the case.

Guilty If He Has Evidence.

"If Dr. Bevan has actual evidence that any physician is selling his prescriptions en masse in order to permit druggists and bootleggers to dispose of whisky in case lots, he, and all of those who possess the information, are equally guilty with those who are violating the law in permitting the violation," states the Journal. "If he has not the evidence he is certainly without warrant in making such a statement.

"His statement reflects great discredit on a profession whose ideals are certainly as high as those of any other professional group. As a leader of that profession for one year he should be more familiar than he seems to be with its ethical standards and with the extent to which physicians actually are guided by a proper appreciation of moral values."

Husband and Wife Held Up in Office; Lose Cash, Gems

F. E. Shapera and his wife were preparing to close the office of the Alliance Discount corporation at 1169 Diversey parkway, of which Shapera is manager, when a robber entered last night. Mrs. Shapera was forced to give up a $1,500 diamond ring and a watch valued at $500. Her husband surrendered $105 to the bandit.

Scaramuzzo Is Quizzed by U. S. on Citizenship

Louis Scaramuzzo, 42 years old, 5247 South Sawyer avenue, convicted two weeks ago as a gang armorer, was rearrested yesterday by the detective bureau at the request of the federal government. He was questioned as to his citizenship last night and will be further questioned this morning. According to government officials Scaramuzzo has taken out his citizenship papers, but may be deported under a clause of the immigration law which specifies a certain time during which the citizen cannot be convicted of a crime.

HELD ON LARCENY CHARGE.

Harry Ward, 40 years old, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $5,000 by Judge James F. Fardy in the felony court yesterday on a charge of larceny. He was captured Wednesday by Summerdale police.

SENATE RADICALS ASK 375 MILLION MORE FOR RELIEF

Match Democrats' Plea for $750,000,000.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—In an effort to catch up with the Democrats' $750,000 amended relief bill, senate proponents of the original La Follette-Costigan bill for $375,000,000 relief today indorsed the amendment of Senator Norris, radical Republican from Nebraska, which provides for another $375,000 for road construction and brings the two proposals together arithmetically.

GEORGE W. NORRIS.

The main difference is still the method of relief—whether an out and out gift, as advocated by the La Follette-Costigan bill, or a flexible loan, as outlined by the amended bill introduced by the Democratic Senators Black, Walsh, and Bulkley.

May Reach Vote Today.

On this point there was sharp debate today and will be again tomorrow, when the measures are expected to come to a vote.

Senator Reed [Rep., Pa.], in a bitter attack on the whole idea of federal aid to local unemployment problems, opposed the bill, but said if he had to have it he at least did not want it administered by any federal bureaucrat at Washington.

"A local relief committee would certainly administer any relief funds more promptly and more intelligently than any Washington bureaucrat," Senator Reed said.

"They talk about the guiding hand of a federal bureau. We've seen enough of bureaus here in Washington to know that the guiding hands are usually resting on the brakes."

Reed Attacks Plan.

Of the whole idea of federal funds being gathered in, then allocated to the states, he offered this criticism:

"I see no advantage in taking money away from the states to give it back to them the next day."

Attacking the questionnaire which Senator La Follette, before drawing up his bill, sent to various communities, asking them whether or not they needed federal aid, Senator Reed charged that the questionnaire "surely tempted every community to say it would like federal aid." He particularly objected to the question which asked if federal aid would not lessen the local tax burden.

Lewis Is Aroused.

Challenged by Senator La Follette to give an answer to a local community which can't balance its budget, Senator Reed shouted:

"That's their lookout, just the way it's our lookout now to balance the federal budget. Not until we have developed the spunk to balance the federal budget are we ever going to straighten out the financial tangle."

Senator Frazier [Rep., N. D.], urging relief, intimated that Illinois was in danger of revolt due to unemployment and that Chicago was thinking of National Guard protection Senator Lewis [Dem., Ill.] jumped up to interrupt with the information that such an inference was a libel on the state and on the peace and honor of its citizens.

Senator Frazier said he based his information on some printed stories he had read. He read into the record rules for combating mobs, as found in the National Guard manual authorized by Adjt. Gen. Roy D. Keehn.

Pass La Follette Amendments.

The senate passed two La Follette amendments to his bill, one eliminating a provision requiring a federal board to pass upon the personnel of the state units administering the funds, the other removing from the children's bureau the power of investigation of state agencies that applied for help.

The senate defeated the amendment to the amended bill suggested by Senator Tydings [Dem., Md.] requiring application for loans to be made through the various state legislatures instead of through the governors.

PIN REMOVED FROM THROAT.

Frank Nunan, 10 years old, was reported recovering yesterday at the Presbyterian hospital, where an open safety pin, which he swallowed on Tuesday in his home at Deland, was removed from his throat by Dr. Edward McGinnis.

RYERSON HEADS BODY TO HANDLE NEW RELIEF FUND

The new state emegrency relief commission appointed by Gov. Emmerson to administer the $18,750,000 to be raised through the state relief bond issue held its first meeting yesterday and elected Edward L. Ryerson Jr. chairman. Arthur Eldman, Belvidere banker, was chosen vice chairman, and Joseph Cudahy, secretary.

There will be no formal allocation of the relief fund by counties, Mr. Ryerson said. Instead, the money will be distributed where it is needed most. Two factors will govern this distribution: the amount of relief funds raised in each county by private means and the amount paid by each county into the gasoline tax fund, which may be used to retire the relief bonds.

"No appropriation for any charity will be made without the definite approval of the county board in its county," Mr. Ryerson said. "This money will supplement and not supplant other relief funds."

Subscriptions to the tax warrants issued to finance the fund reached a total of $3,920,000 yesterday. Among the large subscribers were: Marshall Field estate, $300,000; Swift & Co., $250,000; Chicago Stock exchange, $200,000; Sears, Roebuck & Co., $100,000; Quaker Oats company, $100,000.

FURTHER STAY IS SOUGHT FOR TERRY DRUGGAN

Petitions alleging illness of Terry Druggan, beer baron, under sentence of 18 months to Leavenworth penitentiary for income tax fraud, and Philip D'Andrea, Al Capone's bodyguard, in the county jail for contempt of court, were filed in the court of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday. When Judge Wilkerson did not appear on the bench the D'Andrea petition was withdrawn and will be filed again today.

The petition on Druggan's behalf asked that, since the defendant was still seriously ill, he be granted a stay of one week before starting to Leavenworth. A week ago Judge Wilkerson granted a stay of seven days when Dr. Louis Schmidt told the court that Druggan was suffering from acute prostatitis and would have to be operated upon unless he obtained rest. Druggan is under Dr. Schmidt's care at St. Luke's hospital. The petition was filed by Attorney William F. Waugh.

The D'Andrea petition, filed by Attorney Michael Ahern, asked that the defendant be removed to a hospital for an operation for hernia. The petition set forth that D'Andrea underwent an appendicitis operation in 1917 and hernia had since set in.others.

FIND MISSING WITNESSES IN BOMBING CASE

Four state witnesses who failed to appear in the Felony court yesterday to testify against Harry G. Karg, 5358 Wentworth avenue, a member of the electrical workers' union, charged with throwing a stench bomb in the Château ballroom, 3810 Broadway, were found by police last night. Earlier it was feared that they had been kidnaped.

The witnesses, Carlton E. Fox, manager of the ballroom, and Leonard Stahl, 4740 Winthrop avenue; George Watkins, 2504 North Clark street, and Edward Sprungman, 849 Grace street, employés, refused to explain their absence from court. Fox, however, admitted to Lieut. Jens Hanson of the Town Hall station that he "did not find it convenient to appear." All promised to appear at the next hearing on Feb. 24.

Karg was seized by employés of the dance hall on Jan. 31 after a stench bomb had been tossed in the place. Fox at the time told police he had had trouble with the electrical workers' union. The case of Karg was called before Judge James F. Fardy yesterday, but was postponed because of the nonappearance of Fox and the Parker Duofold Pens and Pencils, such as the radiant Burgundy and Black, and Sea Green Pearl and Black, are all style leaders. Our finest and latest streamlined models.

It puts the unemployed POCKET pen at work on your desk—supplies you a complete Parker Desk Set—half-time pens now go on full time

The Parker Pen Co. says: "Pay nothing for the first million of these attractively boxed Penparker ensembles when you buy a Parker Duofold Pen. We want hosts of people to discover personally how Parker Desk Sets double the use of Parker convertible pocket pens!"

It's here! The Penparker! A handsome little pen stand in which you park your POCKET pen when you reach your desk.

You merely snap your pocket clip into the Penparker grip. It holds your pen firmly—upright—in writing position! It all but hands you the pen when you want to write! Not some scratchy steel pen that requires constant renewing and dipping into a messy inkwell, not some fountain pen strange to your hand—but the quick-starting Parker Duofold, which you carry away in your pocket—your favorite point!

To those who purchase a guaranteed-for-life Parker Duofold Pen promptly at $10, $7, or only $5, we will include not only the Penparker, but also a tapered end to attach to your pen, and a 30,000-word bottle of Parker Quink—the quick-drying, pen-cleaning ink—all these in a velour-lined gift box—a $2 value—for which you pay nothing. Penparker ensembles, including, if desired, Duofold Pencils to match, with "envelopener" tapered end (a handy paper cutter on the end of the pencil), only $2.75 extra.

But you must act quickly—the million gift Penparkers will be taken rapidly—our offer may be withdrawn any day.

So go to the nearest pen dealer before too late. Right now is your opportunity to have a complete desk set without paying anything except for the great Parker Duofold Pocket Pen, which you would buy later anyway. The Parker Pen Company, Janesville, Wisconsin. 144A

NORTHUP CLEARS 4 OF SANITARY PAY ROLL TAINT

Prosecutor Voices Regret for Clerical Error.

First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup, who successfully prosecuted Timothy J. Crowe and three other former officials of the sanitary district, yesterday issued a statement admitting that a reëxamination of his records showed that at least four persons were erroneously included in a list of legislators and former legislators who appeared on the district pay rolls or sponsored district employés during the whoopee days of 1927-'28. The list was made public last Saturday.

The men given exoneration by the prosecutor are Representative Truman A. Snell [Dem., Carlinville], who has filed for the Democratic nomination for attorney general; Representative Charles Franz [Dem., Freeport], Representative Charles M. Turner [Rep., Wenona], and former Representative Ernest Turner of Chicago.

Stands by Rest of Names.

Prosecutor Northup, however, refused to admit that his office was mistaken in regard to several other members of the legislature who on Thursday made speeches before the house saying that they had been erroneously listed. He said that the names of some of the men show on employé sponsorship cards of the district, and that if the charges are not correct, then they are due to forgeries by some one in the district offices.

"The names of Truman A. Snell, Charles Franz, Charles M. Turner, and Ernest Turner were given out as having sponsored employés of the sanitary district," said Mr. Northup. "A reexamination of the records in this office shows that none of these gentlemen sponsored any employé of the district. The list was given out Saturday during my absence from the office by an employé who carelessly included these names.

"I regret the mistake very much and stand ready to do anything within my power to correct the false impression which has been given out. As to Messrs. Franz, Charles Turner, and Ernest Turner, the employé in question confused them with legislators of the same names who actually did sponsor employés to the district."

Explains Turner Names.

S. B. Turner of Chicago, the prosecutor said, is the one whose name appears on the district sponsor cards instead of the names of Charles Turner and Ernest Turner. The name of former Representative Matt Franz of Chicago was on sponsor cards instead of that of Representative Franz of Freeport, it was explained.

Among those who complained to Prosecutor Northup about the list was former Representative Frederick Bippus of Chicago. Bippus' son, an attorney, appeared on the district pay roll for seven months, the prosecutor said. However, both Bippus and his son said they had no knowledge of this and that none of the pay checks were ever received by any member of the Bippus family.

The Case of McSweeney.

Prosecutor Northup said that the records show that Representative John R. McSweeney [Dem., Chicago], one of those who made a speech of protest before the house, was on three sponsorship cards, and that his brother, James E. McSweeney, now secretary of the Chicago police department, was one of the Illinois valley investigators and collected $2,750 in salary and $1,315 in expense accounts from the district.

Representative McSweeney's name also appears as a sponsor of district pay rollers on the list compiled by a legislative committee headed by Representative R. J. Branson of Centralia, which investigated the district pay roll. When asked by the committee whether he had any relatives on the pay roll, McSweeney said: "I am in no position to answer for my relations."

Representative Emmett McGrath [Dem., Brookfield], who declared that he did not sponsor district employés, is shown on the cards as the sponsor for two. McGrath is also listed in the Branson committee report. Questioned by the committee as to whether any of his relatives held any public office other than an elective one, McGrath said they did not.

DAWES TOLD HOW TO RUN 2 BILLION BOARD BY GOV. LA FOLLETTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Gov. Philip La Follette of Wisconsin, who is spending several days here with his brother. Senator Robert M. La Follette, discussed with Gen. Charles G. Dawes, president of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the setting up of state organizations to pass on applications for loans.

GOV. PHILIP LA FOLLETTE.

"I discussed with Gen. Dawes the advisability of a state organization which would be able to present the whole picture for each individual state, rather than attempting to handle all of the individual applications of bankers and others in trouble piecemeal here in Washington," said the Wisconsin governor.

"I judged from what Gen. Dawes said that that is exactly what they have in mind doing."

Woman Gives Up to Face Charge of Embezzlement

Martha Miner, 43 years old, 7844 Clyde avenue, sought on the complaint of the American Dental association that she had embezzled $6,740 during six years as cashier for the association, surrendered last night at the detective bureau. An attorney accompanying her posted an approved bond for $7,500 and she was released. The complaint was made by Loyal T. Claridge, an official of the dental association.

EDDIE CANTOR SUES FOR RETURN OF HIS $300,000

Asks Receivers for 100 Million Corporation.

BY TOM PETTEY.

New York, Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Eddie Cantor, the roly-poly eyed comedian, assumed a new rôle today. He began a suit for accounting and receivership against the Goldman Sachs Trading corporation involving 100 million dollars. But Mr. Cantor is not demanding any such sum for himself. He is specifically interested in $300,000 he invested with the concern.

EDDIE CANTOR.

Mr. Cantor was speeding westward toward Hollywood today when his attorney, David L. Podell announced suit had been instituted in Delaware and would be filed in Supreme court here tomorrow. Mr. Cantor is suing as a stockholder in his own behalf "and on behalf of all other stockholders similarly situated."

Misapplication of Assets.

The suit seeks to compel the officers and directors of the trading corporation and the partners of the banking house of Goldman Sachs & Co., as well as Ralph Jonas, Harrison Williams, and Central States Electric corporation to account to the Goldman Sachs Trading corporation for transactions involving more than 100 million dollars "by reasons of their alleged willful and wanton dissipation, waste and misapplication of the assets and funds of the trading corporation."

Eddie Cantor, who once wrote a humorous book about his Wall street adventures, is the owner of 3,372 shares of stock of the Goldman Sachs Trading corporation, now worth only a fraction of their original $300,000 valuation.

In a document about the size of a telephone directory the usually happy Mr. Cantor sets forth a mass of indignant accusations. The complaint charges that millions of dollars were invested by the banking house and partners "in such a manner as to result in furthering the interest of the banking house and the individual defendants and against the best interests of the trading corporation and stockholders."

Sequesters Properties.

In the Delaware suit, a bill of complaint has been filed in the Court of Chancery and the chancellor has issued an order, according to Mr. Podell, sequestering the property of the defendants.

Mr. Cantor, in his complaint, attacks the merger between the Goldman Sachs Trading corporation and the Financial and Industrial Securities corporation upon the ground that "while representing to the stockholders of both the concerns that the merger involved merely the taking over by the trading corporation of the assets and liabilities of the Financial and Industrial Securities corporation, in fact some of the individual defendants . . . caused to be taken over a contract between Harold C. Richards and the Delmar Capital corporation to purchase 120,000 shares of the Manufacturing Trust company for a price of $33,000,000."

The complaint alleges the trading corporation was caused to take over this $33,000,000 obligation, although it formed no part of the assets or liabilities of the Financial and Industrial Securities corporation.

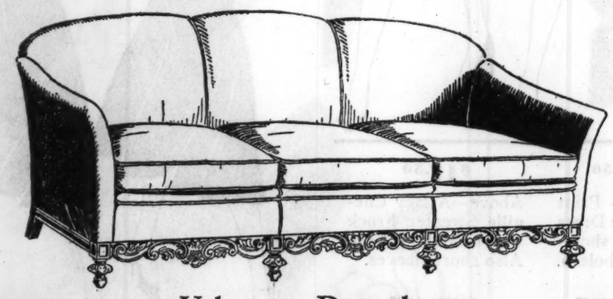

The complaint alleges that the trading corporation lost about $29,000,000, as it later "sold this stock to Harvey Gibson and his associates at $27 per share."

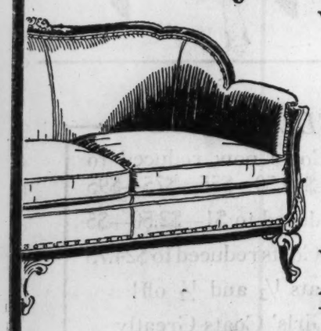

The complaint alleges the banking house, at the expense of the trading corporation, made $4,000,000 in the organization of the Shenandoah corporation and the Blue Ridge corporation.

MONETIZATION OF SILVER ASKED IN SENATE BILL

New Certificates Would Be Made Legal Tender.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Purchase by the mint of silver mined in the United States and offered for sale at prevailing prices would be authorized under a bill introduced today by Senator Pittman [Dem., Nev.]. The limit of these government purchases would be set at 5,000,000 ounces per month.

KEY PITTMAN. [White Photo.]

Payment for this silver, under the terms of the Pittman bill, would be made in silver certificates, backed by a reserve of silver coins minted from the silver so purchased, and the certificates would be legal tender with the same circulation status as other currency.

The certificates would be issued in denominations of $1, $5, and $10, the bill stated, and could be counted as part of the legal reserve of "any national banking association or federal reserve bank."

Senator Pittman denied that his bill would inflate the currency of the country. "The bill," he said, "would add little to the circulating currency of the United States. At the present time, if all silver produced were offered to the government at 30 cents an ounce, it would only cause about $750,000 in silver certificates to be issued each month."

Would be Permanent.

The bill, which was referred to the committee on banking and currency, provided for the disposition of the purchased silver as follows:

"The silver bullion purchased under the provisions of this act shall be coined into standard silver dollars and subsidiary silver coins sufficient, in the opinion of the secretary of the treasury, to meet any demands for redemption of silver certificates issued under the provisions of this act and such coin shall be retained in the treasury for the payment of such certificates on demand. The bullion so purchased and obtained under this act, except so much there-of as is coined, shall be held in the treasury for the sole purpose of the redemption of the certificates issued hereunder and in the manner herein provided."

The silver certificates, the bill stated, would be permanent additions to the currency of the United States, as it was provided that except for replacement of mutilated certificates, "They shall not be retired, canceled, or destroyed, but shall be reissued and paid out again and kept in circulation."

KILLS HERSELF

MRS. V. B. SHIPMAN. [Moffett Photo.]

Her face swathed in towels saturated with chloroform, Mrs. Vera Brady Shipman, 42 years old, was found dead last night in her room in the Windermere Hotel East, 1642 East 56th street.

Mrs. Shipman was the club editor of the Chicago Evening Post. For years she had been employed by loop merchants as a promotional writer. For some time she was editor of the publications of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Shipman appeared at her office as usual yesterday. She appeared cheerful. Last evening her mother, Mrs. Charles H. Hoinville, 7539 Colfax avenue, tried to call her on the telephone. There was no response. Several hours later she called again, and, still receiving no answer, asked the hotel to investigate. Emmett Hartley, a bell boy, entered the room and found Mrs. Shipman dead.

Police said Mrs. Shipman had evidently committed suicide, but they could find no motive. Her mother said, however, that Mrs. Shipman apparently had been working under a strain recently. Surviving Mrs. Shipman are her parents, and a daughter, Mary, 16 years old.

Collections Are Lowest Since 1925.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Tolls collected from commercial vessels transiting the Panama canal during the calendar year 1931 totaled $22,530,820, striking the lowest level for such collections since 1925, according to figures made public today in the Panama canal record.

The 1931 total, the figures showed, was more than three and a half millions below the figure for 1930 and nearly five millions lower than in 1929, when toll collections at the canal reached a peak of $27,592,715.

The number of commercial vessels transiting the canal during the year was also the lowest in any year since 1925, according to the figures, the total for 1931 being 4,972. In 1930, 5,885 ships passed through the canal, while 6,430 made the passage in 1929.

U. S. Ships 44 Per Cent.

Of the total number of transits, 44.1 per cent were vessels of American registry and 23.7 per cent of British registry. Other transits by nationalities were as follows: Norwegian, 6.7 per cent of the total; German, 7.1 per cent; Japanese, 3.7 per cent; Danish, 2.5 per cent; Dutch, 2.5 per cent; French, 2 per cent; Swedish, 2.2 per cent; Italian, 1.3 per cent, and all others, 4.2 per cent.

Ships of the ten nations named, the record stated, represented 97.8 per cent of the total net tonnage which passed through the canal during the year and the same percentage of the total tolls. All ten nations showed decreases in the number of transits and tons of cargo carried with the exception of the Netherlands and Italy.

The daily average of commercial transits was 13.62, while the daily average toll collection was $61,728.28.

In addition to the commercial transits 522 noncommercial vessels, most of them ships of the United States army and navy, and 95 nonseagoing launches, passed through the canal during the year, bringing the total number of transits to 5,589, a daily average of 15.31.

BAIN BANK QUIZ EVIDENCE READY FOR GRAND JURY

Raber to Begin Mass of Proof Monday.

Indictment of "six or eight" persons in connection with the failure of the twelve Bain banks on June 9, 1931, will be asked of the February grand jury. This was announced by Special Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber, who laid a groundwork yesterday before the jurors for the presentation of testimony Monday and Tuesday.

EDWIN J. RABER. [Tribune Photo.]

Mr. Raber was appointed by State's Attorney Swanson two months ago to investigate the failure of the banks. He and a staff have been studying the records of the banks since then and a mass of evidence showing misuse of funds has been gathered, it was said.

Records by the Truckload.

Three truckloads of records and ledgers were taken to the grand jury rooms yesterday and auditors spent some time sorting these papers for study by the grand jury. Witnesses will be taken before the jurors next week.

John Bain, head of the closed chain of banks; John H. Bain, his son, and W. Merle Fisher, his son-in-law, were reported named in true bills by the November grand jury, but these bills were not returned, on the advice of Mr. Raber that a more thorough investigation should first be made.

Swanson to Speed Trials.

State's Attorney Swanson announced that as soon as indictments are returned he will ask Chief Justice Fisher of the Criminal court to assign the cases for immediate trial. The defense cannot plead that they have not had sufficient time to fight the charges, he pointed out, inasmuch as the investigation has been going on for months.

Some confusion resulted yesterday when it was discovered that two members of the present grand jury were Bain bank depositors who lost their savings in the failure of the chain. It was finally decided that, in order to prevent any future technical objections by the defense, these two men would not vote on the true bills in the Bain case.

Lays Bank Failures to Reds.

Bank failures in Illinois during recent months were charged to a concentrated communistic campaign yesterday by Nelson E. Hewitt, lieutenant of the United States naval reserve, statistician of the American Vigilant Intelligence federation, in an address before the Kiwanis club at the Hotel Sherman.

"Communists may start a rumor about the solvency of a bank which will eventually affect thousands," said Lieut. Hewitt. He presented a cartoon from a soviet newspaper in which Russian cannons were pictured as being trained on United States banking houses.

GIRL TESTIFIES FOR MOTHER IN DIVORCE COURT

Claudia Hendricks, 17 years old, 1640 Chase avenue, took the witness stand yesterday in the court of Circuit Judge Craig Hood to testify that her father, Farney S. Hendricks, head of the real estate brokerage concern bearing his name, had been cruel to her mother for more than ten years, and had often beaten them both.

The girl, a senior at Senn High school, gave her testimony in substantiation of the statements of her mother, Mrs. Esther Hendricks, who is seeking a divorce. Mrs. Hendricks still is living in her husbands home, although she occupies a suite of rooms, where her husband never intrudes, she said.

The hearing will be continued today. Hendricks' son, Farney Jr., 15 years old, also will appear as a witness for his mother.

PILOTS BACKED BY LABOR BODY IN WAGE DISPUTE

The twenty-two pilots discharged by Century Air Lines when they protested a 40 per cent wage reduction were assured of the support of the American Federation of Labor yesterday. William Green, president of the federation, issued a statement in Washington, D. C., that was forwarded to the pilots, assuring them of "full backing."

The pilots are members of the Air Line Pilots' association, an international organization, with offices at 6314 South Troy avenue.

"The members of the excutive council of the American Federation of Labor are of the firm opinion that the air line pilots employed by the Century Air Lines were thoroughly justified in refusing to give service when the management of the company demanded a 40 per cent wage reduction," Green said.

"The support of the American Federation of Labor is unreservedly given to these members of the Air Line Pilots' association. Employed as they are at hazardous work, assuming risks involving both life and property, they deserve to be paid a decent salary and they deserve to be encouraged through the hope of promotion and steady employment."

E. L. Cord, president of the Cord corporation, which owns Century Air Lines, had no comment to make on Green's statement. Planes operated on the Chicago-St. Louis line of the Century system yesterday, but did not go to Cleveland or to Detroit. At the headquarters of the pilots' union officials said no deviation from a program of passive resistance to the wage cut attempt is planned.

WOMAN ENDS OWN LIFE.

CITY'S PLAN FOR LOW COST MILK GETS A SETBACK

Ald. David L. Sutton [8th], chairman of a city council subcommittee that has been planning to sell milk at cost to the poor, was notified yesterday by First Assistant Corporation Counsel Hornstein that the city has no authority to engage in the milk business while private companies are able to supply all the milk that is needed, even though the prices may be high.

The reduction of milk prices, the opinion said, is an economic question rather than a question of public health, and as such the subcommittee's plan could not be advocated as a health measure.

LEWIS ENTERED FOR NOMINATION BY DEMOCRATS

G. O. P. Petition Filed for France of Maryland.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Considerable ado was stirred in political circles last night over the "advisory" vote on President at the April 12 primaries. Senator James Hamilton Lewis was formally entered as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the White House in a petition filed at Springfield. It followed action taken weeks ago by the local Democracy pledging itself for Senator Lewis for head of the national party ticket to be named at the Chicago Stadium in June.

SENATOR LEWIS.

On the Republican side a petition was filed entering Joseph I. France, former senator from Maryland. Secretary of State Stratton announced that under the law the time for filing for the "advisory" primaries expires tonight at midnight—some of the calendars had been at variance—and the outlook is that each party will have but one entrant and no fight over the "advisory" vote. As to delegates, it is a different matter.

From New York the managers of the France campaign warmed the wires with messages that the failure to enter President Hoover's name in the "advisory" primary means that Mr. France "seems assured of 61 Illinois delegates at the Republican national convention."

Different View in Chicago.

Chicago politicians took the opposite view, however, pointing out that the "advisory" vote is not binding and that the real fight is over the delegates to the national convention. The district delegates are elected by direct vote at the primaries, and the delegates at large are named by the state convention. Administration men have been advising the Hoover managers at Washington to let the "advisory" vote go and concentrate on delegates.

How lightly the "advisory" vote controls may be seen in the fact that in 1920 Lowden in the preferential primaries got more votes than Wood and Johnson combined, and carried all the counties in Illinois but two. On the first ballot in the convention, however, the Illinois vote was divided: Lowden, 41; Wood, 14; Johnson, 3.

The battle over delegates will be largely over rival slates, with independents running in many districts on various planks.

Democrats for Lewis.

On the Democratic side, the state leaders have been declaring for a year that the Illinois delegation will go to the convention instructed for Senator Lewis. Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, and other Presidential candidates have kept out of the Illinois primaries, following the custom of not contesting in a preferential primary state with a "favorite son" candidate.

The Lewis petition was filed by Vincent Y. Dallman, Springfield editor and one of the senator's downstate managers. Dallman, who was considered a possibility for the Democratic state slate for lieutenant governor or secretary of state, announced that he would not seek either position. He filed for national delegate.

RESIGNS

GEN. C. P. SUMMERALL.

Charleston, S. C., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Gen. Charles P. Summerall's resignation as president of the Citadel, state military college, was received today by John P. Thomas, chairman of the board of visitors.

Thomas declined to make public its text but said Gen. Summerall expressed regret that circumstances made it necessary for him to sever his connection with the institution.

Gen. Summerall walked out of a state senate finance committee hearing at Columbia yesterday after telling the committee he considered a question asked him a reflection upon his honesty of purpose.

"By what authority," asked Senator W. C. Hamrick, "do you increase the deficit? What is the good of the legislature fixing a definite appropriation if a department may spend more than is appropriated?"

Later Hamrick said he meant no reflection upon Gen. Summerall by the question.

Gen. Summerall accepted the presidency of the Citadel last year after retiring as chief of staff of the United States army.

Thomas said every effort would be made to get Gen. Summerall to reconsider his resignation.

CANDIDATE BYRD HAS TALK WITH SMITH, RASKOB

New York, Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Former Gov. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, who appeared here a month ago to "sell apples," was back in town today as an active seeker after the Democratic presidential nomination.

Democratic leaders, commenting upon his conferences with Alfred E. Smith and John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, expressed a fear that Mr. Byrd might cause a situation in the Chicago convention in June similar to that in the New York 1924 convention when favorite son candidates, backing Mr. Smith, prevented the nomination of William Gibbs McAdoo and enabled John W. Davis to be nominated.

Both former governors described their conference in the office of Mr. Smith in the Empire State building as purely social. Mr. Byrd said his conference with Mr. Raskob merely was in his capacity as vice chairman of a committee arranging for the Chicago convention.

Mr. Byrd would not discuss the activities in behalf of Speaker John N. Garner beyond saying that "Mr. Garner is a very able man and highly qualified to be a candidate."

POPE AND DUCE CLASP HANDS IN FRIENDSHIP PACT

Italy's Premier Pays Visit to Vatican City.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Feb. 11.—What Premier Mussolini and Pope Pius talked about during the one hour and five minutes they were closeted alone in the pontiff's private library this morning preoccupies all those of an inquisitive turn in Rome tonight.

It was a long audience—"long and beautiful"—Mussolini said afterward, and for this reason the idea prevails that the two protagonists of last summer's wordy battles must have put aside formal exchanges and threshed out bygone asperities in a heart to heart talk.

In length of audience Mussolini scored far more heavily with the pope than did the king, whose audience with the pontiff on Dec. 5, 1929, lasted barely twenty minutes.

Their First Meeting.

Judging from the pleasant countenances of both when the interview ended, the conversations must have been gratifying and satisfactory. It was the first time they had ever talked to each other personally.

One hears in Rome tonight that it is a tribute to the genius of both men that they have been able to harmonize the relations of church and state despite the divergent viewpoints once held, and after their violent interchanges of last summer.

Flags everywhere and the illuminated façade of St. Peter's tonight signalize the personal reconciliation between the two men. Be that as it may, today's ceremonies which were set to celebrate the third anniversary of the Lateran peace pact were made an effulgent and dramatic spectacle.

Soldiers were drawn up from the river to the cathedral, and a cordon of Mussolini's blackshirts hemmed in St. Peter's square. Crowds were scarce and undemonstrative.

The strains of "Giovanezza" from the papal gendarmes' band announced Mussolini's arrival at the Vatican. After his prolonged interview with the pope the premier visited Cardinal Pacelli, Vatican secretary of state. Mussolini wore the prime minister's uniform of dark green, adorned by the collar of the Annunciation, the Order of the Golden Spur, and the Order of St. Lazarus and St. Maurice.

Mussolini arrived at the pope's domain twenty minutes early. He walked briskly with hat in hand up a stairway to the pope's apartments. Special protocolar arrangements reserved for visiting royalty, which had been announced for Mussolini, were omitted.

Kisses Pope's Ring.

There was a brief moment of waiting and then the door of the pope's library opened and Mussolini entered. He made a genuflection and kissed the pope's ring. Then the pontiff shook Mussolini's hand with warmth.

This much was seen from without. Then the doors closed for an hour and five minutes.

"It was a long and beautiful interview," said Il Duce, as he emerged to introduce his suite to the pope. When Mussolini entered St. Peter's to pray photographers approached. Mussolini chased them away.

"You cannot take a picture of me when I am praying," he warned.

THREE HOSPITALS ARE CITED IN CITY ANTI-SMOKE FIGHT

Three hospitals, a training school for nurses, and the American Medical Association building were listed yesterday by Frank A. Chambers, chief city smoke inspector, as contributors to the city's smoke pall. Representatives of these and fifteen other buildings have been summoned to appear today at Chambers' office. Those named in the summonses are:

West End hospital, 5 South Hoyne avenue.
Mary Thompson hospital, 1606 Maypole avenue.
Durand hospital, 637 South Wood street.
Illinois Training School for Nurses, 509 South Hoyne avenue.
American Medical association, 535 North Dearborn street.
Childs Restaurant company, 55 West Washington street.
Harris Brothers Pie Bakeries company, 1751 Austin avenue.
West Manor hotel, 210 South Ashland avenue.
Heisen building, 1417 Carroll avenue.
D. H. Fritts, 414 North Wood street.
Casement Hardware company, 406 North Wood street.
Burns & Mustari, 1900 Van Buren street.
Depot garage, 552 West 63d street.
Boston store, Madison and State streets.
Olson Rug company, 32 Laflin street.
Best Foods, Inc., 2810 South Kilbourn avenue.
W. Worthy, 1703 Jackson boulevard.
Templeton, Kenly & Co., Ltd., 1020 South Central avenue.
J. W. Allen & Co., 1655 Carroll avenue.
Marshall Field & Co., Washington and State streets.

At the hearings Mr. Chambers warns that a violation within thirty days subsequent to a hearing will result in a suit.

ROBBED IN HIS GROCERY.

Two armed bandits robbed Frank Ranieri of $230 in his grocery at 2303 West Taylor street yesterday.

EXTRA SESSION TO KEEP ALIVE, BUT THAT'S ALL

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—The three special sessions of the 57th Illinois general assembly today made their own funeral arrangements.

Having cost the taxpayers a sum yet uncalculated, although it may approximate $150,000, the lawmakers today stumbled through some routine business in a lackadaisical manner indicative of their belief that next week they will be free from their duties at the capital and be released for the onerous exertions of their campaigns for reëlection.

The senate, having had a midnight session to vote on bills that it was feared might lack the necessary votes if action were postponed until after the late night trains, barely went through the motions of meeting. And in the house, where there is less organization and emotions are more tense, only one high spot stood out above the drab of routine business.

Flurry Over Roll Call.

That exception was a flurry over the roll call in the house on yesterday's passage of the Chicago west park's $4,000,000 bond bill. Observers said there seemed to be a feeling that something had been put over when the boys weren't looking. In consequence there was an unusual challonging of the roll call.

The net result was nil. The bill was found to have received 90 votes, instead of the 92 recorded for it originally, but there were a number of members who wished the record changed to show they had not voted for the bill.

Coming Back Next Week.

Both houses—neither of which can quit without the consent of the other by the joint resolution method—are to come back here next week, but the expectation is that the only serious effort to be made then will be the passage by the senate of the so-called Cook county tax levy funding bills which already have passed the house.

In other words it is the present intention of the assembly to quit work next week with an understanding that it will not be reconvened except in a perfunctory manner unless the Supreme court of the state reverses the decision in the Jarecki tax case.

The necessity for next week's operations of the senate, as it is described, is concurrence in the house action on bills for the funding of the 1930 Cook county taxes.

CERMAK ATTACKS MEASURE.

Mayor Cermak yesterday attacked the tax funding bills pending before the state senate, declaring that a postponement of 1930 tax collections to October would place an added burden on small home owners so great that their tax bills would, eventually, be confiscatory. The bills to which he referred, five in number, are the legislative program of the Chicago Real Estate board.

"Beginning Oct. 1, according to this schedule," the mayor said of the bills, "taxes will be due every few months, resulting in so heavy a burden on the small taxpayers that they will lose their property. The first thing to do is to get the taxes into collection, so that outstanding warrants can be redeemed and interest bills cut down, reducing our tax burden."

years. She was reluctant to become a witness, she said, as she believed "God would see that justice is done to the right side." She indicated, however, that her testimony would have been unfavorable to Mrs. Kegel.

Story of Mrs. Ryan.

She and Mrs. Kegel met at the corner at Mrs. Kegel's urgent request, Mrs. Ryan said. With Mrs. Kegel was a man she knew as Jerry. He was the grocery boy and as a side line delivered liquor, according to Mrs. Ryan. Jerry was the man she afterwards identified as Gerald Lee.

When she had obtained the cigarets for Mrs. Kegel, Mrs. Ryan said, she went back to the table. Mrs. Kegel then urged her to stir her soda thoroughly, as "the best part is at the bottom of the glass." A request was made by Mrs. Kegel that she give up the idea of testifying, but she replied that she had made up her mind to tell the truth and "help both parties."

There the conference broke up. Mrs. Ryan said that she began to feel ill soon afterward and on Jan. 27 summoned Dr. Kegel. He asked her, she said, if she had eaten anything poisonous or if anybody had had an opportunity to administer a deadly drug to her. She said she couldn't recollect anything of that nature.

Kegel Sends Her to Hospital.

Last Friday Dr. Kegel had her taken to the hospital. Mrs. Ryan asserted that until then she had never told him of the meeting with Mrs. Kegel and Jerry.

Leo A. O'Reilly, attorney for Mrs. Kegel, said last night that the charges were a complete surprise to her and that she would surrender soon and demand an immediate trial. At present, he asserted, she is too ill to appear in court.

"Mrs. Kegel denies that she has seen or communicated with Mary Ryan or Gerald Lee since the divorce case has been pending. This is simply a plot to charge that witnesses have been tampered with," Mr. O'Reilly said.

Although policemen were sent to the homes of several relatives of Mrs. Kegel, no trace of her was found last night. Her bond was fixed at $50,000 and that of Lee at $5,000.

Dr. Kegel, who conducts a clinic at 2320 Pine Grove avenue, refused to comment on the case yesterday, saying it was strictly the state's attorney's duty to handle it. As to Mrs. Ryan, he said: "She has suffered a great deal for me."

He and Mrs. Kegel were divorced in Chicago Heights in September, 1930, but were remarried before the news of it was made public. They declared they had found the separation was a mistake less than two weeks after it occurred. The divorce case with the ground glass allegation was filed last October. Dr. Kegel has asked the custody of their 4 year old adopted son, Robert.

CHICAGO WILL PAY TRIBUTE TO LINCOLN TODAY

Celebrations to Mark 123d Birthday.

The far-reaching influence of Abraham Lincoln upon his own generation and upon those that have followed will be discussed in the diversified celebrations to be held from one end of the city to the other in celebration of his 123d birthday.

DANIEL BRETT.

Flags will be unfurled over the rooftops of schools, public buildings, private homes in tribute to Lincoln the statesman. As Chicago meditates upon that statesman's qualities there will be among the celebrants men who took part in his nomination for President, men who glimpsed him as they marched away to the civil war, and thousands of children who have learned to link him in national importance only with George Washington.

Carried News to Tribune.

Among those to whom Lincoln's birthday is a sacred holiday is Capt. R. D. Parker, who as a boy of 13 was a news runner for the Republican convention at the Wigwam, Lake and Market streets, in 1860. It was Capt. Parker who carried the news of the nomination of Lincoln for President to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

The story which Capt. Parker will tell today at 2:30 over WGN, THE TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel, will reveal how the boy's father was stationed at a window inside the Wigwam. At the announcement of the nominstion the elder Parker thrust his head through the window and shouted the word to his son, who immediately dashed off to THE TRIBUNE offices, then located on Randolph street near Clark street.

The men who were soldiers when Lincoln was President will meet today at 2 o'clock in Memorial hall in the Chicago public library. There will not be very many of them, but the places of those who have passed on will be filled by service men of more recent conflicts. A 45 minute program of martial music by the drum and bugle corps of the Board of Trade post of the American Legion will precede the thirty-third Lincoln birthday service. Rodney H. Brandon, state director of public welfare, will be the principal speaker. William P. Wright is president of the Grand Army Hall and Memorial association.

Lay Wreath on Statue.

The young boys who hold Lincoln as their hero will lay a wreath at his statue in Lincoln park at 11 a. m. They are the Boy Scouts of the city. Music will be furnished by the Boy Scout Drum and Bugle corps. Another contingent of Boy Scouts, six Eagle Scouts, will aid in the Lincoln program of the G. A. R. in Memorial hall.

The fourth annual Lincoln day program of the Chicago Woman's club will be held this morning at 11 o'clock in the club theater, with Mrs. Harvey Fox presiding. Daniel Brett from Lane Technical High school, winner of the award in the first essay contest sponsored by the club, will speak on "Tolerance, an Asset to Citizenship." William J. Bogan, Rabbi Gerson B. Levi, Hugo F. Simon, German consul general; Dr. Francis V. Corcoran, president of De Paul university, and the Rev. A. Wayman Ward are on the program.

A huge cake bearing a likeness of Lincoln sketched with chocolate and a replica of the log cabin in which he was born done in candy was presented yesterday to William D. Saltiel, chairman of the Lincoln banquet committee of the Hamilton club. The cake was designed by Emil Hilbert of Baden Baden, Germany, an instructor in a bakery school.

Hyde Speaks Tonight.

Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture, will be the guest speaker tonight at the Hamilton club, speaking on "Keeping Faith with Lincoln." Allan T. Gilbert, president, said yesterday that all the tickets to the banquet had been sold. Other speakers are to include F. Harold Van Orman, former lieutenant governor of Indiana; Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, Col. W. H. Burt, Mrs. Bertha Baur, Col. Howard P. Savage, George E. Q. Johnson, and others.

LEGION WILL HONOR BOY MASCOT WITH MILITARY FUNERAL

Millbury, Mass., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—John Hanavan Jr. was only six and had only fought one battle, but he will have a military funeral accorded him by the American Legion.

Johnny's one battle was that against death, and he lost today. Pneumonia, progressing from laryngitis, mowed down the little fellow who, in his American Legion uniform, tramped sturdily in the Legion parade in Boston in 1930, and again in Detroit in 1931 as mascot for Worcester county post.

Johnny, son of a disabled war veteran, will be buried in his uniform of blue and gold, while a volley is fired over the little grave next Saturday.

JURY TRIAL IN CHECK CASE.

A jury trial was granted to V. W. Pryor, director of the New Friend Children's Shelter at 107 Sheffield avenue, on a charge of passing worthless checks before Judge Edward B. Casey in the Town Hall court yesterday.

CONTRASTS G. O. P. LEADERS' IDEALS WITH LINCOLN'S

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 11.—(AP)—If Abraham Lincoln were a candidate for President this year on his platform of human rights, said Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania tonight, he wouldn't "get to first base with the controlling powers of the Republican convention in Chicago."

Addressing the Mid-day club's observance of the 123d anniversary of the civil war President's birth, the Pennsylvania governor, frequently mentioned in the news as a presidential aspirant, asked:

"How many of our national leaders can declare with Lincoln: 'I have never had a feeling, political or otherwise, that did not spring from the sentiments embodied in the declaration of independence.' Can Mellon? Can Hoover?"

Tomorrow's celebration of Lincoln's birth was characterized by Gov. Pinchot as an "empty tribute, a useless gesture, if we lose sight of all he worked for, and fought for, and gave his life to."

SOFT MONEY OR GOOD BEER?

When the federal reserve system is under discussion the custom in this country has been to write and speak in guarded terms. The reserve system has been regarded as something too mysterious for the ordinary man to understand and too sacred for his profane hands to touch.

Whatever the justifications may have been for this attitude of reverence and awe, the time has come for plain speaking. Congress is about to consider a modification of the federal reserve act to permit a profound alteration in the basis of the currency of this country and the granting of credit. The proposals come to congress not from some wild-eyed agrarians. The legislation has been framed by agreement between the administration and such Democrats as Senator Carter Glass of Virginia. Mr. Glass played a leading part in the organization of the reserve system and has been known for years as its watchdog, guarding it against those who would undermine the stability of the country's currency for their own selfish ends.

The news that the changes in the reserve act had been agreed upon appeared under a headline saying, "Hoover Moves to Free Billion in U. S. Reserves." On the same day and on the same page was another headline, "Banshee of Free Silver Rises to Stalk Congress." The two proposals at first glance appear to be poles apart in intent. In fact they are not. Both are intended to inflate the currency, the one by permitting the free coinage of silver at a fixed ratio and the other by backing the currency with more or less doubtful evidences of debt.

THE TRIBUNE does not take the position that the deflationary process which has been feeding on itself since the first months of 1929 is a good thing. It should be and indeed it must be checked if the depression is to be ended short of universal ruin. The question is one of means to be adopted to attain the desired end.

There is no use wasting time on the free silver proposal. The fallacies of this proposal are well known and no presentation of them here can be of the slightest service. Congressmen who advocate free silver are either acting in the interest of their silver mining constituencies or are incapable of projecting their proposal to its disastrous conclusions.

The other proposal, for what is called liberalizing the eligibility provisions of the reserve act, deserves closer study. The proposal might be described as an effort to create a currency which is backed in part not by silver but by slow and heavily depreciated paper. Banks which have no more commercial paper to rediscount, banks which have no readily salable assets, are to be permitted to obtain credit from the reserve banks by pledging whatever they have left. At the same time the reserve banks are to be permitted in their discretion to use more or less illiquid paper as backing for the currency.

The purpose of these provisions is twofold. They are intended in the first place to release the pressure on banks to convert their assets into liquid forms and thereby encourage bankers to lend more freely. The other object is to release a billion dollars, more or less, of gold which the reserve banks now hold as security for the currency above the legal requirements. The law requires the reserve banks to maintain a minimum of 40 per cent of gold against the currency, but because the reserve banks today have less than 60 per cent of eligible paper as additional backing, and the notes must be backed to their full value by gold and paper, more gold is held as a currency reserve than is actually required. If more kinds of paper are permitted to be used as security for the currency, obviously less gold will be held inactive in the reserve banks' vaults.

Again it is a question of means. The act as it stands today permits the reserve banks to buy commercial paper in the open market. If they did so freely, and if the paper bought was reasonably well selected, there is reason to believe that the results would be gratifying. Credit would be pumped directly into the stream of production and exchange and the credits so provided would be quickly liquidated. The desirable end of freeing gold to meet possible redemptions and withdrawals can be achieved without any appreciable weakening of the rediscount provisions of the present act.

We do not predict that a weakening of the eligibility provisions must result in instant ruin. But there is at least some reason to fear that a cheapening of our currency will result in doubts in the minds of foreign holders of American funds and securities with the further result that the present movement of gold out of the country will be accelerated. If the net result of the proposed law is to make certain the withdrawal of the so-called redundant gold it is difficult to see where the benefits will lie.

At this writing, only an outline of the bill is available. Perhaps an examination of the actual draft will be more reassuring. With only the prospectus to go by, the measure must arouse grave doubts. Bad as conditions are today, they can be made worse by ill conceived plans for relief.

Congress and the administration prefer tinkering with the reserve banks and the currency to constructive measures which lie more directly within their own sphere of activity. Senator Bingham is an exception. He has proposed to extirpate federal paternalism at a saving of $800,000,000 a year to the taxpayers. He suggests, in addition, the modification of the Volstead act to enable the federal government to increase its revenues by $400,000,000. Both these measures will go farther toward ending the depression than anything which the currency tinkers propose, and there is not the slightest danger of disaster in either of them.

Mr. Bingham knows that one reason, and a most important one, for the present credit stringency is the enormous load of government costs. The actual and prospective deficits of the federal government, amounting to more than $3,000,000,000, are absorbing much of the credit resources of the nation. If those deficits are decreased, credit will be released to finance private enterprise.

Likewise, as taxes are reduced more funds will be available for purchases and investment. When Mr. Bingham proposes to reduce government costs by $800,000,000 a year, re-create the beer and perhaps the wine industry as well and thereby add $400,000,000 or more of revenue, he is proposing a constructive remedy for the depression about the value of which there can be no doubt and no misgivings.

The resumption of legal brewing in this country will give immediate employment to a hundred thousand men engaged in the industry or in equipping it with plants and machinery. It will also greatly diminish hoarding, not only by providing a new outlet for money but also by legalizing what is now an illicit traffic, conducted by men who keep their resources in cash for fear of government prosecution and blackmail.

Certainly no remedy will suffice which does not include an end to government squandering, and this applies as well to the state and local as to the federal government. When Mr. D. F. Kelly and his committee insisted upon a reduction of $80,000,000 in school expenditures in Chicago, a reduction which would bring expenditures in line with a reasonable estimate of receipts from taxation, they were on solid ground. The reduction of government costs may work some temporary hardships, but until government costs are brought down to the point where the taxpayers can meet them there can be no end to the liquidation of the property upon which taxes are paid, with resultant losses to holders of mortgages and equities.

Real estate values in Chicago will not rise until the income from real estate provides a larger return on the investment, and that cannot happen until the burden of taxation is made tolerable. Every property which is sold for taxes or thrown on the market because taxes are oppressive depresses the price of similar properties. The vicious circle can be broken by reducing taxes, and in no other way.

AN ERROR CORRECTED.

THE TRIBUNE is glad to correct the publication of the names of Representative Truman A. Snell of Carlinville, Representative Charles Franz of Freeport, and Representative Charles M. Turner of Wenona as responsible for the sponsorship of certain individuals on the pay rolls of the sanitary district exposed in the prosecution of Timothy J. Crowe. Upon a recheck of the records Assistant State's Attorney Northup absolves these three legislators, and THE TRIBUNE expresses its regret for the error given publicity in its columns.

ATTACKING JUDGE WILKERSON.

The attacks by certain labor representatives upon Judge Wilkerson, intended to defeat his promotion to the Circuit Court of Appeals, will find little support, we believe, at the bar or with the public generally, which is grateful to Judge Wilkerson for his notable service against powerful criminality in this community and which recognizes in him a courageous and upright judge. The allegation that he is "an avowed partisan of those legal doctrines which give employers an overwhelming advantage over employés in industrial controversies" is labor politics rather than fair comment, and opens a controversy upon which most citizens would not side with the objectors. The injunctive process needs limitation which should be carefully framed to clarify rights and duties, but certainly not to prevent courts from protecting individuals, whether employers or employés, from violence. The allegations of bias and prejudice against labor organizations, blind partisanship and violation of law are actuated by partisan feeling which ignores Judge Wilkerson's public service and distorts his judicial record. Any judge who ever issued an injunction in a labor dispute would be described in the same terms.

Many citizens are wondering to what extent Judge Wilkerson's sentence of Capone is the real cause of the attacks upon him.

Editorial of the Day

NIGHT SHIFT TO FILL ORDERS.

[Wisconsin State Journal.]

Application to the Wisconsin industrial commission by a Milwaukee shoe firm for an emergency order to allow a double shift at that plant is a confirming sign that business is again on the upturn.

The Milwaukee company desires to be allowed to employ women in evening work during the next 60 days to meet a large number of emergency orders that have recently been placed for shoes. The representative of the company who supported the request for the permit says that shoe merchants throughout the central states who declined in October to give any orders to the company are now asking that large consignments of shoes be sent them at once, because their shelves are empty.

Commercial journals report that not only the shoe industry but that all lines of wearing apparel are beginning to appreciate that the depression is passing. They declare that there is hardly a textile or a shoe factory that is not now receiving sizable orders.

People are beginning to buy. This is giving the merchants an opportunity to place orders for the replenishing of their stocks. Wheels turning this way will be of great aid in bringing back normalcy.

Reflections of better business conditions are also being seen in the iron trade. Many furnaces have been opened. Several large iron manufacturing plants are beginning to call back employés laid off during the depression.

With industries getting back on an average footing, increased employment in all lines is certain to be a near future sequence.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE RETURN.

If
Abe Lincoln
Were to return
To earth on this
His birthday,
How surprised he would be
To walk again around
Washington and see
The great new buildings
Running over with Thousands and tens of Thousands
Of bureaucrats.
And if Abe were to walk around
The streets in Washington
Around four o'clock in the Afternoon
When the bureaucrats
Knock off what
They term work
For the day
And come pouring out of
The great government
Office buildings and
Swarm into the streets
Like clouds of Grasshoppers in the days of Old descending on
A Kansas wheat field,
Mr. Lincoln would have to be very Careful
Or he would be trampled
All to pieces
In the rush.
And Abe would look at
All the bureaus and the Bureaucrats and Wonder and wonder
Where all the money came From
To put up those great buildings
And pay all the armies
Of bureaucrats
Who worked in 'em.
And then he would
Read in the papers that
The government was Nearly three billion dollars
In the red
And getting in Deeper every day.
And he would read about
The income tax and how
It is being boosted higher
And higher.
And all the other taxes
In existence or Coming.
And he would think of
The people on whose backs
These burdens rest.
And Abe would say to Himself:
When I was on earth
I freed
The slaves.
I wish I might return
That I could free
The taxpayers.

GOV. RITCHIE, bulking large on the Democratic horizon at this moment, says the indications everywhere point to another and much greater world war, and he thinks that it might not be a bad idea for America to maintain an armed force that would be adequate to the emergency. Which just practically ruins any support Gov. Ritchie might have received from the large and earnest pacifists scattered among our population. But it is really quite heartening to meet a candidate who doesn't know how to pussyfoot.

FOR ALL OUR CALLING.

If you could come back to free us from new slaveries and old fears—you with your integrity and courage and forgiveness; if you could come back and again lay your whetted ax at the roots of our tangled national forest, clearing the underbrush that the great, clean-boled oak of our country's growth might stand forth in pristine majesty and beauty; if you could but return and, stooping, once more place your vast strength beneath the burdens of the state, shaming the cowardice of those in high places who are content to live on low levels; oh! if you could but come back, both in the ruggedness of your character and the angularity of your frame, and again teach us how to laugh when the heart is breaking, how to stand erect while others are tottering, and how to be calm in judgments with malice to none, then the nation would put off its garments of mourning and rise up from the dung-hill of its miseries, lave its sore body and stretch itself, shouting a mighty shout as it did when it was young and unafraid. But, oh! you are so still in your tomb at Springfield, and the only sound we hear for all our calling is the sifting of winter's sleet against the stones of your cold sepulchre.

ABORIGINE.

SONNETS IN A SEQUENCE.

XI.

"Open the temple gates unto my love,
Open them wide that she may enter in,
And all the posts adorn as doth behove,
And all the pillars deck with garlands trim
For to receive this saint with honor due—"
Faltering you read and kissed my faltering hand—
"That cometh in—that cometh in to you."
Time, leave this moment upright on the land
That they who pass, that they who pass and hear
Out of the air my spirit's humbled cry,
"No, no—no, no!" may read the message clear
And learn of Love, and never fear to die
If they fear not beside this holy place
To lift their eyes on Love, to see his face.

DOROTHY KISSLING.

TAMMANY is reported to be boosting Mayor Jimmie Walker as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination. It will be a hard job for Jimmie, it being much easier to keep out of New York than it is to keep out of the whole United States. Still, Jimmie is wonderful that way.

How to Keep Well By Dr. W. A. Evans

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual disease.

[Copyright: 1932: By The Chicago Tribune.]

TYPHOID STILL WITH US.

DR. J. C. CUMMINGS warns us that we must not slacken our efforts to escape typhoid fever. Each year sees the disease become less important, but if we become careless we may get into trouble. It is true that the disease was fifty times as prevalent a generation ago. It is also true that this great degree of protection against the disease has been expensive. Sewage and water works have cost the public large sums.

Safer private wells and pasteurized milk have been a source of some expense to individuals. We have paid in that we have surrendered some of our liberties and rights, such as the right to have flies, to be dirty, to eat unclean food, and to have dirty hands; to be sick with typhoid fever and to have no quarantine restrictions. A few million of us have submitted to compulsory vaccination against typhoid. All this has been costly and the end is not yet. While all of this is true, we cannot let up unless we are willing to relapse into conditions of a generation ago.

At the present time only 4 per cent of the typhoid fever is spread by water, milk, food, flies, and by cases of the disease. Ninety-six per cent is caused by carriers. A typhoid carrier is a person who is quite well, so far as typhoid fever is concerned, but who is capable of spreading the disease. Practically all of them have had the disease.

Dr. Cummings estimates that in 1910, in each 100,000 of the population, there were 1,568 carriers. The average age at which they had had typhoid fever was 22 years. The average man of that age expects to live 40 years. At that rate the average carrier of typhoid in 1910 cannot be expected to pass out until 1950.

In 1930 the proportion of typhoid carriers was still 671 per 100,000, according to Dr. Cummings. Very few new ones are being made, but the old ones are dying off slowly. He estimates that in 1960 there will still be 16 carriers in each 100,000 population.

A considerable proportion of the carriers become harmless as the years go by, and these Dr. Cummings has not taken into sufficient account. Therefore, the danger, figured mathematically, is somewhat less than his estimate.

However, it is not practicable to discover when a carrier ceases to be such and the safer plan is to accept Dr. Cummings' figure and govern ourselves accordingly. He says, assuming we have no bad luck and that we continue with what we are now doing for another quarter of a century, the typhoid menace will be so trivial that we can disregard it with safety. If we continue insisting on clean drinking water we will do so for other reasons.

HAY FEVER.

E. C. G. writes: During the summer of 1930 you published a letter from a woman stating she had secured relief from hay fever by using kerosene, usually only one or two applications being necessary. In June, about the 15th, 1930, I developed a severe head cold, just like the worst cold I ever had, except the air passages were affected. I had never before had a severe cold in summer. For several summers previous to this I had been asthmatically affected by flour dust, soap chip dust, or any kind of powder dust. After about three weeks of this cold it dawned on me that it must be on the hay fever order. I improvised a cloth mask to protect me somewhat from flour dust. And I began to spend about 20 minutes each night and morning alternately steaming and icing my nose, which afforded some relief, and I continued at work. I often went to the cooler and iced my nose during the day. The effect was good but fleeting. I also poked a tiny lump of lard up each nostril at night. Then you published the kerosene letter and I grasped at it, applying it after the lard. The first morning I could see a little improvement. However, as I remember it, it was two or three weeks before there was enough improvement to drop the steaming and icing. I used both the lard and kerosene all last winter and the following summer, and did not have a cold in all that time. I am very grateful to you for publishing the kerosene letter, even if you had no faith in it.

MAY BE HARMFUL.

Mrs. H. S. writes: A friend gave me the following recipe for taking off surplus fat around the waist and hips:

Two tablespoons Epsom salt, one teaspoon cream of tartar, one pint water. Mix and let stand in a glass jar. Take a wineglassful half an hour before breakfast.

1. Can this be harmful in any way?
2. Will it reduce one?

REPLY.

1. Yes.
2. No.

CITIZENSHIP.

Terre Haute, Ind., Feb. 5.—[Friend of the People.]—1. I contend that any one born in the United States is a citizen and subject to the jurisdiction thereof. Am I not right and is this in the constitution, or does a statute define the qualifications of citizenship? 2. Should a Chinese woman enter this country clandestinely and give birth to a child, would that child be a citizen of the United States? 3. I contend that the home of an ambassador to this country is considered as part of the country from which the ambassador was sent and that, therefore, children born to an ambassador will not be citizens of the United States. Am I correct? B. L.

1. The constitution, in the 14th amendment, says that all persons born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof are citizens of the United States.
2. Yes.
3. This question depends somewhat upon the law of the country from which the ambassador comes. Usually the holding is that the ambassador's residence is not subject to the laws of the United States but is subject to the laws of the country from which he comes.

CHATTEL MORTGAGES.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Three years ago I bought the lease and furnishings of a rooming house, paying part cash and the balance in notes which are payable each month over a period of several months and secured by a chattel mortgage. This mortgage is held by two parties—A and B. The lease had one year to run and when that expired I released the building in my own name. A has secured his money with the exception of one note and B has several still due him. B is threatening to foreclose. 1. Can he do so without the consent and coöperation of A? 2. Can they do so without taking this to court and obtaining judgment? 3. B claims he can come and take possession at any time he desires. E. C.

1. He probably can; depends on the wording of the papers.
2. Chattel mortgages are often foreclosed without court proceedings.
3. He would have no right to force his way in. If you keep the door locked it would be necessary for him to bring court proceedings.

CHINA-JAPAN WAR, 1894

LONDON, July 23.—No confirmation has been received here of the alleged private dispatch sent out by a news agency that Japanese gunboats had begun the bombardment of Corean ports. The morning papers either denied the report altogether or discredited it. The senior consul, representing the foreign consuls at Shanghai, has been officially notified that the government is preparing to block the Yangtze-Kiang river at the bar near Woosung at any moment. Dispatches were received at the Chinese legation from Tientsin showing that war between China and Japan has not been declared, but it is admitted that the situation is most grave. The opinion is expressed in official circles here that war is inevitable.

SHANGHAI, July 24.—A dispatch received here from Nagasaki, Japan, says that a detachment of Corean troops at the instigation of the Chinese residents attacked the Japanese garrison and were defeated. A later telegram says a Japanese cruiser and a Chinese transport engaged in battle and the cruiser sank the transport. The British consul has received a telegram from the British chargé d'affaires at Tokio stating that the Japanese have undertaken to regard Shanghai as outside of the sphere of operations.

LONDON, July 24.—A dispatch from Chemulpo, Corea, says the Corean government, instigated by the Chinese residents, has withdrawn its promises of reform made to Japan. The Japanese legation here has received a dispatch confirming the news received by way of Nagasaki of an attack by Corean troops upon the Japanese garrison at Seoul. It says the Corean troops there number 6,000 men, with several gatling guns.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 24.—Hostilities between China and Japan will require an immediate reinforcement of the United States naval force on the China station. At present this consists of only two vessels, the cruiser Baltimore and the antiquated Monocacy. They are both at Chemulpo, Corea.

28 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 12, 1904.

SHANGHAI.—The bombardment of Port Arthur by the Japanese continues steadily. Three Russian cruisers have been sunk and the Russian bank building destroyed.

LONDON.—The Tientsin correspondent of the Standard cables it is rumored that five Russian cruisers from Vladivostok bombarded Hakodate, Japan, on Tuesday.

BERLIN.—A dispatch to the Vossische Zeitung from Yokohama says the greater number of the Russian warships at Port Arthur have already been disabled and that several Japanese warships have been sent home for repairs.

CHEFOO.—It is reported that the Japanese made an attempt to land at Bedzero, eighty miles north of Port Arthur, but were repulsed with heavy loss. Again the Japanese tried to effect a landing at Talienwan under the shelter of the fleet, but owing to the strong fort firing were unable to succeed.

BERLIN. — It is learned from a trustworthy source China took the initiative in asking the United States to secure an international pledge to maintain the integrity of China. According to information furnished at the Chinese legation here this is because China itself was unable to guarantee the permanence of her neutrality during the war. The German foreign office says Germany's aims in the far east are identical with those of the United States as expressed in Secretary Hay's note regarding the neutralization of China, localizing the field of war and keeping the Chinese ports open to all trade.

FEBRUARY 12, 1916.

CHICAGO.—The poisoning of more than 100 persons at the banquet for Archbishop Mundelein in the University club on Thursday night was not an accident but the deliberate act of an employé of the club, according to a statement issued early today. The guests were not made ill by ptomaines in the chicken soup, as had been supposed, but by poison placed in the liquid by an employé of the chef's department. This man has disappeared and the police are seeking him. H. J. Doherty, manager of the club, refused to make public the man's name but said he is a German. No motive for the act has been supplied.

LONDON.—A Berlin official statement received here claims that the new British cruiser Arabas was sunk by a German torpedo boat and another cruiser torpedoed on the Dogger Bank, 120 miles east of the English coast, on the night of Feb. 10. The British official press bureau denies this.

BERLIN.—The official war report says: "Northwest of Vimy the French, after artillery preparations lasting for many hours, attempted to recapture the trenches they had lost. All their attacks failed. South of the Somme they were also unable to recapture any part of the two lost positions."

HE SAW LINCOLN.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—During the war of the states in '61 the 131st Ohio infantry was doing the patrol duty for the city of Baltimore and occupied all the forts around Baltimore. One of their duties was to take recruits, when they arrived in Baltimore, down to Washington and Old Point Comfort. I was, as a member of Company H, on one of these Washington details. Having delivered our recruits the entire detail of eight men and a sergeant went over to the White House and lined up along the sidewalk in front of the main entrance. Shortly afterwards President Lincoln arrived from his temporary summer residence. He got out of the ambulance which he used and walked alone from where he got out to the front gate of the White House wholly unguarded. To our surprise President Lincoln stopped in front of us and shook hands with each of the nine men and for each one he had a kind word. He then walked on, alone, and entered the White House by the front steps.

He was perfectly plain in his dress and looked just like his monument in Lincoln park. No fuss. No feathers. No guard. W. H. GRAY.

THE LIMIT OF TAXATION.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—It has been proved that 1 per cent of the full cash value of any parcel of real estate is the largest amount of tax that that particular parcel of real estate can pay and still prove attractive to the investing public. Once you increase that charge you immediately eliminate the possibility of receiving any return on the money invested. Capital will invest only where it can receive a return on its investment, and the return on any investment in real estate, ordinarily very nominal, has been entirely absorbed by excessive taxation, and that is the reason why today it is almost impossible to sell any parcel of real estate anywhere in Cook county at any price.

Do you know that you could eliminate all taxes on all real estate in Cook county and under present conditions, without any tax of any kind, only 10 per cent of the real estate in Cook county could show a profit at the end of the year?

Do you know that the amount of foreclosures for the year 1931 amounted to $471,000,000 and there was at least $200,000,000 worth more that should have been foreclosed and was not foreclosed simply because the owners of the mortgages did not want the property?

JOHN J. MANGAN.

ANOTHER FOR REED.

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 9.—In discussing possible Democratic candidates with the average man not in politics, there is a very strong feeling in accord with the sentiment expressed by R. G. McMahon in this column on Feb. 8, to wit: that James Reed of Missouri has the confidence of the people and would make an outstanding President. There is little doubt of his qualifications; an able lawyer, a fearless statesman and a determined leader. Those who followed his activities in the senate appreciate his contempt for the hypocrites and pussyfooters that prevail in politics today.

But despite his ability he is given no consideration by the practical politicans, as they are in search of a slave and not a master. A DEMOCRAT.

RELIEF FOR LANDLORDS.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—There are still a few property owners who have not bought buildings with inflated values but are slowly losing their lives' savings put into these buildings because of the unjust attitude of the relief organizations in their refusal to pay rents. If there is money for food isn't the landlord entitled to something for shelter?

A PROPERTY OWNER.

AN ETHICAL INTERPRETATION OF DEPRESSION.

Chicago, Feb. 3.—History proves that economic and social conditions are not determined by men's deliberate planning but that they are the result of an unconscious insensible trend determined by the moral status of the people. History clearly shows that the collapse of civilization is not the result of arbitrary acts of divine wrath but rather the logical outcome of selfish policies and abuse of moral law. That our present problem resolves itself back to a moral basis becomes evident if we but trace any or all of the causes usually ascribed to the depression back to their last analysis.

Thus the term "overproduction" becomes greed, "concentration of wealth" becomes avarice, "speculation" becomes folly, "extravagance and luxury" becomes lust, while dishonesty and lack of confidence are obviously the results of the abuse of moral principles. It is daily becoming more evident that a high standard of living and a complex credit system can only be successfully maintained together with a high moral standard and that coöperation, faith and honesty are the absolute essentials to such an interdependent state. Shall we learn too late that selfish, greedy policies by the very nature of man's moral constitution are self-destructive?

In view of the fact that the solution to the situation ultimately demands a return to the thorough going principles of integrity, honesty and sincerity, and in view of the fact that the lessons of want and privation appear only to embitter and harden men rather than turn them to repentance, it would not appear to be such a crime to be a pessimist. As long as the real cause of the matter lies untouched all other remedies are but temporary expedients which but prolong the inevitable. D. A. PEDERSEN.

SCHOOL LIBRARIES.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—Is there a conspiracy against education in Chicago? It looks so. The latest apparent proof is the order from the public library board that books in the high school libraries shall not circulate—this as a result of the board of education's cutting of the library appropriations in two. If this doesn't prove a conspiracy it at least proves that while officials manage, education suffers. And for the most part the public does not know just how it suffers.

But this case is clear: On the shelves of the high school libraries are thousands of books which cost thousands of dollars. The books belong to the public library. The handling of them is paid for, at least in part, by the board of education. To save the small salaries of a few assistants who charge and discharge the books on the pupils' library cards, the board of education cuts its appropriation. The assistants are dismissed, and the order goes out, "No books are to circulate." There are the books, and there are the pupils, and there is the wall between. The pupils may sit in the library forty minutes a day, if they happen to have a free period—not all of them have—and read, but they may not take the books home for evening reading or for the leisure of Saturday or Sunday.

As a result the work of the English classes is nearly stopped, that of history classes greatly hindered and that of many other classes badly handicapped. The saving in money, compared with the cost of the equipment, is very small. The real loss is in the education of the young people.

Is there a conspiracy against education in Chicago? MAY ESTELLE COOK.

Hawes Flinches at Brand Flung by Official.

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war, today told Senator Hawes [Dem., Mo.] that he considered the Hawes-Cutting bill to give independence to the Philippine islands within approximately five years "a cowardly thing."

SENATOR H. B. HAWES. [A. P. Photo.]

Pudgy Senator Hawes puffed heavily, leaned across the lap of the man between him and the secretary of war, and shouted up into the tall Oklahoman's smiling face something about withdrawing that word "cowardly."

Stands by His Guns.

But Secretary Hurley said that he couldn't, because it was already in the record of the committee, and that he wouldn't, because he believed the bill was built on fear.

All this happened this morning before Senator Bingham's [Rep., Conn.] territories and insular affairs committee met to discuss the abilities of the Filipinos to govern themselves. Twenty or more Filipinos sat silent and smiled inscrutably as they listened to the outburst.

It started calmly enough with the secretary of war referring to his statement yesterday before a similar house committee and with Senator King's [Rep., Utah] remark:

"I know the secretary's views are opposed to Filipino independence."

"You're just exactly 100 per cent wrong," flared up Mr. Hurley.

Then Senator King tried to pin Secretary Hurley down to a commitment as to a definite time when independence should be granted—5, 10, 20 years—but Hurley insisted more and more vehemently each time that independence should not be based on the calendar, but on economic stability of the islands.

Senator Hawes added his rebuke that the secretary of war had persistently refused to suggest a time when independence should come.

"O!" said Hurley in irriation, "you can't give a people their independence at 2 o'clock on a specific day. This Hawes-Cutting bill attempts to tear down in five years all that the United States has built up in twenty. It is cowardly."

There was a sharp silence. Finally Senator Hawes whispered, "What do you mean by cowardly?" and the secretary replied, "It hasn't one element of courage."

After Senator Hawes had leaned across the table and demanded the withdrawal of the word, Secretary Hurley, in refusing, asserted that Senator Hawes, at previous hearings, had told Filipino witnesses that "if they said a word against Philippine independence they would not dare go back to the islands."

"That's a pretty serious imputation," Senator King started to say and Secretary Hurley shouted, "That's not an imputation; that's a statement; get me the record."

Hawes Climbs Down.

The document was handed to him and he was getting ready to read, when Senator Hawes remarked, hurriedly, "I admit the secretary's statement: there is no necessity to read the record."

Hurley's Stand Stirs Anger of Filipinos; Quezon Objects

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANILA, Feb. 11.—A strong wave of indignation is sweeping Filipino official circles following reports of Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley's testimony declaring that the Filipinos are incapable of running their own government, given yesterday before the house committee on insular affairs.

MANUEL QUEZON. [H. & E. Photo.]

Political leaders accuse the secretary of war of reversing his position with regard to Philippine independence, first giving indications of willingness to arrange a definite settlement of the Philippine problem, then advocating indefinite postponement.

Says Unsupported by Fact.

"If it is true that Hurley declared before a house committee that the Filipino people were incapable of self-government, he made a statement that is both offensive to our people and unsupported by fact," Quezon declared.

"We are far more capable of governing ourselves than many independent peoples.

"Nothing would make the Filipinos more determined to get independence than denial of their capacity for self-government, because this means their association with America can rest only upon the relationship between ruler and subject.

Not Willingly Accepted.

"Such association never can be willingly accepted by any self-respecting people. Under such a situation all Filipinos will unite, preferring economic hardship with independence to economic prosperity with subjection.

"I have been willing to accept a limitation of our imports and immigration provided this was done as part of a program definitely setting a date for granting independence in the near future, but to retain the Philippines under the American flag for an indefinite period and at the same time deny us rights and privileges others enjoy under the flag would be an injustice and abuse of power upon a helpless people."

Only One Indoor Circus for Chicago This Spring

Chicago will have only one indoor circus appearing in the city this spring. At a conference yesterday with Zach Terrell, manager of the Sells-Floto circus, which opens a sixteen day engagement on April 16 in the Coliseum, directors of the Chicago Stadium agreed that no competing show would appear during the period in their hall. Last year the European Olympic circus ran a competing engagement at the Stadium against Sells-Floto.

The late John S. Holmes, retired real estate broker, who died on Sept. 14, left an estate valued at more than $2,000,000, it was disclosed yesterday when the inventory was filed before Nuncio J. Bonelli, assistant to Probate Judge Henry Horner. Mr. Holmes was 63 years old when he died. The entire estate was left to the widow, Mrs. Maud Holmes, who lives at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

The greater portion of the property consists of Cook county real estate. Mr. Holmes also possessed stocks valued at more than $73,000. These include 100 shares of Allied Chemical company, 25 shares of American Can company, 164 shares of American Ice company, 276 shares of American Telephone and Telegraph company, 112 shares of American Woolen company, 100 shares of Armour & Co., 100 shares of Atlantic Refining, 330 shares of Bethlehem Steel, 200 shares of Curtiss Wright company, and 210 shares of Ford Motor of Canada.

U. S. WILL LIMIT CROP LOANS TO $400 TO FARMER

Money to Come from Fifty Million Fund.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Regulations governing the administration of loans to farmers from the $50,000,000 fund set aside for that purpose under section 2 of the act creating the reconstruction finance corporation were issued today by Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde.

The act establishing the reconstruction corporation and authorizing the 500 million dollar appropriation for its operation, provided that $50,000,000 of the amount so subscribed shall be allocated to the secretary of agriculture for "loans or advances to farmers in cases where an emergency exists as a result of which farmers are unable to obtain loans for crop production during the year 1932."

The maximum loan which may be granted to any applicant, under the rules promulgated today by Secretary Hyde, is $400, while not more than $1,600 will be loaned to the tenants of any one land owner in a single county. All loans are to be based on a stipulated rate per acre, with the rate varying according to agricultural conditions and the purposes for which the loan is made. Borrowers from the fund, under the department's regulations, must agree to "use seed and methods approved by the department of agriculture" and must also agree to "plant a garden for home use and a sufficent arceage of feed crops to supply feed to their live stock."

All borrowers are required to execute a promissory note for the amount of the loan, payable to the secretary of agriculture at a 5½ per cent rate of interest, to mature on Nov. 30, 1932.

In addition, the loans will be secured by crop mortgages, crop liens, or other similar instruments according to the laws of the state in which the applicant is a resident, which will enable the secretary of agriculture, in event of failure to pay the promissory note, to harvest the crop and sell it to satisfy the debt to the government.

Loans to Illinois farmers from the new fund will be made through the department's office in St. Louis, Mo.

ALCOHOL IS POSER FOR U. S. DRY FORCE, DR. DORAN ADMITS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—No denaturant has been found which is impossible of removal when added to pure alcohol, James M. Doran, commissioner of industrial alcohol, admitted today in a discussion of the problems faced by his organization.

JAMES M. DORAN. [(c) Harris & Ewing]

"The whole chemical world has been working on this problem for fifty years," Dr. Doran said, "and such a denaturant has not yet been found. The skilled technician will always be able to recover alcohol from any mixture, if he has the necessary facilities and resources at his command."

Balked in its attempts to find a denaturant which could not be removed, the government has devoted its efforts Dr. Doran said, to making "recovery of the alcohol for beverage purposes as difficult and expensive as possible."

For several years the government added wood alcohol, a deadly poison, to pure alcohol in order to prevent its use as a beverage. So many casualties were caused by this concoction that a storm of criticism was leveled against the government's use of poison in enforcement of the prohibition laws. Now, according to Dr. Doran, the "government does not poison alcohol to enforce prohibition."

"Wood alcohol," he added, "has not been used as a denaturant in completely denatured alcohol since Jan. 1, 1931."

North Chicago Proposes Cut in Employes' Pay

Officials of North Chicago tentatively advanced a new retrenchment policy yesterday, in which salaries will be reduced on an average of $10 a month and all wages will be cut 10 cents an hour. Those affected are members of the police, fire and street departments.

U. S. SEEKS NEW RULING ON RUM PERMIT DECISION

Court Plea Objects to Edict of Fitzhenry.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Assistant United States Attorney General Norman J. Morrison today filed in the federal court here a plea for the rehearing of a case in which Judge Louis Fitzhenry had decided that the federal prohibition department was acting illegally when it issued permits for the use of alcoholic liquors in foodstuffs.

NORMAN MORRISON

The judge's decision, handed down last November, reprimanded the federal authorities for issuing such permits and enjoined the Purity Bakery company of Alton from using liquor in its goods.

Mr. Morrison's action placed the government on the side of a technical violator of the law. The baking company is also a party to the request for a rehearing.

"If this decision stands," said Mr. Morrison, "the use of liquor by physicians, dentists, hospitals and first aid stations is also in violation of the national prohibition act. We had no knowledge that the permit regulations of congress were being attacked until the decision of the judge here reached Washington."

He added that the judge apparently had been misled by a brief filed in the original case by the district attorney.

Judge Fitzhenry said that he would consider the new arguments and announce a ruling later. At the same time he pointed out that his original decision had been based on the terms of the general prohibition law.

MAKING OF FUDGE NO SMALL SOCIAL ACHIEVEMENT

Requires Care in Cooking, Selecting Flavors.

BY ROE FOWLER.

Any male—especially an unattached young male with married friends—is likely to come to that point in the course of human events where the conversation lulls, and then some one brightly says, "O, let's all go out into the kitchen and make fudge." That is what married friends invariably do when all else palls. Make fudge.

That wouldn't be so bad, if they really made fudge. But a lot of them, after gaily rattling the pots and pans, lighting the gas stove, and shoveling a scad of butter, sugar, and milk together with some cocoa, decide to call it a day.

As a kibitzer of fudge making with many years of experience to my credit [imaginary credit, I fear], I know make bold to declare that the making of fudge is one of the least known of all the cookery arts. The messes I have eaten in the sweet name of fudge! Nine persons out of ten do not even know what real fudge is. They've never tasted it.

Variety of Flavors.

In the first place, with due respect to the cocoa industry, the habit of flavoring fudge with cocoa or chocolate is the bane of all good candy makers. Nice creamy chocolate fudge is good, but to know only chocolate fudge is, as the poet says of England. They little know of fudge, who only chocolate know. There are lots of other flavors: Vanilla, lemon, almond [flavor], pineapple—those are only a few. Then there's cinnamon. Some like raspberry. Yes, there is such a flavor. And too, there's peppermint.

Then there are lots of nut flavors, which can be prepared by mashing nut meats and mixing with butter. This makes the nut flavor permeate the fudge, and the whole nut kernels may be added or not, as the maker sees fit. If you don't like to get nut meats in your teeth, you can leave out the whole kernels, thereby eliminating most of the hazards of fudge munching.

Here's Basic Recipe.

The basic recipe for fudge, whatever the flavor, consists of two cups of sugar, one cup of milk, and a tablespoonful of butter. A pinch of salt makes the ingredients blend better, I'm told. The butter and sugar should be creamed together, then the milk added, and the whole thing boiled until a drop of the fudge into a glass of tap water will form a ball.

Then the fudge should be taken off the fire and beaten, while the flavoring is added. If it's a prepared flavoring, there are generally directions on the box telling how much to use. For other flavorings, use your own judgment plus the flavoring.

When the fudge begins to appear stringy, pour it into a flat pan previously buttered, and set it out for the cats to knock off of the window sill. If the cats don't perform this duty, you probably will do it yourself when you reach for the pan to take it in.

One of the rituals to be observed—at least it is always observed at the fudge parties I have kibitzed—is that the fudge must fail to harden the first time. Then it is taken inside, after being given an hour or so in which to prove its supineness, and the whole gooey mass is scraped back into the cooking pan, taking care to string plenty of it over the table, chairs, floors, and the kibitzer, if he is foolish enough to stick around.

Where Experience Helps.

Any kibitzer of much experience will know enough to depart ere this stage is reached. Otherwise, the fudge might double-cross him and harden, and then he would have to eat some of it. We are talking about the kind of fudge, of course, which is made for entertainment rather than for eating. The kind married persons make for bachelors.

Well, after the fudge is scraped back into the cooking pan, you boil it some more, and then you beat it, and while you beat it it goes to sugar. Good thing it did, because the flat pan is dirty, and nobody wanted to butter it and get his fingers sticky.

Some day I am going to rebel. I am going to grab the pots and pans and make a batch of real candy. My married friends will be astonished. O, fudge!

Pork Roast, Chops, Steak Are Economical Buys

In its regular weekly report issued for the guidance of consumers the committee on marketing information of the Meat Council of Chicago states: "Loin of pork for roasting, pork chops, and round steak represent the most economical meat buys for the housewife over the coming week-end."

IODINE IN BODY OF MAN EQUAL IN SIZE TO PIN HEAD

This Health Essential Large in Certain Foods

Even abundant, savory diets may lack certain essentials for health not apparent to the ordinary senses of taste, smell or sight, according to J. F. Lyman, agricultural chemist at the Ohio State university.

The body of a man, he says, contains a small amount of iodine, equal in size to a piece about as large as the head of a common pin.

Lack of Iodine Causes Goiter.

This iodine is necessary for the proper functioning of the organs. If it falls much below normal a diseased condition of the thyroid gland, called goiter, results.

Goiter, Lyman points out, is common in those sections where the natural drinking waters and foods are low in iodine, but it is practically unknown where iodine is relatively abundant. For example, carrots from South Carolina, where goiter is low, contain 60 times as much iodine as do carrots from Oregon, where goiter is common. In goiterous sections it is best is use imported foods or idodized salt to protect the children.

An Anemic Condition.

Another constituent of the body that is present in small proportions, but whose function is of major importance is iron. There is about enough in the body to make an ordinary finger ring. This iron is found mostly in the blood, particularly in the red substance called hemoglobin. When the iron of the body becomes depleted, because of severe losses of blood or because of insufficient iron in the food, a pale, anemic condition results.

Parsley, he asserts, contains more iron than any other food. It is relatively abundant in liver, apricots, lima beans, eggs, molasses, spinach, milk, butter, fats, and fish.

FINDS BACON IS FAVORED FOOD OF YOUNG CHILDREN

Ames, Ia., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Crisp bacon is one of the foods which children of the pre-school age like best, according to Dr. Thomas F. Vance of the department of psychology at Iowa State college. Dr. Vance's observation was made from the order in which children tasted and finished food set before them in the nursery school at Iowa State college during four terms.

Crisp bacon headed the list in the foods finished first. Tomato sandwiches, celery sandwiches, meat balls, meat loaf, apple rings, salmon, liver, turnips, bread and butter sandwiches and several of the common garden vegetables ranked high on the list of 86 foods.

When the preference for foods prepared in various ways is considered, records show raw vegetables are preferred to creamed and buttered vegetables and that broiled meat and sandwiches rank high. Toast also ranks high.

VALUE OF BEAN CROP HINGES ON YIELD FROM EUROPE AND ORIENT

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Diplomats may have nothing to say about the bean crop; nevertheless, it suffers from international complications. Before New York state's two million bushel crop—which is 87 per cent larger than last year's—is properly valued the yields in Japan, Chile, Rumania, Hungary, and Jugo-Slavia must be considered, according to Prof. M. C. Bond of the New York State College of Agriculture.

New York and Michigan had large crops last year, while Colorado, California, and Montana had smaller crops than usual. This makes the total yield for the United States seven per cent less than last year, but 11 per cent more than the five year average. The carryover of colored beans was heavy, but the carryover for white beans was light.

The Japan carryover was large but has so far had little effect on the price. Chile had 62,000 bushels left, compared to 433,000 bushels the year before. The Rumanian crop is estimated to be one-third larger than last year, but the total is offset by smaller crops in Hungary and Jugo-Slavia.

United States bean exports for the first eleven months of 1931 were 16 per cent larger than for the same period of 1930. Porto Rico used 44 per cent more beans in 1931 than in 1930, or about 242,000 bushels. Japan plans to grow one-fourth fewer acres and Chile 6 per cent less than last year.

The New York state crop averaged 17.5 bushels to the acre, as compared to the usual yield of about 13 bushels, because of the unusually favorable fall weather. The crop is the largest in 18 years and is of excellent quality, Prof. Bond says.

TOMATOES, RAW OR CANNED, HAVE VITAMINS, TOO

Tomatoes are just as valuable as oranges for vitamin content, says Ruth M. Dawson, foods specialist of the North Dakota extension service. Commercially canned tomatoes and home canned supplies are inexpensive and represent a thrifty means of living well, she advises housewives.

"This vegetable is comparable with the best fruits and is a 'fool proof' way of adding vitamin C and other regulatory and protective food elements to the menu, whether the tomatoes are cooked, canned or raw."

167 MILLION DROP IN FOOD EXPORTS FROM U. S. IN 1931

Foreign Demand for Fresh Fruits Shows Gain.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Exports of foodstuffs from the United States dropped to a total value of 374 million dollars in 1931 C. H. Kardell of the commerce department's foodstuff division, announced today. The value of foodstuffs exports in 1930 was 541 millions, a decline of 167 millions in a year. The 1931 figures, he said, was on an approximate level with pre-war foodstuff exports, but the decline does not represent loss in quantity so much as decrease in prices.

Greatest Loss in Meats.

Trade in cereals and cereal products, meats and fats and oils showed the greatest loss, according to Mr. Kardell, while shipments of fresh, canned and dried fruits, fresh, salted, smoked and cured fish, and feeds and fodders increased considerably.

"The foreign market for fresh fruit," the report stated, "particularly apples, oranges, grapefruit, and lemons continued to show the expansion of past years and in this year of low prices the total value of all fresh fruits exported practically held its own amounting to $56,249,000, compared with $56,608,000 a year ago.

Grain Exports in 1931.

"The total value of grain and grain products exported in 1931 aggregated $106,046,000 and constituted approximately 28 per cent of the total value of all foodstuffs exported compared with 35 per cent in 1930 and 38 per cent in 1929. Wheat and wheat flour combined, comprise about four fifths of the trade in cereals, with nearly as much wheat exported in 1931 as in 1930. Lower prices, however, resulted in a decline in value of 44.6 per cent. About one fourth less flour was exported with a decline of 50 per cent in value compared with a year ago.

"Meat products comprised about one tenth of the value of the food export trade, and show a greater decline compared with a year ago than any other class of foodstuffs. There were approximately 254,000,000 pounds of meats of all kinds exported in 1931, valued at $36,000,000, a decline of 127,000,000 pounds and $30,000,000 compared with 1930. The bulk of the decrease occurred in the bacon trade, which fell off from 94,846,000 pounds in 1930 to 38,428,000 pounds in 1931."

First Pineapples of Season Arrive Here from Cuba

Some of the season's first pineapples are arriving from Cuba. April, May and June are the months when shipments are heaviest from Cuba and the Isle of Pines. It is during those months that both commercial and home canning of the Cuban crop becomes popular each year.

How many times have you been troubled with this question, "What shall I serve tonight that will be different and tempting?" Here is a happy answer, serve Creamettes "the more tender, more delicious macaroni product."

SOME IDEAS FOR THAT VALENTINE DINNER PARTY

Hints on Preparing the Menu Given.

"Muse, bid the morn awake,
Sad winter now declines.
Each bird doth choose a mate,
This day's St. Valentine's.
For that good bishop's sake,
Get up, and let us see
What beauty it shall be
That Fortune us assigns."

BY BETTY BROWNING.

Thus Drayton referred nearly 400 years ago to the time honored belief that on St. Valentine's day the first maiden a man encounters will be his true love for the twelve months following. And this is but one of the traditions which since pagan times have marked Feb. 14 as the day of Love with a capital L, when even the birds turn romantic and go a-wooing.

Perhaps you do not believe that Cupid moves in manner so unmysterious—or reckless. You may have even relegated that good old custom of sending valentines to the youngest of the younger generation. There may be no sentiment whatsoever about you; still you cannot afford to overlook St. Valentine's day. It is too good a time to give a party.

Table Decorations!

For one thing, there is this atmosphere of the day to put the hostess in a frame of mind for friendly gestures and her guests in a receptive mood. Some rare unsusceptible spirits may prove invulnerable to sentiment and tradition, but let them try to resist the early spring flowers in the florists' windows, the crimson boxes of sweets, the heart shaped cakes and cookies in the confectioners' shops!

Getting down to the serious business of arranging your party, what other occasion offers such enchanting adornments for the festive board? Cupids, arrows, hearts, hearts, arrows, Cupids—but stop! Decorations for your table are a story in themselves, and Miss Flora Martin is telling it.

Here's an Idea.

But before you select your place cards consider for an instant a quaint valentine custom, the most ancient of them all. It might well be revived to increase the merriment of your guests provided you are sufficiently sure of their congeniality. Instead of seating them by previous arrangement put their names in a box and have them draw their dinner partners.

This was the way Roman youths and maidens drew sweethearts every February in the public square to join with them in the festivities of the Lupercalia, holidays dedicated to Juno and Pan. When the good Romans turned Christian, they were so loath to discontinue the romantic practice that it was made a custom of St. Valentine's day, which occurred at almost the same time of year. St. Valentine's day originally commemorated the martyrdom of two saints, a Roman priest and an Umbrian bishop, who were killed and buried in Rome within 24 hours of each other.

The Menu.

Since St. Valentine's day comes on Sunday this year, you probably will plan a dinner for your guests. If yours is to be a prohibition party, you might start them off with a red cranberry cocktail. If otherwise, thin, heart-shaped slices of toast spread with red caviar or anchovies adorned with red peppers are a possibility.

Then continue the menu in the red and white vein wherever possible:

Love Apple Soup (Tomato Bisque)
Creole Shrimp
or Beef Hearts
Stuffed Baked Potato Sprinkled with Paprika
Peas in Heart-Shaped Timbale Cases
Dinner Rolls Butter
Radishes
Valentine Salad
Apricot Parfait
Cocoanut Kisses

CREOLE SHRIMP.

4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon curry powder
½ teaspoon salt
Dash paprika
Dash cayenne
1½ cups milk
3 tablespoonfuls catsup
¼ cup cooking sherry
1½ cups shrimps
Toast or rice
Chopped parsley

Melt butter, add flour, curry powder, salt, paprika, and cayenne. Stir in milk gradually. When thick and smooth add catsup, sherry and shrimps. Serve on toast or cooked rice. Sprinkle paprika or chopped parsley. Yield: 6 servings.

APRICOT PARFAIT.

1-3 c. sugar
2 egg whites
2-3 c. whipping cream

Soak apricots overnight, or cook until tender. Drain off the juice in which they have been soaked or cooked, add juice to the sugar and boil until syrup spins a thread. Pour the syrup over stiffly beaten egg whites, beating constantly. Continue beating until cool. Press the apricots through a sieve and chill. Whip the cream until stiff, add the apricot pulp, and fold in the egg white mixture. Freeze 3-4 hours in refrigerator or pack in salt and ice, 4 parts of ice to 1 part of salt.

New Ideas May Aid Success of St. Valentine's Hostess

BY FLORA MARTIN.

A ring, a thimble, and a piece of money, no, not for a wedding cake, but to be buried in the St. Valentine day cake. The superstitions that go with each of these trinkets are as old as the hills and are known to practically every one. But, in case your memory has lapsed, the lucky one who finds the ring in his slice of cake will be the first to wed; prospects are not so rosy for the thimble finder, for he or she is destined to be an old maid or bachelor; and money, money, and more money is to come the way of the coin winner.

But that's only a part of the Valentine's party. There are menus to be planned and table decorations to be worked out. Hostesses can let their imaginations run wild in planning the decorations. Ideas can be found aplentiful and the one who resorts to her originality rather than following ironclad rules will doubtlessly have the most unique and interesting table display.

Unique Color Scheme.

A unique red and white color scheme can be carried out by using a white linen tablecloth as the base. Little red cardboards scattered over the white linen and red candles mounted in holders on either end of the table can be used to start the scheme. In case you want to carry the decorations out in a more ornate fashion the candles can be mounted in a red rose fashioned of heavy crêpe paper.

For the centerpiece there can be real red carnations or red roses tied with narrow ribbons of the same color running to each place at the table, ending in a red heart place card. Or there might be a centerpiece of violets and sweetheart roses and individual small old fashioned bouquets of the roses for each of the feminine guests. In case this scheme is carried out the color of the other decorations should be softer and more in keeping with the delicate shading of the sweetheart roses.

Another suggestion for a centerpiece is a "Jack Horner pie" packed with hidden favors attached to red ribbons to be strung out to each place. It could be made of red tissue paper in the shape of a heart or as a rose with cupid sitting atop.

Better still, you can use the Valentine's cake, which will be an edible as well as decorative feature, for the main position on the table. This can be made in the shape of a heart and you won't have to go out to buy extra baking tins to do it. Instead use a fairly large heart shaped candy box for the baking dish. Line the sides and bottom of the box with two thicknesses of unglazed paper cut out to fit the box. Grease the top of the bottom layer of paper and pour the batter, which may be made from any butter cake recipe, into the box.

Frosting Must Be Red.

When the cake is done turn out on a rack and peel the paper off. It may be frosted with any kind of a boiled white icing. The final touch comes in decorating the top, using a pastry gun or bag, with red frosting. The frosting for decoration purposes can be made out of the white of one egg into which one cup of powdered sugar has been beaten tablespoon by tablespoon. Then add a drop or two of red vegetable coloring.

Cookies, salad preparations, desserts, and many other foods can also be molded into heart shapes. And while on the subject of hearts don't forget the tiny red hearts or the white ones on which love messages are traced for the candy cups at each place.

PURDUE TEACHES HOW TO MAKE APPLE BUTTER

Farmers and farm housewives of Indiana were given lessons in the somewhat forgotten art of making apple butter in a recent winter "short course" at Purdue university. A brass kettle and a supply of firewood comprise all necessary equipment for the open kettle method, according to Prof. C. L. Burkholder, assistant chief in the horticultural department.

For a 12 gallon batch, he said, 20 gallons of fresh cider are put into the kettle, brought to a slow boil and held there all day, with about seven gallons of fresh cider added in portions throughout the boiling to maintain the quantity.

In the evening this batch is drained, the kettle washed out with vinegar, and then the boiling is renewed after a half bushel of pared and quartered apples has been added.

Additional quantities of these pared apples are poured in until three bushels have been added. Ten pounds of sugar is put in and the boiling continued slowly until the butter will no longer run off the paddle used for stirring. With cinnamon and cloves to suit the taste, the apple butter is complete.

Household Hints

To save time in making custards, scald the milk before adding it to the egg.

When weather does not permit outdoor play, dress the child warmly and let him play in a room with all the windows open.

Cream soups can be made from almost any of the common vegetables by combining two-thirds of a cup of vegetable pulp with one cup of thin white sauce.

When making apple pie for the grown-ups of the family, put some of the peeled, sliced apples in individual baking dishes and make baked apple sauce for the children.

FIND ELECTRICITY COLORS APPLES AS WELL AS SUN

1,500 Watt Lamp Used in Coloring Fruit.

Geneva, N. Y., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Coloring McIntosh apples with a 1,500 watt electric lamp in place of the sun is the latest accomplishment of scientists at the state experiment station here who are making a study of color formation in apples.

The coloring was as complete as though the fruit had developed under favorable natural conditions, according to L. R. Streeter and G. W. Pearce, station chemists, who reported on their investigations at a recent meeting of the society for horticultural science.

For Laboratory Study.

The coloring of apples with electric light has little or no immediate application to commercial practice, say these specialists, who add, however, that it is an exceedingly useful laboratory method for studying the development of color in fruit.

"Upon continuous exposure for four or five days to a 1,500 watt lamp, apples that showed no red color began to appear as streaks of red after 60 to 70 hours exposure. The color continued to develop for about three days more, after which no further increase in color was detectable.

Sun Is Faster Worker.

"Apples exposed to cloudless sunlight in October and November seldom show signs of color development until the end of the second day or after about 16 hours of light exposure. In our experiments apples held in cellar storage at 45 degrees Fahrenheit for three months responded to electric light treatment and developed color, although they did not become as intensely colored as apples treated soon after picking."

Colored glass filters were used in these experiments to determine just what part of the spectrum was responsible for pigment formation in McIntosh apples. By this means the most effective wave length of light was ascertained, and the fact established that a 1,500 watt lamp with a suitable reflector would provide a good source of light with the required wave length.

YELLOW CORN HAS GREATER FOOD VALUE

Tests of sweet corn conducted at the University of Wisconsin indicate that yellow corn has a decided advantage in food value over white corn, because of the vitamin A content of the yellow corn. The experimenters reported that an average serving of the yellow vegetable provided about the same amount of vitamin A as that found in an ordinary helping of butter, whereas but little of the vitamin was present in the white varieties.

STRAWBERRIES OUT OF WINTER LUXURY CLASS

They're Plentiful, Good, and Reasonable.

BY EVERETT SWINGLE.

"Strawberries and cream" in bygone days was a term synonymous only with the final assurance that summer really had arrived. It meant that home grown berries were on the market and had reached a price low enough so that those with ordinary food budgets could purchase what otherwise was a delicacy and a luxury.

In winter months a pint box of strawberries was a luxury, no less, for it cost probably 50 cents and possibly a dollar or more. The trade didn't bother to put them in the quart size containers.

But the southern states have changed all that. Florida growers in the olden days shipped only scant supplies to the northern markets and until a few years ago the small supplies of berries arriving in Chicago in midwinter were scarcely sufficient to take care of the demand from caterers and hotels that specialized in out of season foods.

Acreage Increased.

Now the small berry patches of the southern states have grown to vast acreages that overlap in production and force competition into the selling rather than the buying of these winter and early spring fruit supplies.

Prices reflect this change although the low range has not discouraged the southern truck growers from putting in an even larger acreage this year. One year ago strawberries were selling at about 25 cents a pint, yet even that price is high compared with the usual price this winter.

Price Goes Lower.

Grocers at present are able to give you berries that carry their own appetite appeal in color and taste and yet cost no more than 15 to 20 cents a pint, depending on size and quality. "Strawberries and cream" seems to have lost its one time value as an indication as to when summer arrives.

Wholesalers on the South Water market have never seen such a supply of the berries in winter time as they have this year. Instead of partial carlots, the shipments have been coming to Chicago by the carlots and several of them, at that, in a day.

So far this year the "early state" growers have picked and shipped more than 900 carloads, although in 1931 at the same date the shipments had totaled but 294 carloads.

There's a brand new way of coating sponge cake cubes, cup cakes, and tiny cakes in rainbow colored frostings so that the humblest little cake squares are transformed into gay and dainty petits fours. Your little cakes will retain their delicious home made flavor, but they will have that elusive caterer's finish, for good cakes must have good looks, too.

These novel frostings are made with fresh, fruit flavored gelatine in delicate pastel shades, and you can have them in harmony with whatever color scheme you wish to have at your luncheons or teas. The new lime flavored gelatine will make a delicate green frosting and the cherry flavor a lovely red. And the frostings will remain soft and moist for two days.

To make a rainbow lime frosting, combine one tablespoon of lime gelatine prepared in three tablespoons of boiling water in the top of a small, deep double boiler or in a bowl. Place this over boiling water and stir until the contents are dissolved. Then add one tablespoon of melted butter, a dash of salt, and one and two-thirds cups of confectioner's sugar. Stir vigorously until the frosting is soft and the right consistency to pour. This will make two-thirds of a cup of frosting. [You may use the other gelatine flavors and colors in the same way.]

Or you can drop your cakes cubes or small cakes into the frosting, turning them until all the sides are covered. Then remove the cakes from the frosting with a fork and garnish with nuts and fruits.

This recipe for delicate sponge cake will make delicious cake cubes or squares: Sift and measure one cup of cake flour, add one teaspoon of baking powder, and sift together three times. Beat three eggs until they are thick and light and nearly white. Add one cup of sugar gradually, beating constantly. Add two tablespoons of lemon juice. Fold in the flour alternately with six tablespoons of hot milk, mixing quickly until the batter is smooth. Bake at once in an ungreased tube pan in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] for about forty-five minutes. Remove from the oven and invert the pan for one hour, or until cold.

To make plain cup cakes, sift and measure one and two-thirds cups of cake flour, add one and one-half teaspoons of baking powder, and sift together three times. Cream one-third cup of butter, add one cup of sugar gradually and cream together thoroughly. Add two eggs well beaten and then the flour alternately with the milk [one-half cup], taking a small amount of each at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add one teaspoon of vanilla extract. Pour into greased muffin pans, filling them about two-thirds full. Bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] twenty to twenty-five minutes. This will make about twenty-four cup cakes.

RESEARCH REVEALS ALL-BRAN RICH IN HEALTH-ELEMENTS

Helps Correct Constipation with "Bulk" and Vitamin B; Also Has Iron

Recent scientific research shows that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains two things needed to overcome temporary and recurring constipation. It has "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract.

These two important food-elements promote regular habits, and help do away with the headaches, loss of appetite and energy, so often the result of constipation.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is mild in action—much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. Special cooking processes make ALL-BRAN finer, softer, more palatable.

Isn't this pleasant "cereal way" far more healthful than using pills and drugs—so often habit-forming?

Just eat two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's daily—enough for most types of constipation. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Besides, ALL-BRAN brings your body twice as much blood-building iron as an equal amount by weight of beef liver.

Equally tasty as a cereal with milk or cream, or used in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

SPECIALIST DISCOVERS WHY CHILD FAILED IN SCHOOL

"He's lazy!" said his father. "He's a dull boy," said his teacher, and little Jimmy C—, aged 8, was demoted a grade. But neither was right. A child specialist found that Jimmy was a normal boy. "This child needs Balanced Nourishment, not a private instructor" was his verdict. Whereupon Jimmy's mother balanced his diet and the boy speedily became a bright, active youngster.

Thousands of children are listless and dull only because they are handicapped by the wrong kind of food. The choice of a breakfast food is highly important. Whole grain cereals—such as wheat and rice—are best because Mother Nature has packed them full of body-building elements; iron for the blood, lime for bones and teeth, carbohydrates for energy, proteins for muscle and tissue and a natural bran for regular, healthful elimination.

It is a well-known fact that most breakfast foods are devitalized—robbed of vital elements which Mother Nature stores in the whole grain. But here are two breakfast foods which retain all the rich, body-building elements of the entire kernel—WHEAT POPS and RICE POPS. They're crispy, crunchy, crumbly with the sun-ripened cereal flavor. Because of their wealth of food value, POPS are the most economical cereals you can buy. Ask your grocer for WHEAT POPS or RICE POPS by name—avoid devitalized foods. CHINA TO DEMAND SPECIAL LEAGUE SESSION ON WAR

Works Against Time to Beat Deadline.

GENEVA, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The Chinese delegation to the league of nations worked against time tonight as it wielded its most powerful weapon yet to block the Japanese conquest of Shanghai.

Dr. W. W. Yen, head of the delegation, will demand an extraordinary session of the league assembly, it was announced, to consider the Sino-Japanese controversy in a formal request to the council tomorrow, the last day before the time limit expires.

Seeks New Hearing.

He invoked articles X. and XV. of the league covenant in a renewed protest to the council on Jan. 29 and, according to regulations, he must submit his case to the assembly within fourteen days in order to obtain a hearing.

Such a move has been under consideration by the Chinese delegation for several days, it was learned, as the fighting in the far east proceeded in spite of peace negotiations.

The members are known to despair of getting results from the council or from the activities of the great powers on the scene of hostilities.

By his action two weeks ago Dr. Yen called the attention of the council's members to their pledges to preserve the political independence and territorial integrity of league signatories, and to their promises to resort to all possible measures of mediation to settle a dispute between signatories.

No Action After Inquiry.

The council thereupon authorized the formation of an inquiry into the situation at Shanghai by consular representatives of the great powers stationed there. This commission has already reported its findings to Secretary General Sir Eric Drummond, but no action has been taken.

If and when China appeals to the assembly that body will deliver a report which must be approved by all members of the league represented on the council and by a majority of the other members exclusive of the parties to the dispute.

Japanese Air Raiders Kill 50 Chinese Flood Refugees

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 11.—The feelings of Shanghai's foreign population, which were deeply stirred by the bombing of a Chinese cotton mill in the American section of the international settlement, were further intensified today when it became known that the Japanese had recently bombed a Chinese refugee camp housing Yangtze flood sufferers.

Japanese naval commanders today apologized to the American authorities here for the bombing of the mill.

The bombing of the camp, which is located two miles inside Chinese territory, occurred on Jan. 29, Feb. 5 and 6. Two thousand of the 10,000 refugees fled the camp after the first air raid.

The bombing was made public through the disclosure of a letter which Sir John Hope Simpson, director general of the national flood relief commission, wrote to T. V. Soong, finance minister, chairman of the organization which for several months has been caring for the refugees.

Several Die of Fright.

Simpson's letter said the Japanese bombing raid on Feb. 5 resulted in the death of a woman and a boy. Four were wounded and several died of fright.

Most of the refugees then fled from the camp into the country and only a few hundred stayed, consisting of hospital cases and aged persons. The next day Japanese bombers again visited the camp and dropped bombs. Forty-eight persons were killed. Nearly all of the victims were in the hospital. The camp was then entirely evacuated. One large building was demolished.

Simpson, who was sent here by the league of nations, made a strong protest to the Japanese consul general, pointing out that the action was inhumane and unnecessary, and that no military advantage was gained, as the camp was entirely occupied by homeless refugees.

A copy of his protest was sent to Edwin S. Cunningham, the United States consul general, as well as Mayor Wu Teh-chen of the Chinese city.

The Japanese motive is not known, but it is thought the camp may have been mistaken for a military barracks.

Rear Admiral Shimada, speaking in behalf of Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, commander of the Japanese third fleet, today expressed deep regret over the bombing of the cotton mill. He said the Japanese navy would pay the hospital expenses of the sixteen wounded workers and would also indemnify the families of the five workers who were killed.

He said that as soon as the details were learned, Admiral Nomura, accompanied by staff officers, personally called on Rear Admiral Montgomery M. Taylor of the American Asiatic fleet aboard his flagship Houston, and on Col. Richard S. Hooker, American marine commander. Nomura expressed deep regret that the Japanese plane had dropped bombs within the American sector.

Explains Bombing of Mill.

Admiral Shimada's explanation of the bombing follows:

"About 11 o'clock our scouts reported a concentration of Chinese troops along the Chinese side of Soochow creek. This concentration had been growing for several days, the Chinese considering themselves safe against our shelling.

"In order to disperse the Chinese troops we sent out a number of planes carrying small bombs. One plane, while flying over Soochow creek, swooped upward, causing the lock in the dropping apparatus to open and release two bombs, both of which struck the mill.

"Our aviator did not know the bombs had been dropped until he returned to the landing field. As soon as I arrived at Shanghai I issued orders to our flyers not to fly over the settlement, but some difficulty has been experienced because the pilots are unable at times to distinguish the settlement boundaries.

"Now I have issued strict orders that no aviator will be permitted to take up bombs until he is thoroughly familiar with the locality. I am very sorry about the incident, which was unintentional, and will in the future take precautions against further errors."

Lives of American marines were imperiled by the bombing. Nineteen were billeted not more than 200 feet away, while 200 marines were nearby, patrolling Soochow creek. The damage to the mill was estimated at $20,000.

JAPS BOMBARD WOOSUNG; NEW BATTLE RAGING

3,000 Trapped Chinese Saved in Shanghai.

leave Chapel, refused to emerge through the Japanese lines. Instead they insisted on passing in the opposite direction through Chinese lines. As a result virtually all the refugees went that way.

The Japanese are convinced that the only way to drive out the Chinese in the Shanghai-Woosung area is by a large scale military operation. Military authorities today said every preparation was being made for a strong armed drive that would put an end to the Chinese resistance in the shortest possible time.

Bluejackets, infantrymen, artillery, warships, and airplanes will take part in the big push.

The 500 pound bombs will be dropped only at Woosung. Their terrific power would make it impossible for them to be used at Chapei because of the nearness of the international settlement. Experts said such explosives would break windows for miles around and cause untold property damage.

These bombs will be used to destroy the Woosung guns along the sea front as well as the Chinese positions to the rear of and defending those forts from land attack.

Warn Ships of All Nations.

Before the action starts, the ships of all nations will receive word that during certain hours it will be dangerous to navigate the Whangpoo and the Yangtze in the vicinity of the forts.

During Thursday there was little action and no change in front. The day was Japan's national holiday, and the Japanese celebrated the 2,592d anniversary of the founding of their nation in gay fashion.

Visitors at Woosung headquarters drank toasts and offered banzai salutations in honor of the first emperor.

What the Chinese were doing to match the Japanese in the matter of man and munitions supplies for the big offensive remained uncertain, but the 19th route army—the unit entrenched in Chapei and at Woosung—fared very well so far as nonmilitary articles were concerned.

Gifts for Chinese Troops.

Gifts poured in from various parts of China, especially the south, the homeland of the 19th. These gifts included the famous Canton sun-dried duck and numerous other foods—pigs, chickens, sides of beef and noodles by the ton, as well as great quantities of corn, rice and other grain.

The 31st United States infantry was placed in one of the most difficult sectors of the settlement boundary today to relieve three companies of the Shanghai volunteer corps, one of them composed of American businessmen.

The soldiers took over the line from the gas works on Soochow creek northward along the boundary to a point just one block from the north railway station at Chapei—a building that has been battered by shells ever since the action started. The American line joins the Japanese on Range road on the border of the settlement.

John Barrymore's Wife Is Expecting Stork Soon

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Dolores Ethel Barrymore is to have a little sister or brother in May or June, according to John Barrymore today.

"Mrs. Barrymore [Dolores Costello] and I are very happy about it," Barrymore said.

Barrymore and Miss Costello, daughter of Maurice Costello, were married in November, 1928, and have a child, Dolores, three years old.

FARLEY DEFENDS MAGIC BOX THAT SHED $396,000

Gotham Sheriff Takes Fling at Seabury.

New York, Feb. 11.—[Special.]—The "good box, the wonderful box" from which Sheriff Thomas M. Farley once testified he drew most of his $396,000 bank deposits, came in for warm defense as a more secure place of deposit than banks, in the answer to Samuel Seabury's removal charges, made public today.

THOMAS M. FARLEY.

"Judge Seabury would undoubtedly have been better pleased had I kept all of my funds deposited in the Bank of United States or some of the other institutions in which I have, as sheriff of New York county, lost many thousands of dollars for which I am personally responsible," the sheriff ironically wrote in the reply which he submitted to Gov. Roosevelt and which the governor made public today in announcing that the removal charges would be the subject of a hearing in Albany on Tuesday of next week.

Defends "Good Box."

"I submit it is not for him to criticize my lifelong policy of preferring to safeguard my own funds rather than to intrust them to the doubtful security of such financial institutions."

The sheriff submitted an accountant's report that from 1925 to 1931 his average monthly bank balance was only about $1,500, thus proving, he said, his contention that the large total of his bank deposits was achieved mostly through multiple deposits and redeposits of the same funds.

Assail State Investigation.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Despite Republican protestations to the contrary, the proposed omnibus investigation of the administrative departments of the state, now under Democratic rule, is coming to be regarded by official Albany as an attempt on the part of Republican party leaders to place the Democratic party in the state on the defensive, while the Hofstadter committee is operating with the same objective in view where the Democratic administration of New York City is concerned.

Gov. Roosevelt and Lieut. Gov. Lehman today denounced the Republican proposal as purely partisan.

The adoption of the resolution and the ruthless process employed to put it through are viewed at the capitol more or less as partly in retaliation against Gov. Roosevelt for the severe censure he has passed in official utterances on the wastefulness of local governments upstate, in most instances controlled by the Republicans.

RICKSHA COOLIES WAR PROFITEERS; RATES TREBLED

SHANGHAI, Feb. 11.—(AP)—For the Chinese masses hereabouts the fighting of the last two weeks has brought nothing but extreme suffering, but there are a few who find themselves borne unexpectedly to undreamed of heights of prosperity.

The 'ricksha coolies are the worst of the profiteers, having doubled and trebled their rates, boosting the fare away up to 20 cents an hour in the traffic of carrying refugees and their belongings from the fighting zones into the comparative safety of the international settlement.

These are golden days, too, for the Chinese "mosquito sheets," the single paged newspapers filled with lurid fiction about Chinese military successes. They are bought up as fast as they can be printed and sometimes it seems as though half the people in Shanghai were reading the papers and the other half selling them. The Chinese barbers are cleaning up, too. The tonsorial business used to be monopolized by the Japanese, but these have fled and the few Chinese barbers left can't handle all the business.

Chicago Woman Leaves Nanking for Shanghai

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Consul General Willys R. Peck at Nanking today reported to the state department that several Americans, British, and Germans were leaving that former capital of the Chinese nationalist government for Shanghai. Among the Americans listed as departing from Nanking for Shanghai by steamer were Mrs. W. P. Roberts and her four children of Princeton, N. J.; Mrs. E. Marx, Indianapolis, Ind.; Mrs. B. M. Sims, Richmond, Va.; Miss L. S. Hammond, Chicago, and Mrs. E. Hykes, Reading, Pa.

KINGSFORD-SMITH ASKED TO HEAD CHINA'S AIRMEN

LONDON, Feb. 11.—[U. P.]—Commander Charles E. Kingsford-Smith, famous Australian flyer, has been offered the post of commander-in-chief of the Chinese air forces, the Daily Herald Correspondent reported tonight from Sydney. The correspondent said friends of the flyer believed he would accept an advisory post with the Chinese army but was not likely to engage in active service.

The Daily Herald dispatch said Kingsford-Smith admitted he had been negotiating with Chinese officials and had named a price for sale of his Australian National Airways fleet of planes to the Chinese. He declined, however, to discuss the question of his own services except to say that, if he sells the airways, he would consider "any offer."

Kingsford-Smith won fame for the first flight across the Pacific ocean from the United States to Australia, and later for flights across the Atlantic Ocean from Ireland to the United States and record-breaking trips between England and Australia.

Cantonese Fighting Planes Hop for War in Shanghai

HONGKONG, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Nine airplanes of the Cantonese army left here today to join the Chinese air force at Shanghai. Liberal contributions to the Shanghai defense fund and to finance refugee work have been collected in Hongkong. Chinese clerks gave 10 per cent of their monthly salaries. The Chinese press reported troops from Kwangsi province, en route to the Shanghai battle front, had reached southern Hunan.

Nation Celebrates in Its Stride.

TOKIO, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Kigensetsu, Japan's "Fourth of July," was celebrated today by public demonstrations in which the Sino-Japanese conflict played a part, but in which there was no great outbursts of the military spirit.

According to the Japanese, Kigensetsu is the anniversary of the founding of the nation in 660 B. C., by Jimmu Tenno, descendant of the sun goddess.

To the music of several bands, about 100,000 persons, most of them school girls and boys, paraded in Tokio. The processions converged on the great plaza in front of the imperial palace, where the marchers bowed their heads.

"Don Steel Helmets!"

They carried banners reading, "Be Loyal to the Emperor!" "Love Our Country!" "Don the Steel Helmet and Protect the Fatherland!" and "Courage and Service for Country!"

The national holiday celebration constituted almost the only departure from the calm with which the Japanese have accepted the events in Manchuria and Shanghai. In other cities than Tokio outward evidences of a war spirit were entirely lacking.

The people do not consider themselves at war. Crowds gather in front of bulletin boards and picture displays in the department stores, but they are not so large as the throngs that watch for sporting news in the baseball and championship wrestling seasons.

Lecture on China.

The important newspapers have started lecture programs to present to the people the issues in China, and one of them has raised about $140,000 to buy comfort kits for the boys at the front.

The big song hit of the day is "Manchuria March," which one hears everywhere. Newsboys, too, run through the streets jingling bells and crying, "Gogai! Gogai!" to get purchasers for their one sheet extras, devoted almost solely to pictures of the Shanghai and Harbin fronts.

PLAN SEPARATE GOVERNMENT FOR CHINA IN CANTON

CANTON, Feb. 12 (Friday).—(AP)—Fearing that the national government at Nanking may make an unfavorable settlement with Japan when peace again reigns at Shanghai, Cantonese leaders here today said they were preparing to establish a separate national government for China.

The announcement of the Cantonese leaders that they were contemplating again forming a government of their own marks the reopening of a split in Chinese politics which apparently had been healed by Japanese activity in Manchuria and Shanghai.

Mae Tinee Writes in German to Praise a German Movie

Beautiful Photography Marks Film Centering on Life of Frederick the Great.

BY MAE TINEE.

Good morning!

DAS Deutsche sprechfilm theater, the Cinema, again offers ein historischer film dealing with the politics, intrigues, and manners of another era. This time Frederick the Great is the figure about whom the action revolves.

Frederick was noted not only for his generalship but for his love of the arts and his patronage of Voltaire. He played a mean flute, and you behold him, toward the climax, performing on this instrument with his private orchestra, pausing when the need arises to issue orders to his officers. From the flute concert you accompany him to the battlefield—and here is a stirring and marvelously photographed finale, accomplished to the ringing music of the march "Fredericus Rex Our Hero and King." It is the finale of the film and the start of the Seven Years war between Prussia and Austria.

Photographically, this production is a gorgeous thing! The acting is of the fine, sincere and utterly unself-conscious quality that we are learning to expect from the German players. A most intelligent director insisted on authenticity at every turn and the wizard at the camera brings to the eye the most captivating visions of Frederick's beloved Sans Souci and the country thereabouts. Against these alluring backgrounds the lords and ladies of the period live their elaborately costumed and hair dressed and artificially mannered lives, with gallant, human, artistic and mighty little Frederick, usually accompanied by his favorite dog, mingling with, and yet, always vaguely aloof from them.

The picture's drawback—for non-Deutschsprechers—lies in its excessive talkiness. There are many stretches of dialog that weary those who weiss nicht what all the conversation is about. But, to balance this, there is so much of beauty and genuine interest to all, that I can honestly recommend the movie to everybody. It has one of the most thrilling horseback races — enemy soldiers chasing a messenger of the king—that you've ever seen. Hans Rehman, the chased, and, incidentally that servant who so doubts his frau, rides like Tom Mix and grins like Victor McLaglen.

"THE REAL HOLLYWOOD."

Burton Holmes' lecture.
Given at Orchestra hall.

The subject of Burton Holmes' present illustrated lecture, "The Real Hollywood," intrigued me! I dropped in at Orchestra hall to hear it and was glad that I had. So were a lot of others—for the theater was packed to the doors and the customers evinced every sign of being immensely interested and pleased.

This lecture should be fascinating to the fan who has never been to Hollywood—and to the one who has not visited California for a long time. For the years that have spawned the talkies have brought myriad changes both in the confines of the movie colony and thereabouts. Mr. Holmes treats his subject exhaustively and charmingly. [I only wished his movie might have been produced with sound. You'll understand why when you witness it.]

The lecturer takes you all the way from New York to California with him by airplane. The journey from coast to coast is fascinating, as pictured in gloriously colored scenes. Once on the coast, you have the time of your lives peeping into those of your favorite stars—and, possibly, some who are not your favorites.

"The Real Hollywood" will be repeated this evening and tomorrow afternoon.

See you tomorrow.

N. Y. Society Girls Use Horsemanship in Nursing Service

New York, Feb. 11.—(AP)—A group of young New York society girls, who could win prizes as equestriennes, are using their knowledge of horsemanship to aid the frontier nursing service in the Kentucky mountains.

These girls, most of whom are members of the Junior league, spend two months each in the mountain country, currying and grooming the horses used in the nursing service over an 800 square mile area, acting as couriers, and traveling between the nine service centers on missions of mercy.

Ethel Bartlett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Bartlett, and Elizabeth Boardman were the first two Manhattan girls to aid in this work in 1929.

Carmen Mumford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Mumford; Dorothy Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Benjamin Clark, and Hope Foote, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Foote, have already spent periods down there. They expect to serve again during the coming year.

New recruits to the service are Betty Yandell, daughter of Mrs. Lunsford P. Yandell, who will leave on Feb. 15; Challis Walker, daughter of Mrs. Roberts Walker, who will leave on May 1, and Frances Rousmaniere, daughter of John E. Rousmaniere, who expects to leave in the early summer.

The frontier nursing service is maintained by private contributions. Thirty nurses and one doctor are maintained and the nine public centers include an 18 bed hospital.

City Has Many Close Contacts with Lincoln

Those Who Knew Liberator Tell of Experiences.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Abraham Lincoln, on the way to his Washington inaugural in 1861, paused in the Buffalo station to shake hands with a small curly headed boy. A couple of years later President Lincoln chatted graciously one afternoon with another young lad who had been invited with his mother and sister for tea at the White House.

Today, the 123d anniversary of the Great Emancipator, two well known Chicago attorneys, the little boys of six or seven decades ago, will tell with pride of these experiences. And others who can boast "I knew Lincoln," claim a grandfather or great-uncle who rode the circuit with the rail splitter, or display a collection of his writings and personal effects will have an interesting story or two for their friends.

Granville Browning at White House Tea.

Granville W. Browning, who traces his descent on his mother's side to Chief Justice Marshall, was the young lad who sipped tea at the White House and refused a second piece of cake just for politeness sake. His father had been stationed in Washington as quartermaster of the Union army with the rank of lieutenant colonel.

"It was the simplest of teas with only ourselves and the wives of two officials present," Mr. Browning recalled. "Lincoln came in for only a few minutes and Mrs. Lincoln, who spoke with a soft voice and the vivacious mannerisms of a Kentuckian, failed to persuade him to have tea. I remember how tired his face and his deep set gray eyes were."

Mr. Browning can share this experience with Mrs. William J. Chalmers, who as the daughter of Allan Pinkerton, head of the secret service during the civil war, was also entertained for tea by Mrs. Lincoln. "But all I can remember," commented Mrs. Chalmers, "is that the president was terribly serious."

Loesch as Lad Bows to Lincoln.

Little was Frank J. Loesch worrying about Chicago and its ills when he had his excitement in the deepest bow he could muster on meeting Lincoln in the Buffalo station. His chum, Calvin Phelps, the son of Orson Phelps, who was chairman of the welcoming committee, was responsible for the introduction.

Perhaps few persons today have known Lincoln any better than Mrs. Eugenia Jones Hunt, who comes to visit her daughter, Mrs. Cuthbert C. Adams, in Winnetka each summer. Mrs. Hunt was the daughter of John Albert Jones, the first appointee of Lincoln after his cabinet positions were filled. Mr. Jones was made superintendent of statistics. The Lincoln campaign rallies and Chicago's first national nominating convention in 1860 are all familiar to Mrs. Hunt, who also tells with enthusiasm that the Republican party was born in her grandfather's house in Bloomington.

Lincoln Collections of Chicagoans.

In addition to these memories are the Lincoln collections that have been made by several distinguished Chicagoans, including Oliver Barrett, Dr. Otto Schmidt, James Rosenthal, Frank G. Logan, and Judge Henry Horner.

Mrs. George Cragg yesterday told an interesting story of the association of her grandfather, Judge Jesse Thomas, one time member of the Supreme court of Illinois, with Douglas. "Grandfather was taking some children to a circus. Douglas, who was so short, you remember, was with them. They thought it would be a good joke to take him in as one of the children for half price—and they did."

NOT A BRAIN CELL WORKIN'

George White Plans to Bring 'Scandals' Here

He Considers Majestic for Spring Run.

George White, producer of the series of revues called "The Scandals," is now negotiating for a short term lease of the Majestic theater in order to give his latest entertainment, now rated high among the song and dance shows of Broadway, a spring engagement in Chicago. He is discussing terms with E. J. Lehmann, manager of the Lehmann estate, owner of the Majestic, which has not been in active operation for several years.

If the lease is signed Mr. White will send his "Scandals" to the Majestic for a spring engagement of from three to five weeks, opening early in April. The Majestic is a favorable location for a show of this type; its seating capacity is larger than that of any other theater in Chicago, with the exception of the Civic Opera house. During the last two seasons the Majestic has had only three bookings—"Lysistrata," "Lady in Pawn," and Fritz Leiber's Civic Shakespeare company.

Fred Stone will come to the Grand Opera house Feb. 29 in his latest musical comedy vehicle, which bears the title of "Smiling Faces." His company will include his daughter Paula, Roy Royston, Lotti Loder, Billy Taylor, Doris Patston, Hope Emerson and an Albertina Rasch ballet. The engagement will be for three weeks and will begin immediately after the departure of "Grand Hotel."

O. P. Heggie, who has been active in "pictures" for a number of years, but whose stage tradition is still alive, will return to the footlights soon in a play called "They Didn't Mean Any Harm," written by A. A. Milne. Charles Hopkins will produce this comedy in his New York theater a few weeks hence. Others in the cast will be Ernest Lawford, Flora Sheffield, Richie Ling, Vernon Kelso, Patricia Calvert, Gavin Muir, Molly Pearson, Clare St. Clair, and Ruth Vivian.

Mr. Heggie has acted in many plays that have registered long runs in Chicago. "Tillie of Bloomsbury," by Ian Hay Beith, which held forth for months at the Playhouse some ten years back, was his high-water mark in comedy.

Milwaukee will be the first booking of "Grand Hotel" out of Chicago. The drama will begin a week's engagement at the Davidson theater of that city Feb. 29. It will then head by easy marches toward Boston, where its season will end some time in May.

The playgoing intelligentsia who have been hoping that the Group Theater company—an offshoot of the Theater Guild—would bring their staging of Paul Green's "The House of Connelly" to Chicago will have to brace themselves for a disappointment. The tour of this play will end in Boston tomorrow night. The Group organization will return to New York to prepare for the première of a new play by Maxwell Anderson, as yet untitled, which it has had in rehearsal during its travels.

Women Dry Law Foes Set Membership Drive Record

Officials of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, with headquarters at 700 North Michigan avenue, yesterday announced that two outstanding records had been registered in the present membership campaign. Mrs. Kathryn Mulcahey returned a total of 1,700 membership cards for women she had signed up in the last three weeks, and Mrs. Ernest R. Graham returned a total of 1,400 for the same space of time. With other returns received yesterday, this brings the total new members added in Illinois since the first of January to 7,000.

Saddle and Cycle Club Party Leads Gay Events of Week-End

BY JUDITH CASS.

LINCOLN'S birthday and St. Valentine's day are giving an excuse for much gayety of an informal nature tonight and tomorrow night, in spite of the fact that society theoretically is very quiet and dull during Lent. The largest party tomorrow night will be the dinner dance at the Saddle and Cycle club, which was gotten up rather hastily—the cards just went out Tuesday or Wednesday—but which will be well attended, we're sure, for it gives the members a beautiful chance to entertain very economically, and that is what every one wants to do these days, isn't it?

The dinner is to be a simple three course one and the charge is only $2 per person, half of which will go to the Joint Emergency Relief fund. Another nice feature of the party is that the bar against having any one as a guest at the club who isn't a member has been let down, so the hosts are free to extend their invitation lists beyond the bounds of the club membership.

Some of those who will entertain guests tomorrow night are Robert Glenn, who will have about 20; Ernest H. Noyes, whose party will number about 15; Lawrence M. Viles, who will have about 12 in his party; Mr. and Mrs. William L. Underwood, who will have a party of 18, and Mr. and Mrs. Ayres Boal and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stevenson, who will give a joint party for about 20. There will be a number of "dutch treat" tables, one of the largest parties of this type being composed of Mr. and Mrs. Hopewell L. Rogers, the William Scudders, the Ralph Shaws, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson L. Barnes, Howard Elting, Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Ralph James, Robert J. Dunham, and the Wallace Kirks.

First of Parties for Mrs. Gerard Leigh.

The first of what undoubtedly will be a gay round of parties for Mrs. Gerard Leigh of London during her visit in Chicago took place last night when Mr. and Mrs. J. Paul Welling of 33 Bellevue place gave a dinner for their cousin who arrived yesterday. Mrs. Leigh and her maid are staying at the Fortnightly club, not far from the Wellings' apartment. Mrs. Leigh wil' spend the week-end in Lake Forest with the Samuel J. Walkers and upon the completion of her visit in Chicago she will go to Aiken for some hunting with the Milton McCoys [Carolyn Walker].

Arthur Meeker Jr., who by the way is terribly busy these days writing a new novel which he hopes will be in the publisher's hands by early spring, is giving one of his inimitable dinners tonight at the Meeker apartment, 1100 Lake Shore drive, for Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Worton, who recently have come here from the east and are living at 1320 North State street. Mrs. Worton is the charming Elizabeth Hines of musical comedy fame. The senior Meekers and their daughter, Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer, will return Monday from a week's stay in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Zabriskie of Aurora, N. Y., who are visiting Mrs. Zabriskie's mother, Mrs. Everingham at the Churchill, are giving a dinner tonight at the Chez Louis for Marion Kerby, after which the party will go to Mrs. Frederic W. Upham's apartment at 1260 Astor street where Miss Kerby is visiting, for a musical program.

Debutante Set to Be Entertained Tomorrow.

The debutante set tomorrow night will be entertained at dinner at the Casino, and later at the theater by Mrs. Arthur G. Cable of Hubbard Woods and Mrs. William B. Hale of Winnetka, who are giving the party for Miss Margaret Hamill, daughter of the Ralph C. Hamills of Winnetka.

A gay party in town tomorrow night will be a dinner for about 40 to be given by the Chauncey B. Blairs and the William Mitchell Blairs at the apartment of the former at 70 Cedar street. The "piece de resistance" of the dinner will be chow mein for which the Chauncey Blairs' Juan is famous.

The 7th of the series of 10 junior subscription dances at the Fortnightly, which are the favorite parties of the young set from 15 to 18 each winter, will be given tonight. It is to be a plantation party and Mrs. Walter E. Faithorn and Mrs. Nelson Thomasson Jr. are to be chaperones.

A popular visitor in town who is being greatly entertained in an informal sort of way is Mrs. Malcolm Fay of New York, formerly of Chicago, who is visiting her sister, Miss Frieda Foltz of 37 East Division street. Miss Foltz is giving a small tea this afternoon at her apartment from 5 to 7 o'clock for her sister.

Because of all the Valentine parties to be held for both children and grown-ups tomorrow the Woman's Athletic club has postponed its swimming meet. Instead there are to be two contests, the first on Saturday the 27th and the second on April 16. Announcements of the races and qualifications for entry will be mailed out next week.

Rupert Hughes is to talk on "Sentimental America" next Thursday morning at 11 o'clock at the Woman's Athletic club.

Lake Forest Holds First Garden Lecture.

With spring just around the corner [unless, of course, we have our annual Easter blizzard] the suburban dweller's fancy is turning to thoughts of early blossoms. Yesterday 20 young women members of the Lake Forest Garden club met at Mrs. Charles C. Haffner's residence for the first of six Thursday morning lectures by Mrs. Ralph E. Milman, who is one of the best authorities on gardening on the north shore.

Because most of her listeners are just beginners at the art which is one of the boasts of the fashionable little community, Mrs. Milman's talk yesterday was all about the very practical business of selecting seedlings and hotbeds and the proper season of the year to plant them. She will cover the more advanced stages of gardening in her succeeding lectures, all five of which are to be held in Mrs. Haffner's drawing room.

Members of the Country Club of Evanston who aren't dining at the club tonight will have early dinners at home in order to be present when the curtain rises on "Jane," the farce which a group of the club's more talented amateur Thespians has been rehearsing for weeks. The cast will include Miss Myra Little, the Charles G. Littles' debutante daughter; Mrs. Sherwood K. Platt, who has had lots of stage practice in the Junior league plays; Mrs. William J. Pickard, Mr. and Mrs. Howard P. Matthias, Robert C. Stockton, Sydney A. Pyne, David Boyd, and Francis G. Fabian. The play, which is subtitled "A Wife, to Oblige, on This Occasion Only," was produced at the club in 1903.

Mrs. J. Ogden Armour is leaving tomorrow for La Quinta, that attractive desert spot in California which has become so popular as a winter resort recently. Mrs. Armour's son-in-law and daughter, the John J. Mitchells, are in New York after a visit at Lake Placid. Their plans for their usual winter sojourn in California are still indefinite.

The Graham Aldises are leaving Sunday to pay a visit to the John T. McCutcheons at Treasure island in the Bahamas. Mr. and Mrs. McCutcheon have with them this winter their youngest boy, Barr, the two elder ones, John Jr., and Shaw, having had to forego spending the winter on their beloved Treasure island on account of their school work here. They hope to go there for the Easter holidays, however, when their aunt, Miss Theodora Shaw, who is at Sarah Lawrence college, also will be there for her Easter vacation. Charles T. Atkinson went south with the McCutcheons and his wife may join them a bit later, as also may the Clay Judsons, but Mrs. Howard Shaw is not planning to go to Treasure island this winter at all.

Miss Edith Cummings, who has been at Middleburg, Va., since the Christmas holidays, returned to Chicago a few days ago in time to board a train for Phoenix on Wednesday night with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Mark Cummings. They will be away for a month or more and no doubt Miss Cummings will be having house guests in the residence they have leased just as soon as her father is completely recovered from his recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayden B. Harris and Mrs. R. Townsend McKeever are to leave today for a three weeks' holiday in Mexico City. They will return by boat to New Orleans.

Harold M. Peters of the Democratic national committee and his bride, the former Miss Sue Eberhart of Kansas City, arrived in Chicago yesterday from Kansas City, where they were married on Tuesday at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank V. Eberhart. They are to reside at the Belmont hotel. Mr. Peters is directing the Democratic campaign for the states of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, and Missouri.

Five Exhibitions Hold Attention in Field of Art

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

There are five little exhibitions current in town which are of interest. Rather different from the usual run of pictures is the group of murals on satin painted by Mrs. Walter Burley Griffin of Australia and hanging in the Palmolive Huyler's. These are tree portraits, delicately and exquisitely wrought. The satin foundation seems to accent the charm of the subdued color notes Mrs. Griffin employs.

Mrs. Griffin has lived seventeen years in Australia and found it a country where exotic growths spring up to flower in profusion. No one can help but enjoy these portraits of odd trees, the Golden Rod trees and the Gum tree and the magnificent tree ferns, some of their trunks running up to thirty and more feet in height and their fronds often with a spread of more than twenty feet.

Not the least important among these are the two or three imaginative paintings with birds and little fairies. This is a charming exhibit and a piquant introduction to the more massive painting of Max Herzog, Palette and Chisel club member, in the lobby of the Cinema theater on Chicago avenue. Mr. Herzog paints flowers gorgeously. We have seen some of these canvases before this winter, but their beauty is still a living thing and for all who love flowers this exhibition offers an opportunity to gratify that liking.

Next of these exhibits are the two showings of prints by American artists, the one at the Walden Palmolive gallery and the other at Kroch's. The same artists figure in each. Among them are Peggy Bacon, Stuart Davis, Wanda Gag, Emil Gans, Alexander Brook, and Glenn Coleman. These are modernists, and their work possesses humor and earnestness, an earnestness sometimes apparently misdirected. They are exhibits to be commended to the modernist-minded.

The fifth exhibit is of recent water colors and gouache paintings by Survage in the Chester Johnson galleries, Fine Arts building. Survage is a whimsical fellow with a flair for color that never misplays him. He may give his bathing beach hero one pink leg and one yellow, with a dash of blue in a far corner to represent the sea, but he puts a swing into the composition that is fascinating in proportion to its absurdity. In a calmer mood he paints very intelligently a charming country road and village; having shown he can do it, the next painting disports itself in abstractionism and supplies your eye with soft colors in disconnected objects, a leaf, a leg, a dash. The exhibit is amusing.

PROPOSE 20 YEAR MONOPOLY FOR 4 TAXI COMPANIES

Measure Recommended by Council Group.

The subcommittee on taxicabs yesterday recommended to the local transportation committee of the city council a proposed ordinance which would give four concerns, the Yellow, Checker, Chicago, and Luxury Cab companies, the exclusive right to operate taxicabs on Chicago streets for 20 years.

The only exceptions to the proposed monopoly would be independent concerns which had licenses to operate in 1930. These concerns, under the terms of the proposed ordinance, could not sell or transfer their licenses.

The measure would limit the number of cabs to be operated by the four companies to 5,200. It provides that during the 20 years the city shall not grant any similar rights to any other person or corporation.

Mills Opens War on Plan.

Ald. Wiley W. Mills [37th] declared war on the measure as soon as he heard of it.

"It looks like a monopoly, and I don't like it," he said. "I shall certainly want to watch the monopoly features. I don't see any necessity for them."

Ald. John Toman [23d] is chairman of the taxicab subcommittee, but was not present at the meeting yesterday. The other members are Aldermen B. A. Cronson [4th], William A. Rowan [10th], Jacob M. Arvey [24th], James B. Bowler [25th], and William Feigenbutz [45th].

The draft which was transmitted to the local transportation committee was a dogeared copy which apparently had been in the committee files for more than a year. No explanation was offered as to why it was resurrected at this time.

Drivers' Union Asks Copies.

Members of the subcommittee said that the small independent taxi companies appeared satisfied with the provisions of the measure, despite the provision which prohibits their selling or transferring their rights to operate. The local transportation committee will hold public hearings on the matter before voting on it. Officials of the chauffeurs' union have already asked for copies of the measure for scrutiny by their attorneys.

The subcommittee held several meetings a year ago, at which the members discussed the question of establishing a toxicab monopoly in the city which would be taxed and regulated as a public utility. At that time one of the principal arguments advanced in favor of such a plan was that the city would gain revenue, perhaps millions of dollars, by granting an exclusive taxicab franchise for its streets.

A Shrinkage Is Noted.

Those estimates shrink to approximately $26,000 a year under the terms of the proposed ordinance. At present taxicabs pay approximately that sum yearly in the form of licenses, in addition to the vehicle tax of $5 a year for each cab. This latter tax would be increased to $10 for cabs under the monopoly grant, the committee members indicated.

No mention is made in the measure of rates of fare. Under present conditions of competition Chicago taxicab riders pay rates higher than those in almost every other large city in the United States. The rate of the large Chicago companies is 25 cents for the first quarter of a mile and 10 cents a half mile thereafter.

This is at the rate of 45 cents for the first mile and 20 cents a mile thereafter. A test made recently showed, however, that for short journeys in the business district the rate averaged about 50 cents a mile.

In contrast with this, taxicabs in New York, Washington, Detroit, Philadelphia, and several other cities charge 15 cents for the first quarter mile and 5 cents a quarter mile thereafter, a rate of 30 cents for the first mile and 20 cents a mile thereafter.

Kills Old Friend in Row Over Spilled Wine

The long friendship between Pasquale Vincenzo, 59 years old, 554 Barber street, and Michael Spuizza, 57, of 556 Barber street, ended last night. Each evening for years they had met with a pitcher of wine between them discussing matters of mutual interest. Last night they drank in Spuizza's home. Vincenzo spilled some wine on the floor. A quarrel followed, and Spuizza ran into his bedroom. He reappeared with a gun and shot his old friend in the back. Vincenzo died later at the county hospital.

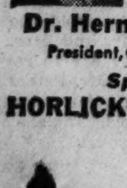

Ex-Mayor Warns Aurora Not to Pay His Successor

Charles H. Greene, former mayor of Aurora, yesterday warned the city council not to pay the salary of Mayor Conrad Bjorseth, who defeated Greene last April by four votes. A contest was filed immediately after the election and County Judge O. C. Allen, after a recount, found that Bjorseth had the slim margin of victory. Several hundred ballots were thrown out in the recount, and Greene has appealed the decision to the Illinois Supreme court.

Oak Park Woman Hangs Self; Son, 14, Finds Body

Mrs. Grace L. Fredericks, 40 years old, committed suicide by hanging herself Wednesday afternoon in her home at 835 North Kenilworth avenue, Oak Park. The body was discovered by her son, Raymond Jr., 14 years old, an Oak Park High school student.

QUIZ ASKED IN ALLEGED SPEED TRAP AT NILES

Park Ridge Acts to Halt Arrests.

BY HAL FOUST.

Chief of Police Harold W. Johnson of Park Ridge announced last night for himself and Mayor William A. McKee that they will ask State's Attorney Swanson today to investigate their charge that a speed trap is being conducted in the village of Niles, a mile to the east of Park Ridge on Touhy avenue. The Chicago Motor club was asked to coöperate in the investigation.

"About a hundred arrests have been made by the Niles police in the last three weeks at a new stop sign on Touhy avenue," said Chief Johnson. "The arrests are being made solely for revenue from fines and costs. We want to find out what's becoming of this money.

Wants Racket Stopped.

"A large portion of the victims are Park Ridge residents who pass through Niles in driving to and from Chicago. That's why Mayor McKee wants to stop this racket. We haven't found it necessary to make a lot of arrests in Park Ridge to regulate traffic, and there's no excuse for what's taking place in Niles. In Park Ridge last year our fines averaged no more than $90 a month."

Mayor McKee is also addressing a protest to State Highway Engineer Sheets asking for a rearrangement of the traffic regulations on Touhy avenue, Milwaukee road and Waukegan road, which are causing the present trouble. The highway department recently relocated Waukegan road, carrying the markers on south to Touhy from the old terminus at Waukegan road and continuing the 42A markers west on Touhy and south on Harlem avenue.

The new stop sign is on Touhy avenue at its intersection with the new location of 42A. The sign causes west bound traffic to halt about 170 feet west of the jog at Milwaukee road where there are traffic lights. The location of the sign is in accordance with the state traffic code, but, due to proximity to Milwaukee avenue, synchronized stop and go lights are needed in place of the stop sign, according to the Chicago Motor club.

Called Ideal for "Trap."

"The arrests were started without giving the public any warning," said Joseph H. Braun, general counsel for the motor club. "West bound Touhy avenue traffic makes the jog on Milwaukee avenue unaware of the new stop sign just around the corner. It's an ideal arrangement for a speed trap."

Chief of Police Warren Guenther of Niles was off duty yesterday and could not be reached at his home for a statement. Justice of the Peace Alexander Falk of Niles township, however, denied the charges made by the motor club and the Park Ridge authorities.

"There have been only about eight or nine arrests since this new sign was put up," said the justice, "and most of these were by the state highway police and not the village police. The fines were $2 or $3 and the costs, which is my fee, and were never higher than $3 in these stop sign cases. If that's a racket it is certainly not a profitable one."

Funeral Rites Today for Mrs. Florence Chapman

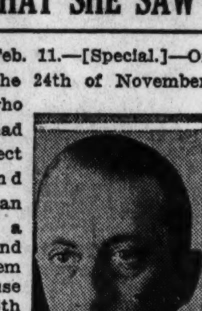

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock today for Mrs. Florence Littlejohn Chapman, 84 years old, widow of Wilson Shannon Chapman, who was an official of the Central Union Telephone company of Indianapolis. The services will be held at the home of Mrs. Chapman's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Gerard Chapman, 181 4th street, Hinsdale, where she died on Wednesday. Burial will be in Mount Greenwood cemetery. Another daughter, Mrs. Benjamin H. Cheever of Jacksonville, Fla., and two sons, Clowry of New York, and Wilson S. Chapman of East Orange, N. J., survive.

John Browning, 70, Former State's Attorney, Is Dead

Harrisburg, Ill., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—John Browning, 70, former state's attorney for Pope county and former Saline county judge, died at his home here today. He was the father of State's Attorney Roy Browning of Williamson county. He had been prominent in the affairs of the Republican party for years.

GRAHAM M'NAMEE'S WIFE SPIES ON HIM; TELLS WHAT SHE SAW

New York, Feb. 11.—[Special.]—On the night of the 24th of November, 1931, a wife who felt that she had cause to suspect her husband called up a man friend and a woman friend and went with them to a penthouse in West 106th street.

GRAHAM McNAMEE.

The aggrieved woman and her two friends tiptoed to a window, from which light was softly shining, and peeked in.

The wife saw, so she said on oath today, a man named Thomas G. McNamee and a pretty woman whose name was not known to her and which remains undisclosed.

Satisfied that her companions had familiarized themselves with the tableau, Mrs. Graham McNamee, for it was she, the wife of the radio announcer, withdrew from the apartment house. She went away and hired a lawyer and told him to sue for divorce on the only grounds which permits a divorce in the state of New York.

And today the action was heard before Referee M. Warley Platzek, who used to be a judge. Mrs. Thomas G. McNamee—or Graham McNamee, to use the name by which he is best known—went on the witness stand, along with her two friends, and testified.

"I understand," interjected Referee Platzek, "that you have reached an agreement with the defendant in this undefended divorce case by which he is to pay you $1,000 a month."

"That is true," said Mrs. McNamee.

$125,000 IN BAR FIXTURES SEIZED IN N. Y. DRY RAIDS

New York, Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Bars and fixtures valued at $125,000 will be confiscated today as a result of raids made tonight by agents of Andrew McCampbell, prohibition administrator, on the Log Cabin club in 56th street and in the Franklin inn in Franklin street.

In the Log Cabin club, which is said to have the "original aquarium bar" and a desert room with sand on the floor, a palm tree, and uncaged canary birds, agents found 125 bottles of alleged liquor and arrested Alphonse Johnson.

At the Franklin inn 157 bottles of supposed liquor and fixtures valued at $75,000 were taken. There were five arrests.

W. W. Low, Former Head of Chicago Firm, Dies in Paris

Willard Wainwright Low, who was for many years president of the Electric Appliance company of Chicago, died yesterday in Paris, France, where he had resided recently. He was 75 years old. A native of Flint, Mich., Mr. Low was first engaged in the carriage manufacturing business, establishing his electric firm in 1890. Among the clubs to which he belonged were the Union League, the Chicago Athletic association, and the South Shore Country.

G. J. Cooke, Business Man and Inventor, Dead at 61

George J. Cooke, 61 years old, president of the cold storage company bearing his name, died yesterday at his home at 449 Barry avenue. He was an inventor of refrigerating machinery and head of several companies in that business. Mr. Cooke was born in Chicago, and was graduated at Notre Dame university in 1890. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Kerwin Cooke, and five children, Mrs. Katherine C. Blow, Mrs. Virginia C. Ferguson, Mrs. Mary C. Meade, Robert E. Cooke, and George J. Cooke Jr. Funeral services will be held at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Roman Catholic church. Burial in Calvary cemetery will be private.

FORD ANNOUNCES A V-EIGHT MODEL AT A LOW PRICE

New Four Cylinder Car Also Planned.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Henry Ford today announced the newest creations in low priced automobiles, which in experimentations have cost him nearly $50,000,000.

The question no longer is "What is Ford going to do?" but "How soon will he do it?"

As has been predicted for the last few months, the new line will be a distinctly divided one—a new and greatly remodeled four cylinder car and an entirely new "V" eight cylinder job at extremely low prices as yet undetermined. They will include at least ten different models.

Showing Early in March.

Already, according to Mr. Ford, the revised "four" has been approved and will get into quantity production within the next few days. The eight, however, has not as yet met final tests, but is being hurried along with all possible speed. The bodies of the new type will be interchangeable for either four or eight cylinder motors. The first public showing of the new lines will be made early in March.

Mr. Ford said the number of men to be employed would depend entirely upon the demand, and how soon production starts in quantity numbers, sufficient at least to supply his army of distributors and dealers.

Uncertain of a market that will keep his plants working at normal or even near it because of the general condition of business, Mr. Ford said he is willing to give it a tryout and "feel the pulse" of the thousands upon thousands of potential automobile buyers and is willing to meet them more than half way and take the greater risk.

Ford's Greatest Effort.

The two lines will be Mr. Ford's greatest effort and he believes that he is meeting the public's demand for larger, more powerful, and speedier cars and at the same time keeping prices down to a minimum.

Mr. Ford's announcement is sure to work to the advantage of other lines of industry throughout the entire country, and especially in those cities where his assembly plants are located. His closest competitors welcome his statement and his return to the market.

Body of Credit Manager Found with Poison Nearby

The body of Siegfried L. Mendel, 60 years old, 2929 North Neenah avenue, a half filled bottle of poison beside it, was found in a room at the Hotel La Salle yesterday by a maid. Mendel was credit manager of James Davis, Inc., a wall paper concern at 1400 Milwaukee avenue. His assistant manager, Benjamin Waller, said that Mendel was despondent over ill health. Mendel is survived by a wife and four children.

RESCUE SQUAD HITS STREET CAR; TWO BADLY HURT

Two men were critically injured and a score of other persons were jolted yesterday when a speeding fire department inhalator squad truck was rammed by a street car at 63d street and Parnell avenue. The victims of the crash were Henry Keating, 29 years old, a fireman on the truck, and John Borry, 33 years old, 1420 West 73d street, the motorman. They were taken to St. Bernard's hospital.

The accident occurred while the truck was moving east in 63d street in answer to a call. The driver swung the heavy car to the left car track to pass a slower automobile. Before he could swing back a west bound street car smashed into the rear of the truck, catapulting Keating to the street.

Three deaths in Cook county yesterday brought the toll since Jan. 1 to 131. The victims:

Robert M. Todd, 76 years old, 4601 Sheridan road, secretary of the Bea-Char-Mar company, investment brokers. Died at the American hospital from hurts suffered Wednesday evening when he was run down at La Salle and Locust streets. The driver was Edgar Weaver, 550 Arlington place.

Sam Zaras, 80 years old, 1016 North Hoyne avenue. Killed when he was run down at Division street and Hoyne avenue. Edward Kivik, 1236 Cleaver street, was the driver.

Frank Gorek, 40 years old, living at the New Start lodge, 509 North Union street. Killed when he was crushed beneath the wheels of a trailer attached to a motor truck at Division street and Western avenue. Alfred Thorstad of Milwaukee was the driver.

CLARA J. STONE, ACTOR'S MOTHER, IS DEAD IN EAST

Freeport, L. I., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Mrs. Clara J. Stone, mother of Fred Stone, the actor, died unexpectedly early today at her home here. She was 77 years old.

Fred Stone, who was playing in Washington, D. C., closed his show there until after the funeral and hurried here. His daughter, Dorothy Stone, also on tour, is on her way here from Youngstown, O.

Mrs. Stone was the daughter of E. B. Johnston, who came from England and was born in Peoria, Ill. While a young girl she married Lewis Stone, a buffalo hunter for the government. The frontier was steadily advancing westward and she and her husband bought horses and a covered wagon and joined one of the caravans in the trek across the plains. She drove the horses herself while her husband stood guard with a rifle against the Indians.

They eventually arrived in Colorado and made their home at Longmont, where Fred was born in 1873.

HAL ROACH FACES $10,000 FINE FOR HOP OVER CHILE

SAO PAULO, Brazil, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Hal Roach, American movie director, accompanied by his pilot, left by plane today for Bolivia and Chile, uncertain what receptions await him.

Dispatches from Santiago reported that the government would impose a $10,000 fine on Roach and Arthur Loew, American producer, and that Colombia and Peru were consideraing similar penalties on the grounds that they did not obtain proper clearance papers when they left those countries on a tour of South America. Loew was due in Miami today by Pan-American Airways from Rio de Janeiro.

Roach said he must return to Chile because he bought forty polo ponies there and intends to take them back to the United States by boat. He conferred with the United States embassy in Rio de Janeiro before he left yesterday and with the Chilean embassy. The latter was said to have shown small sympathy for his case.

HERE'S WHY

EVEREADY RAYTHEON TUBES

HAVE 4 PILLARS INSTEAD OF 2

Notice the four strong pillars. With this solid foundation the fragile parts cannot move a hair's breadth from their fixed position. All other tubes have only a two-pillar foundation. Two supports instead of four! Jolts, bumps and vibration often impair their vital accuracy.

A RADIO tube is as sensitive as a finely built watch. Its accuracy in operation depends on keeping every delicate part in exact position. The slightest dislocation of its elements results in faulty tone, lack of power and harsh noises. If a tube is to keep its accuracy, it must be protected against the dangerous jolts and vibration that all tubes receive in handling and usage.

Only Eveready Raytheon Tubes have four sturdy pillars to hold their elements firmly in place. Their accuracy is permanently safeguarded by four rigid supports, one at each corner of a square. All other tubes have only two supports.

That's the reason for the immense improvement in tone which you notice with 4-pillar tubes. Accuracy to the thousandth of an inch—protected by solid strength!

Your dealer can demonstrate the superiority of 4-pillar tubes. Compare them tube for tube with others, and the difference is amazing. But to realize what an enormous improvement they can make in a radio, install a complete set of 4-pillar tubes . . . then listen!

Eveready Raytheon Tubes are Quick Heaters. Don't be fooled by tubes of the old, slow-heater type with which the market is flooded. A modern tube should heat up in 10 seconds or less. Time it yourself!

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

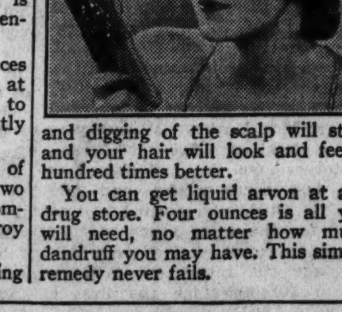

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to comb or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it; then you destroy it entirely.

To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you may have. This simple remedy never fails.

'Small Town' Good Story of Stodgy People

Canadian Village Scene of This Study.

By Fanny Butcher.

I HAD planned to review Dr. W. A. Evans' "Mrs. Abraham Lincoln" today as a tribute to the memory of her long suffering husband, but the publication day has been set forward to March 4. So we must all wrap ourselves in our patience. The author is our own Dr. Evans, who has been, his whole life long, a student of Lincoln.

The antithesis of national heroism, or characters whose fates have changed the destinies of the world, are the persons who fill the pages of "Small Town" by Bradda Field (Appleton).

Not Smart Enough to Seek Shelter in Rain.

The main character is a girl who has a good deal of trouble remembering to come in out of the rain (she doesn't always manage even that) and the others are only slightly more profound intellectually. Socially they are as much concerned with the fate of nations as a fly is with the affairs of the race of chamois on the upper Alps. They are "small town" in the most deleterious sense of the word.

It is a different phase of small town life that Miss Field writes about, however, not the consciously self-satisfied commonplace of "Main Street" or the soul-rending gropings of the other Minnesota school of small town fiction and the Iowa branch of utter dreariness. The small town of this volume is a Canadian village near enough to Montreal for the inhabitants to run up for a little shopping and a little spree, oddly like American small towns in its physical aspects of filling stations and ten cent stores (they have fifteen cent stores as well) and sodas with fancy names and movies.

The inhabitants whom the author chooses to chronicle are a family of three unmarried sisters (the youngest one pretty), a neighbor who has at the beginning of the book just had a baby, her brother-in-law, and the town doctor. In their circumscribed lives romance blossoms, and the thorns on the rose of love do their usual lacerating act, and compromises are made with life and love as they are made daily in every large as well as every small town in the world.

Miss Field has written a homely, real story without any of the stodginess of most novels about people who are clods. "Small Town" is no masterpiece, but it has real quality and allure. Susan Ertz is lyric all over the dust jacket about it, beginning with the statement: "It is a long time since I have been held and fascinated by a novel as I have been by 'Small Town.'"

"Infants of Spring" Story of Harlem.

A small town of quite another character is pictured in "Infants of the Spring," by Wallace Thurman [Macaulay], which is published today. It is a town within a city, Harlem in New York, which is almost as much a unit in itself as if it were on the plains of Dakota so far as its social life is concerned. The characters in "Infants of the Spring" are as much the product of Harlem as the characters in "Small Town" are the product of Elysium, Ontario. But at that point the likeness of the two books ceases. The people in "Infants of the Spring" are Bohemian, "yearning" Negroes, with a few white people as catalytic agents.

Elsie Janis Story Published Today.

Today is the publication birthday of Elsie Janis' autobiography, "So Far, So Good," which is running serially in THE CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE. Miss Janis was modestly labeled "The Sweetheart of the A. E. F." during the war. She is said to be the original of the heroine of Edna Ferber's story called "Mother Knows Best," about a show girl who was kept from marriage by her mother. Oddly enough, at the end of "So Far, So Good," when she is describing her mother's death, Miss Janis says, "Mother, as always, 'knew best'." She ends her book with the news that her marriage is about to take place.

In the years which she records she met half the world and knew a good deal about how the other half lives. She tells about many famous bodies with the same breezy frankness that she tells about herself.

Are you the ONE out of a HUNDRED

CENTURY $2.50

KEEPING UP WITH WORLD OF FASHION

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.] — Vera Borea, who concentrates her talents as a designer to making sports and evening clothes, has recently brought out a sports suit which some of the smartest women in French society have ordered.

The greater part of early spring sports clothes come in bright colors, like vivid blue, red and yellow, and this may be the reason why particular ladies have taken to the Borea suit which comes in black and white. They prefer, as usual, to be different from the majority, and black and white stands out as strikingly different from the current sports clothes color scheme.

The Borea suit is shown in our sketch today. It is made of a rough black woolen with an irregular and broken rib of white. The jacket of this suit is another version of the bellhop jacket. It has black pony epaulettes, standing collar and one rever. The standing collar buttons at the back, and when it is unbuttoned and opened it becomes a band at the top of a cloth rever that functions on the left side of the jacket front. Five bone buttons close this jacket.

The skirt of the suit has a high top—very high in front, and boned underneath to hold its place. It has an inverted plait to give fullness at the bottom. The sweater is knitted of white silk and has ribbed and fitted cuffs to the elbows.

Stripes Cut Gay Lines on Costumes for Many Affairs

For daytime Chanel's striped silk dresses are worn with long wool coats that have striped belts. The semi-fitted jacket suits at this house are completed with striped jersey blouses. The line effect is carried out in the tailoring of some suits, in wool, that have horizontal tucking.

A shantung is made up both plain and striped for dresses, blouses, and coats. Many striped wools are used by Chanel, in vertical and horizontal designs.

A jet spangled dress, black afternoon coats, and black glace mousquetaire evening gloves emphasize that color. Chanel also shows black jersey afternoon dresses trimmed with white pique, and black organdie dresses.

Novelties are chatelaine style vanity cases that are attached to the belt, self-lacing detail work and a wide use of shirred chiffon and lace.

Chiffons are used in ring dot patterns, and there are some ring dot shantung prints for the daytime. Monotone mixtures in jersey and canvas weaves are shown, and Chanel is featuring corded wools.

Long velveteen coats are worn for the evening, as well as ermine trimmed velvet jackets. There are also many short velvet capes and pointed evening scarfs.

JUNIOR GIRL'S PAJAMAS.

These pajamas are not difficult to make, and may be the young girl for whom they are intended will want to make them herself. Any of the printed or plain silk crêpes or velvets would be suitable materials.

The pattern, 2621, comes in sizes 11, 13, 15, and 17 years. Size 15 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material with ⅛ yard of 35 inch all over lace.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Needs a Black Dress.

"I am a widow and since my husband's death I have been trying to support myself by conducting a small school of English. Through the cooperation of three foreign consuls I have been invited to a luncheon and a banquet and it is important that I attend them for I have hopes of meeting many prospective students. However, I have nothing suitable to wear. Do you think you could get me a black dress, size 40 or 42, and a pair of slippers, size 6-B, for these occasions? So far, my school brings me just enough to pay my rent, insurance, and provides a little to eat.

"MRS. M. G."

Mrs. G.'s appearance will be a most important item in her new project and I trust we can help her to make a good one. A black dress and a pair of shoes would solve her problem for the time being.

The Teen Age Delicate One for Parents

Sympathetic Viewpoint Is Required.

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

The teacher and the parents were talking things over.

"I've seen," said the teacher of this group of adolescents, "a great, husky boy, a leader because of his prowess in athletics, cry because of something I said that hurt him. Just some little thing which, if I had said it to him the year before, would have made no impression on him at all."

And he went on to speak of the touchiness of adolescents and the delicacy required in handling them, by both parents and teachers.

After all, boys and girls in their teens frequently don't know how to handle themselves. That's half the trouble. Certainly we must not add to their confusion and bewilderment by not knowing how, either—by too much blundering. I say "too much" blundering because we will make some blunders—complete understanding is impossible. But at least we can have partial understanding.

By talking with other parents, by thinking, by observing, by reading—by learning something about the body changes and changes in mind and feelings that occur we can do wonders in helping our boys and girls as they move from childhood to maturity. That period we call adolescence may be gone through very smoothly by some children. But with others, probably the majority, it may be accompanied by a change in disposition, a hyper-sensitiveness or touchiness, by easily aroused emotions. Or on the other hand, children may develop an apparant callousness; they may seem to become impervious to our opinions and appeals.

I think it very much of a pity when boys or girls reach adolescence without their parents having even a sketchy idea of what it is all about. If you have no other source of information, there is always reading matter, some of it very clear and brief. To those desiring them from us, we shall be glad to send short reading references on this subject on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Valentine Party of Woman's Club to Be Tomorrow

The Chicago Woman's club will hold its annual bridge luncheon and Valentine party tomorrow afternoon. Mrs. John L. Pfaff is general chairman of arrangements. Her assistants include Mrs. Ira Carleton Humphrey, in charge of the luncheon; Mrs. Russell Dean Comfort, who is to provide a musical program, and George M. Shirk, chairman of a sale of cakes, candies and jams to be held by junior auxiliary members. Proceeds of the party each year are used to retire bonds on the club building.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Mrs. Robert Weekes Kelley of 510 Park avenue is giving a reception on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 21, for her cousin, Miss Dorothea McVickar of 45 5th avenue, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. McVickar of this city and Paris, whose engagement to Mr. Robert Baxter of this city, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Baxter of Montreal, has just been announced.

Miss Dorothy R. Fell, the daughter of Mrs. Ogden L. Mills, left for Washington to join Mr. and Mrs. Mills for a few days before going to Aiken for a late winter visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Burke and family will sail on the Bremen on Feb. 20 for France. They expect to be away a year.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Maynard, who were at the Hotel Pierre after their marriage Tuesday in the Church of the Heavenly Rest, sailed for Europe on the Europa. Mrs. Maynard was Miss Eileen Burden, daughter of Mrs. Guy Fairfax Cary.

Unusual Voice Brings Praise from Writer

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Those who go to the Chicago Symphony concert this afternoon will hear, as those who went last night heard, an uncommon voice. It belongs to Muriel Brunskill, English contralto, who is making her first visit to Chicago.

It is the kind of voice that seems to fill up the whole of Orchestra hall with no conscious effort on the part of its user. It runs all the way from the faintest caress of a tone to a jubilant peal that dominates the whole orchestra, yet with never a strident note in it, all round and full, with firmly marked outlines and no edges.

Such a Stradivarius larynx should be employed on nothing but the world's finest music. Perhaps if there were a few more like it, composers would begin to busy themselves with works for the contralto voice. They would at least have the reward of hearing their music glorified beyond all their imaginings.

So Mme. Brunskill last night sang Max Reger's "An die Hoffnung" in German and Edward Elgar's "Sea Pictures" in English. The Elgar set contains two good songs out of the five, a fair average as song suites go. Unfortunately they are the two shortest, also. But Mme. Brunskill made such a deep impression by the sheer tone of her voice that at least one person in the audience was filled with desire to hear her sing something altogether more important, one of the less frequently heard Handel arias, let us say, from the ancients, and something by John Alden Carpenter from the contemporary group.

Mr. Stock revived the rather long "Morceau Symphonique" from Franck's "Rédemption," and then swung into one of his finest and most skilled performances, "Thus Spake Zarathustra" by Richard Strauss. At the end he contributed another bit of beauty, his own concert arrangement of selections from the third act of Wagner's "Siegfried."

Time Arrives to Put Potted Bulbs in Light

BY PAUL POTTER.

Mild February days that speak of spring to gardeners who must remain locked indoors most of the dormant season, means for others that the time has arrived to bring from the basement those potted bulbs that are to be "forced" into early indoor bloom.

Most gardeners pick out a few choice bulbs or tubers of Darwins, crocus, oxalis, tuberous rooted Begonias, cyclamen, narcissi, Easter lilies or hyacinths in the fall and pot them in the basement or some other cool dark location. The roots develop over the holidays and are now far enough along to bring the pots up into a warmy sunny spot where green shoots will soon appear.

One exception to this method of culture, however, is that delightful paper white narcissus which will start readily in stones and water and will bloom in six to ten weeks from the date of starting.

Most "indoor gardeners" perfer to bring a few pots of bulbs or tubers into the sunlight at a time, in order to obtain a succession of bloom during the early spring. It is quite important, in any event, that a substantial root system has been developed to support the foliage and flowering.

The Charming Cheat

By Clara Sharpe Hough

SYNOPSIS.

Ricardo Dane visits New York in search of his aunt, Miss Filomena Stanley, his mother's half-sister. Ricardo's mother had recently died and left him heir to the ranch and mountain land in Romeu valley, California, where he had spent most of his life. He intended to find his sole remaining near relative and bring her back to Romeu valley. He had understood this to be his mother's dying wish. His aunt, an actress, had been out of favor with the family, although his mother had sent her checks.

Ricardo locates a Filomena Stanley, but instead of an aged aunt he finds a beautiful young aunt. She is living in a Bohemian studio with a Follies girl, named Frances. Ricardo readily believes this lovely creature, who acknowledges the relationship. His arrival was fortunate for Filomena, who had been out of work for weeks and was in a sad state financially. Ricardo showers her with gifts and moves her into a better apartment. He moves into the same building on another floor. Webster Sutton, a college friend of Ricardo's, visits New York. He and Eunice Greenway, a girl from home, who is studying in New York, are entertained by Ricardo and his aunt. Eunice is a friend of Ricardo's fiancée, Rachel Beatty. She heartily disapproves of Filomena. Web believes his friend is being trimmed and, before he leaves, tells him so. Ricardo learns that Web was right when Filomena is called home, due to the illness of her father. He goes with her and brings her back to New York to have his revenge. After another search, Ricardo finds his real aunt. She is acting in a Broadway production. Ricardo takes Filomena to the city hall, where they obtain a marriage license. His plan is to have her prepare for the wedding and leave her waiting at the church, while he'll be on his way back to Romeu. Filomena sets the day and the evening before they have a celebration.

INSTALLMENT XVII.

A RECKLESS MOOD.

Romeu valley was so many thousand miles from here. He would probably never see Filomena again. Life would be utterly unbearable if he never saw her again, Ricardo knew.

"You love me?" he asked, bending over her golden head to whisper.

"And we're going on a ship, aren't we?" he whispered. "Together, sweet?"

"M—yes," she glanced up again, "a big ship, darling."

"Soon as ever we can," he insisted.

They circled the crowded dance floor before he spoke again.

"What do we care about preachers and weddings?" he asked then, daringly.

If she started or quivered just the least bit, it was over very quickly. Perhaps she hadn't. For she whispered back as daringly, "We don't, of course. Do we?"

"Then that's settled, isn't it?"

They sat down, and Ricardo had more whisky and soda. Filomena used the same chicken sandwich.

"But you'll get on a ship with me anyway," he began, "and we'll go somewhere, won't we? Bermuda, or Jamaica, or some of the places ships go——"

He received a well directed blow on the chin.

"What do you mean, anyway?" she demanded.

"I mean—if we could just run out of here and get on to a ship, right now——"

"O, you've got ships on the brain, haven't you? Probably you get seasick and then where would the fun be?"

"No, I don't. I never get seasick. You would. You'd get seasick even on a camel."

"I never thought of that. You'll just have to go alone."

For some reason they both broke into immoderate laughter at this idea.

Filomena sobered. "You're talking a lot of rot," she observed, picking at her sandwich with meticulous care, "if I didn't—feel sort of attached to you, I wouldn't listen. But of course, you were part of my family for a while, you bought me a piano. And I did promise to——"

"You're so sweet," he interrupted, because he didn't like to hear her take this logical view that he had himself taken. "You're so sweet I could eat you. Beginning at the top of your head, and working down slowly, a small bite at a time. You're so sweet."

Filomena at this moment simply could not help smiling beautifully and as she happened to raise her head, her smile impinged with full force upon the man at the next table, who sat alone. He lifted his glass and smiled hopefully back at her. She involuntarily responded with another smile, a pink flush creeping across her face, from her pointed chin up to the bright fringe of her hair. Ricardo lifted her smooth ringless hand and kissed it. The man at the next table smiled again at her, with Ricardo's bent dark head between them. She laughed excitedly as he looked up again.

"You're so sweet," he said.

In the spotlight on the dance floor a colored waiter began to sing in a sweet, powerful voice.

"I'm going to get a drink," said Ricardo, rising.

"Can you carry it all home?" she inquired. "Haven't you had three?"

He laughed, a little unsteadily. "Maybe I'll have three more," he said. "Don't you worry about me, old lady."

He knew what was making his head reel. It was nothing in the world other than Filomena herself, and a rather stiff hooker would clear his mind rather than befuddle it. She needn't talk to him like a wife, anyway. Who did she think she was?

She laughed up at him, her small teeth like pearls against the crimson of her lips. Her reply was lost in a burst of applause from the people around them. He looked at her a moment, then he stooped and swiftly kissed her open rosy mouth.

"When I come back," he said, "we'll go find that ship."

The bar was hot and crowded and stuffy, as usual. He drank another whisky, thoughtfully, pondering what Filomena had said and what he had said.

Darling Filomena. She loved him. She was ready to give herself to him whenever he chose. His incoherent talk about a steamship was as well understood as though she read his mind. Which probably she did. He did not mean a steamship, of course. She knew that. She understood that, because she understood everything. He meant her apartment, which for once might be untenanted by the odious Frances.

What had been the use of going through that farce about the marriage license? His idea of playing a silly practical joke on her was just that much addle-brained nonsense. And his idea that he could go away and leave her was just that much eyewash.

He might, perhaps, be ashamed later. But his struggle was over. And now he could go back to Rachel wholeheartedly, with no regrets.

He made his way through the press of the crowd with his glass in his hand.

At first he could not find his own table. Then he stood still, unable to credit his vision. Filomena, whom he had fancied waiting silent and lonely, for his return, was laughing and chatting with some man whom he had never seen before. It was the man from the next table, who, having misunderstood Filomena's smile and misinterpreted Ricardo's prompt withdrawal, had approached as soon as he had departed.

He stopped beside them in outraged silence. Filomena's gay laughter tinkled again. And the man leaned forward and started to take her hand.

Before either of them could move again, the impetuous stranger was deluged with the slightly diluted whisky in Ricardo's glass, and as he staggered to his feet in sputtering wrath and amazement, he received a well directed blow on the chin that staggered him further.

When the two waiters, summoned by Jeannette herself, who had her own method of coping with unruly guests, fell upon him from behind, Ricardo fought them with equal vigor, fancying that this adversary had mustered a gang to his aid.

Only when the icy air outside struck him and he felt his feet drag on the pavement he suddenly straightened and collected some of his muddled wits. The man he wanted to kill was not here. The men who held him firmly by either arm were colored men of powerful build. An impassive doorkeeper was signaling a taxi.

"Better have your overcoat, mister; the lady's got it," suggested one of his husky captors, sensing his submission.

Indeed, Filomena, her golden cloak half around her, was beside him with his overcoat and hat. Subdued, if sullen, for he realized to what humiliation he had been subjected, he allowed his arms to slide into his coat sleeves.

The taxi rolled up. Filomena turned a sweet smile on the dark-skinned huskies and swiftly passed something into a ready palm. They propelled Ricardo, whose legs were of no practical assistance in the operation, into the taxi. It started as she dropped into the seat beside him.

Dear Filomena, who understood him. She had straightened out everything. She had been there with his hat and coat so he wouldn't freeze to death. She had smiled upon those two hired bullies of Chez Jeannette and saved him from being beaten up. Darling Filomena. How he loved her.

His head slid to her shoulder and he fell asleep in perfect peace.

An unearthly din at his door waked Ricardo. Getting out of bed and to the door was the most fearful ordeal, for his head was splitting and his left leg was stiff. The din was nothing more than Edward from downstairs, with a telegram, and he staggered back to bed with it, and threw himself down again until the room had stopped swimming. Then he sat up and pressed hot hands against his throbbing temples and cursed fluently and feelingly.

Last night had come back to him in a series of swift glimpses. Filomena in her silver slippers. The heavy warm air of the night club and the stranger who had dared to touch Filomena's precious hand. The taxi.

Somehow he had got into his own room and his own bed. Somehow he had been quietly tucked away to sleep it off. Edward's solicitous inquiry (unanswered) when he handed in the telegram explained that. Edward's had undoubtedly been the hands to turn down the covers for him last night. The night that had started out so gloriously, that he had thought was to be a last mad night dedicated to youth and love and Filomena, had ended in a drunken brawl and a heavy drunken sleep.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Driven Home by Husband.

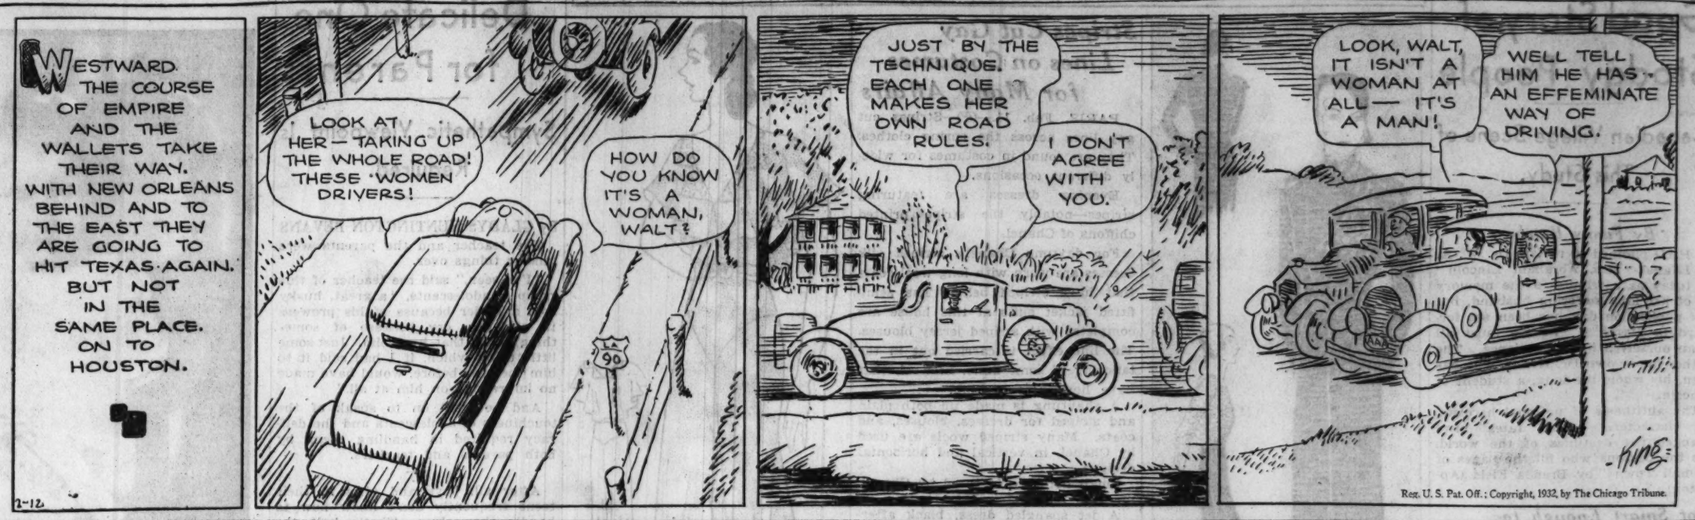

One evening my husband, who is a cab driver, came in and asked me where I was going, since I was dressed in my best. I said to a little movie around the corner.

Instead of going to a show my girl friends and I went to a café. About 2 o'clock in the morning we decided to go home and went outside and hailed a cab.

Imagine my embarrassment when who should be the driver of the cab but my husband. I don't believe his face turned any whiter than mine did.

GASOLINE ALLEY—WALT HAS LAST WORD

When to Break Date with Pal Causes Worry

Can Be Done with Honor and Politeness.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

If you had an engagement with a member of your own sex for dinner, show, concert, or something of the sort and a last minute invitation arrives from one of opposite sex and one you care a lot about, what would you do?

Being polite and honorable in your social contacts, you probably would call up the friend and ask to be released from the first engagement. But would you say you were suddenly afflicted with a splitting headache, or a tooth was acting up? Or, would you disclose frankly that this last minute bid for your society comes from a heart interest and wouldn't good friend please understand?

It's assumed, of course, that you and your heart interest are not at that point of comradeship where he can be persuaded to postpone his celebration until another evening. Rather, that you are in the early stages of interest when to turn down his invitation may mean opportunity lost.

Such occasions do arise and, frequently, in well ordered lives. The question of how to get out of an early engagement gracefully arises. "Josephine" tells of how it happened to her. She met a most attractive young man at a party. There he showed some interest. Quite a little interest, in fact. He was in town for a few days only.

She was dated with a girl friend for the next evening. The girl had invited in a couple of other people for contract. About 5 o'clock the much liked one of the other sex called up. Asked "Josephine" to have dinner and go to a show with him.

"Josephine," relying on a friendship dating back to school days, called up and explained that her new heart interest was pressing for her company. Would friend mind if she didn't come over for contract?

Friend hit the roof and "Josephine" said: "All right, all right, I'll be over."

The romance with the young man died right then and there. The contract party, we may assume, was no great success. Anyway, "Josephine" feels that opportunity slipped by that time, never to come again—from the same source, at least.

The headache might have gone over better.

But as one woman to another—is that the way to help a pal out?

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

You're Stage-Struck.

"Dear Miss Blake: I know an actress who likes me, but she is 24 and I am 17. Kindly advise. "SAM."

You're stage-struck. But don't worry, because it's a disease that young men recover from easily.

More Friends Wiser.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am 16. Is it reasonable to go steady with the boy I love? DOT."

It may be reasonable, but you cut off opportunities of meeting and comparing friends of the opposite sex.

Estelle Taylor Must Learn to Walk Again

Actress Recovering from Serious Injury.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 11.—Estelle Taylor had her plans all laid and her home in readiness to leave Cedars of Lebanon hospital today, but the surgeons canceled her departure. Miss Taylor still is wearing a heavy cast about her neck, and will not be able to remove it for another week or ten days. Her physician told her she would have to get used to being out of bed and getting around before he would permit her to go home, and as she hasn't been out of bed since being placed in the cast for a fractured vertebra more than a month ago, she'll have to practice for several days the mere routine of arising from bed.

Miriam Seegar is slowly improving at Queen of Angels hospital after a relapse following a period of hard work on "The Ferguson Case," subsequent to her recent operation.

Marion Davies and Mrs. Dixie Martin are to attend Carmen Pantages at her wedding on Sunday to John Considine Jr. Mrs. Martin is an adopted sister of the bride. Joseph Schenck and Neil McCarthy, attorney, will stand up with Considine. The bride, who gave her age as 22, and Considine, movie producer and former Yale university nonor man, who is 33, are to be married at a hotel with Father Michael Mullins performing the ceremony.

Mary Duncan is helping nurse her sister, Ann Duncan, after a race across the continent in planes and trains. Miss Duncan obtained her release from a New York play in the midst of rehearsals in order to join her sister here.

Frank Dazey, author and playwright, and husband of Scenarist Agnes Christine Johnson, is writing a stage vehicle which the Duncan sisters expect to take on the road with them shortly. Rosetta and Vivian had announced breaking up their time tried team, Rosetta intending to take a vaudeville skit out by herself. But when the time came to separate the girls decided they couldn't do it. Their bankruptcy hearings before a federal trustee are still awaiting completion here.

Lionel Barrymore had just completed a hysterical scene for "Grand Hotel," in which he sobbed, moaned, groveled on the floor and screamed of his misfortune.

"That was fine," said the unfeeling assistant director. "You did just as if you had been asked to give an interview."

They've had so much legal business to do during the recent hiring, firing, and reorganizing of Radio and R. K. O.-Pathe film studios that David Selznick, executive vice president in charge, has installed legal offices inside the studio. Gordon Youngman of New York, general counsel for the merged studios, and Daniel T. O'Shea are the attorneys in charge.

A sombrero once worn by Pancho Villa was worn by Leo Carillo in making "The Broken Wing."

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

The human race has a liking for arguing over trivialities. Men of learning will spend days with endless reams of paper debating the pronunciation of some common word. The fact that we would all understand what the speaker meant regardless of which pronunciation he used has nothing to do with the fact. The scholar will be scholarly regardless of the practical use of his learning.

Now, take yesterday's play-a-problem, which was:

NORTH
♠—J,10,7,6,5
♥—J,8,5
♦—7,6,3
♣—A,2

WEST (Dealer)	EAST
♠—Q,2	♠—A,9,3
♥—A,Q,9	♥—K,10,6
♦—A,K,5	♦—J,9,4,2

SOUTH
♠—K,8,4
♥—7,4,3,2
♦—Q,10,8
♣—K,4,3

We could spend an endless amount of time arguing whether or not West, who is the dealer, should open the bidding with a bid of one no-trump or a bid of one club. Personally I prefer the one club on this hand, but we shan't spend any further time on it because it makes absolutely no difference.

If West opens with a club, North will pass. East will bid a no-trump, South will pass. West will bid two no-trumps and East three. If, on the other hand, West opens with one no-trump, North will pass. East will bid two no-trumps. South will pass, and West will bid three no-trumps. If there is a choice, those in favor of West's original no-trump opening will come out quite the best for it, because if West opens with a no-trump the closed hand will be the more powerful, while if East opens the no-trump which he will do if West begins with a club, the more powerful hand will be the dummy. As originally played West opened the no-trump, and so we will play the hand at three no-trumps with West as declarer.

North opened the ♠ 6, dummy played low, South played the K, and West the 2. South then returned the ♠ 8, West's Q came up, North played the 5, and dummy played the 9. West now crossed to his dummy by playing the ♥ 9, which was taken by East with the K. East now led the ♣ 5, South played the ♣ 3, West the ♣ Q, and North took with the A.

North led back the ♠ J, which East took with the ♠ A. East then led the ♣ J, which was taken by South with the ♣ K. If South had ducked on this lead East would have followed with the ♣ 6 and South would have been forced to take his K. South now returned the ♥ 7, which was taken by West with the ♥ Q. West now proceeded to cash in his ♣ 10, 9, 8, his ♠ A, K, and his ♥ A for the game and one extra trick.

The play of this hand consists of East's lead at trick four. If East had carelessly led the ♣ J in place of the ♣ 5, South undoubtedly would have covered with the K, which would have stopped West and East from making their game. West's one problem is to get the ♣ A or whatever high club North holds out of North's hand before his last spade stop is taken from dummy.

NORTH
♠—Q,9,8,5
♥—3,2
♦—Q,J,9,3

WEST	EAST.
♠—K,J,3,2	♠—None
♥—K,Q,J	♥—6,5,4
♦—A,K,2	♦—8,7,6,5,4
♣—Q,9,5	♣—J,10,8,7,6

SOUTH (Dealer)
♠—A,10,7,6,4
♥—A,10,9,8,7
♦—10
♣—A,K

Bid and play the hand and then compare the result with the one printed.

Too Much Zeal Apt to Be Only Fault.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I suppose we all have some little "crank" streak in us with which we either amuse or madden, according to the tolerance of our acquaintances. When it involves a matter of health, his or her crankship can become a most awful bore and nuisance—as witness the vegetarian crank, the calorie crank, the cold shower crank, etcetera.

I happened upon one recently with, at least, something novel in crankism. I wish it were more elegant of nature so that the crank himself could be dilated on more largely, for the boss of this particular crank measure of keeping fit is really amusing in his zeal and in his efforts to gather in followers. Yet, I don't know why extracting impurities from the system by sweating them out should be shied at so delicately.

Certainly, the professional athlete isn't trained with any such polite reservation. He's bundled up and sent to run around the track until he works up a good sweat. And we know that there are impurities in the body affecting both health and looks that can only be disposed of with good perspiration.

It's really only the crank's unbridled zeal that puts him outside the pale a bit, along with his seemingly sole topic of conversation and its sometimes terifying moments of introduction. Anything from a belated wisdom tooth to housemaid's knee he guarantees permanent relief from with a good, healthy sweat.

And in keeping fit, there is something to be said for perspiration. It does draw impurities out of the system. And we do go through the long winter season without possibly once giving ourselves over to this form of renovation. We are more sedentary in our winter habits, to add to the complication and also to add to the impurities. And we do know after a Turkish bath, for instance, how much clearer the skin is for the active perspiration treatment it is put through.

Of course, there are electric cabinets and electric blankets and sweat inducing devices of this nature and that for those who can afford them. And there is a good, homemade sweat-out treatment which you can take of an afternoon or evening by soaking in hot water for ten minutes, jumping into warm blankets and staying there a half hour, meantime imbibing copiously of hot water. A spray following will make you feel like a million dollars.

Council Group Seeks New Law on City Tag Days

The city council finance committee yesterday ordered its staff to draft an ordinance taking from the Chicago Association of Commerce the right to designate what organizations shall participate in the annual tag day of the Chicago Federated Charities, and vesting that power in the council.

The Association of Commerce was given the right to pass on tagging organizations in an ordinance passed last July. The finance committee ordered a repealer of that measure drafted, and with it a new ordinance providing that ninety days before the tag day the Chicago Federated Charities shall furnish the council a list of organizations who are to participate in the tag day, and also those which have been refused permission.

The action was urged by Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th], who charged that the Association of Commerce had discriminated against the Lawndale Ladies Aid society, an organization in his ward. The Lawndale society, he said, applied to the trade body for the endorsement necessary to participate in the next tag day. They were told to get the endorsement of the Jewish Charities of Chicago, which they obtained.

Then, Ald. Arvey charged, the women were told that before they could participate in the tag day they must join the Chicago Council of Social Agencies. They were refused membership by that group, he stated.

"The ordinance gave the Association of Commerce no power to delegate to another organization the power of passing on tagging groups," Ald. Arvey asserted. "The association is exceeding the power granted it. A clique has grown up about these tag days, and no one else can break in."

Ald. John P. Wilson [11th] then joined the discussion with an attack upon Miss L. Ellen Babcock, president of the Chicago Federated Charities, who, he charged, has "ignored the council entirely" in deciding what organizations may tag.

At the last tag day of the group, he said, the South Side Catholic Day nursery sought permission to join in the tagging. It was refused until he objected in the city council.

Thereafter, he charged, Miss Babcock attempted in a number of ways to interfere with the taggers sent out by the nursery organization. She refused to furnish them with cans for receiving their collections, stating that they would have to buy their own, and complained to police that the nursery taggers were occupying more corners than they were entitled to and otherwise violating tag day regulations, the alderman charged.

TODAY A PRIZE NOVEL BECOMES THE PRIZE PICTURE

Stepping out of the pages of Sinclair Lewis' immortal novel into vigorous life it becomes an amazing drama of devotion and sacrifice . . . cutting to the core of the human soul, touching every fibre of the human heart!

No other world has known such a man! No other age could tell this story!

This man who plunged himself into humanity's fiercest battles . . . and inspired a woman to love beyond all belief!

December 8, 1931.

Dear Mr. Goldwyn:

I want to thank you for "Arrowsmith", one of the greatest evenings I have had at the theatre. I want to thank you and Sidney Howard, and Ronald Colman, and Helen Hayes, and A. E. Anson, and Richard Bennett for a film which has completely carried out everything I tried to do in "Arrowsmith."

Sincerely,

CANADIENS OVERWHELM BLACKHAWKS, 4 TO 1

YUMP---SPLASH! WHO CALLED 'EM WINTER GAMES?

Rain Turns Olympics Into Aquatic Event.

Point Standing

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—The standing of the teams in the Olympic winter games on a basis of 10, 5, 4, 3, 2, 1 points, follows:

United States	76	Switzerland	5
Norway	49	Germany	4
Canada	36	Rumania	3
Sweden	23	Italy	1
Austria	15	Belgium	1
Finland	10	Czecho-Slovakia	1

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Copyright: 1932: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 11.—Just when the Norwegians at last discovered something that they could really do on the Olympic winter program, the winter gave out today and it looked as though the Olympic committee might have to convert the bob run and the ski jump into aquatic events, on the order of the shoot the chutes. In that case, no doubt, the Italians could rush up a few boatloads of Venetian gondoliers from Coney island or some other convenient outpost and sweep the two most spectacular events of the meet.

The thaw would have been sufficient embarrassment for the local citizens, but when rain fell for 18 hours, washing most of the snow out of the bob run and emaciating the ice, the distress of the entire community was almost too much for human endurance.

Yohann Yumps 204 Feet.

Not only that, but the snow pack on the ski jump, or yump, as the Scandinavians call it, was reduced to slush, and it was necessary to speed the yumpers on their way in the course of an incidental yumping contest and exhibition held this afternoon, to get it over before summer sets in. The weather forecast suggested snow and cold temperatures, but the weather forecasts for this region up to this time have been no better than 1 to 3 shots in the betting, and this one was taken solely as a suggestion, not a promise.

Johann Gottumsbraten, a Norwegian, yumped 204 feet off the tower on the mountain top into the layer of slush on the slide in today's only outdoor exercise, taking first place in a field of thirty-three and the military bandsmen from Albany were caught flat-footed when it was put up to them to play the Norwegian national anthem. There had been no occasion to play it up to this time and the boys had forgotten the score. However, all national anthems sound alike and they are all "Dardanella" when the military band from Albany gets through with them.

Hold Real Yump Today.

Moreover, although Gottumsbraten had outjumped his field and had outrun them in Wednesday's modified marathon of 18 kilometers, the verdict was not yet official because the scorers still had to confer on such matters as his poise, his politics and his social standing, all of which qualities figures in the scoring of a ski yump, and it was several hours before they decided that he had won after all.

Today's yump was the continuation and conclusion of a combination race-and-yump begun Wednesday and the fact is that it was regarded as something of no real consequence. The actual Olympic championship yump will be contested tomorrow unless the thaw and the rain continue, in which case it might be replaced by a fancy diving contest.

Neverthless, the hilly streets were runny with rain and molten snow, the columns of ice blocks, festooned with evergreen and colored electric lights, dwindled and sagged. And finally a posse set out this afternoon, armed with shotguns and salt shakers, to hunt down a first robin which had been heard in a nearby bosky dell giving the climate the raspberry. It seems that there is an open season on robins between the first of December and the middle of May in the great white wastes of the silent north and a bounty on violets and crosuses.

1,500 of 'Em Surrender.

The chamber of commerce estimated that 1,200 fresh customers arrived with fresh money this money on three trains from New York, including James J. Walker, the mayor of New York, whose physician advised him to acquire a good sunburn for his health. His honor attended the yumps in the afternoon and in the evening was invited to a garden party. The military band from Albany played "The Good Old Summer Time" for the mayor, but, as in the case of the Norwegian national anthem, the customers thought this was "Dardanella" and there was no violence.

There were about 5,000 customers at the ski hill to watch the Scandinavians leap into the slush, but most of them were nonpaying customers, and therefore of a low social order in the chamber of commerce rating. A ski yump is very much like a Poughkeepsie regatta or an aviation meet in the respect that it is impossible to catch the customers to tax them. The only revenues are derived from customers who walk up to the box offices and surrender voluntarily.

At the ski yumps today about 1,500 customers gave themselves up, but the rest took positions on the neighboring hills, just out of bounds, or on the public highway, and peered at the athletes with brazen lack of public spirit.

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 11.—(AP)—The Canadiens moved into a tie for first place in the Canadian division of the National Hockey league tonight when they defeated Chicago's Blackhawks, 4 to 1, before 12,000 fans. The world champions gained a 3 to 0 lead before Tommy Cook got the Hawks' lone goal on assists by Mush March and Paul Thompson.

Play was close for the first 40 minutes, the Canadiens defending a slim one goal margin going into the final period. The game ended in a whirlwind of excitement as Lesiur, Canadien defense man, took a penalty to start a five man Chicago assault. Repeated forays, however, proved fruitless. The game was cleanly played throughout, only ten penalties being called.

The Blackhawks played without Ripley, their star center, who is bedridden with an attack of flu. Three other members of the Hawks also were under the weather but got into action. The Canadiens were at full strength, La Rochelle making an appearance and Mondou returning after a siege of illness.

Canadiens Break Ice.

Morenz and Gagnon made two hard shots in the first minutes of play, but Gardiner saved both smartly. Both benches made changes after five minutes of comparatively dull play and Couture got in the first good shot for the Hawks. Graham just missed his rebound.

At the 15 minute mark the teams were still scoreless and the rival benches were shifting lines fast to maintain a good clip. March took the third Hawk penalty for tripping George Mantha. A four man Canadien attack then swept in on Gardiner. Less than a minute before the bell, in a scramble in front of the cage, Mondou batted home a goal after La Rochelle and Lepine had brought the puck down.

Morenz was through on left wing at the start of the second period but missed the net. Wentworth picked up a loose puck inside the Canadien blue line and fired at point blank range when Hainsworth was off balance. Hainsworth fell on his back just as Wentworth shot and the puck, luckily for the Canadiens, hit him on the skate and bounded into the crowd.

Hawks Outdo Selves.

At the start of the third period Morenz tried to crack the Hawk defense, but they pitched him five feet in the air. Then the Canadiens made it 2 to 0 on a sniping shot by Johnny Gagnon. Burke got a loose puck in the corner, passed out to Gagnon in front of the cage, and Johnny let go with a drive that had Gardiner beaten all the way.

With ten minutes to go the Hawks put on desperate rallies, but their eagerness proved their undoing. Morenz broke away, with Gagnon acting as a decoy, to beat Gardiner with a blazing shot.

Gagnon collided with the goal post on the next rush and had to be helped off the ice. Shortly after, Tommy Cook caught Canadiens napping and ambled through the defense to score a neat goal, beating Hainsworth with a high shot that slipped in under the goalie's elbow. March and Thompson assisted on the play.

Canadiens came back with the final goal less than four minutes to go. Lepine broke clear at center ice and had only Abel to beat. Gardiner had no chance on a high corner shot.

GOLDEN GLOVES CHAMPIONS LOSE TO NEW STARS

Boxers Punching Harder, Showing More Skill.

BY FRENCH LANE.

A dazzling array of Chicagoland boys who carry a terrific punch in either hand will come to Chicago for THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions opening at the Chicago Stadium on Feb. 29.

Reports from one after another of the tournaments in the 21 cities in five states, where champions are being picked this week and next, show a greater number of knockout victories than in any other year.

It isn't unusual for a 30 bout program at one of the sectional shows to have from 50 to 65 per cent of the victories rolled up by knockout punches or by a technical knockout in which a bout is stopped to keep a beaten boy from being severely hurt.

Note More Skill.

In Peoria, where the Journal-Transcript's preliminaries have been run off, and at the Davenport Times tournament, in the Courier and Journal's early rounds in Lafayette, Ind., at the Springfield State Register's meet, at the Evansville Courier Journal's bouts and at all other centers the boys are mixing and punching with more skill than in other years. This is the opinion of the amateur boxing followers who have come to be regulars wherever Golden Gloves shows are held.

It also is evident from the early bouts that boys new to Golden Gloves competition are bowling over the champions of other years and fighting their way to the front.

There promises to be much more competition in the heavyweight division than in other seasons. Most of the sectional tournaments are well fortified in heavyweights this year. The Peoria tournament had an unusually good heavyweight class. Eight were entered. In the first round of bouts each battle ended in a knockout.

Springfield Uncovers Punchers.

The Springfield team will invade the Tournament of Champions with two of the best punchers ever to make the State Register's team. Tommy Monroe, a middleweight who resides in Rosiclare, is one of them, and Charley Holderly of Decatur is the other. Holderly is a flyweight who weighs only 105 pounds, but has been knocking over all his rivals up to 112 pounds during his Golden Gloves campaign.

The entries for Chicago's north side sectionals, which are to be held at the Loyola university gymnasium next Thursday and Friday nights, closed at midnight last night. As the eleventh hour entries rolled in there was every indication that a much larger field will compete for places on the north sectional team this year than in any former tournament.

GRID STAR WINS TITLE

Lafayette, Ind., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—The most successful of all Lafayette Golden Gloves tournaments came to a close last night with the crowning of eight champions. Although several of last year's champions were entered, only one, Charley Clark, welterweight, was able to retain his title. The title winners are:

Bobby Blake, flyweight; Richard Noonan, bantamweight; Toots McIntyre, featherweight; Bill Reynolds, lightweight; Charley Clark, welterweight; Ray Huffman, middleweight; Elmer Carte, light heavyweight; Sock Kurtz, heavyweight.

Kurtz won his letter as a full back on the Purdue football team last season. He is a hard hitting, aggressive boxer and weighs 192 pounds. Noonan is a Wabash college athlete and won the sportsmanship award in the tournament. The presentation was made by Ward (Piggy) Lambert, Purdue basketball coach.

It was estimated that 11,000 people saw the four shows. The receipts surpassed last year's record by more than one thousand dollars. One hundred and twenty-four youths took part in the tourney, fifty more than last year. Four hundred fans were turned away at the championship bouts last

Milwaukee Golden Gloves Bouts Reveal Star Amateurs

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Wisconsin's Golden Gloves army was marshalled tonight and for two hours and a half the candidates from city and town battled in the Eagles' ring for the privilege of representing the Badger state in the tournament of champions at the Chicago Stadium.

Eighteen bouts tonight cut the forces of the amateur boxing army to nearly one-half the 49 who had reported at 3 o'clock in the afternoon to undergo the rigid physical examination prescribed by the state commission. Tomorrow night further elimination will send a picked force of 16 boys into the championships which will be decided Feb. 19.

New Rule Popular.

Twenty-five hundred saw tonight's matches, which were sponsored by the Milwaukee Eagles' club and the Milwaukee bureau of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. For the first time in the history of amateur boxing in Wisconsin unlimited entry was permitted for a tournament. And tonight those who saw Golden Gloves contests gave noisy approval.

Milwaukee, accustomed to cards of eight bouts arranged in advance, saw bouts for which pairings had been made by lot. And Milwaukee's boxing fans were satisfied. They'll be back tomorrow night, and when the championships are held it's a safe bet standing room will be at a premium.

And now let's talk about the boxers, those lads whose courage, skill and appreciation of the sport makes Golden Gloves possible. This saga of youth is an old story to Chicago, which commences its fifth campaign Monday night at the Ashland boulevard auditorium. But to Milwaukee and to the men who directed these bouts, Golden Gloves was a new experience.

Milwaukee Prospects Good.

Wisconsin, it is already apparent, will have a cracking good team in the Tournament of Champions. Some of the boys who won tonight can put on the gloves with the best of them. Consider Joie Cieslak, a welterweight from the Ace Boxing club. Cieslak whipped Austin Sonnenberg of Tommy Neary's club.

Billy Miller of the Milwaukee Eagles club, will cause the lightweights in the Chicago tournament a lot of trouble. Black haired, with the features of a fighter, he shifted in and out, throwing a punch which carried a load of power, although his glove traveled only a few inches. Miller stopped Don Lamberti, an unattached Milwaukee boxer, in the third round.

Crowd Likes Walsh.

Jimmy Walsh, Janesville featherweight, undoubtedly could have been voted the most popular fighter of the evening if such a vote had been in order. An unknown, young Walsh stepped out and whipped Andy Ciszewski of the Ace club here, a mighty popular young man himself. Walsh caught the fancy of the crowd. Quick as a flash, clever, and dangerous he outpointed his rival in two of the three rounds.

Ernie Kratochvil of Racine, defending lightweight Golden Gloves champion, had an easy time in his first bout. He stopped Ted Vanderlinde of Milwaukee Midway in the second round.

The boys in the heavier classes, not as fast as the little fellows, bounced around the ring to the steady hammering of wildly flung gloves and the crowd roared its indorsement of their enthusiasm.

DEMPSEY KNOCKS OUT CHRISTNER IN THIRD ROUND

Floors Cleveland Veteran Four Times.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey added another knockout to his barnstorming string here tonight over the old Akron rubber puddler, Meyer [K. O.] Christner, who took the count in the closing minutes of the third round of a scheduled four round bout.

A pair of left hooks to the chin tumbled Christner to the canvas for the fourth time, and he was attempting to get his wabbling legs under him again when the count cut him down for good.

Christner Wins Second Round.

There was a hearty sprinkling of "boos" from the crowd of nearly 10,000 persons during the first round, when the warriors resorted to clinching. Dempsey was cheered, however, at the finish.

A left to the chin knocked Christner down for nine in the first, and a pair of right crosses to the jaw sent him to the canvas for two more nine counts early in the third. But the Akron fighter won the second, shaking Dempsey twice with hefty rights.

Dempsey looked tired and old at the end of the second, but he was back with plenty of life in the third to wind up the bout with oldtime éclat.

Works on Dempsey's Eye.

Jack's bad left eye, cut in a fight at Milwaukee Monday night, gave him considerable trouble as Christner worked on it. Blood trickled from the wound shortly after the action started, but apparently did not greatly hamper Dempsey.

In the ten round semi-final Adolf Heuser, the German light heavyweight, was awarded a technical knockout over George Manley of Denver in a little more than 2½ minutes of the fifth round.

DAY WINS MATCH IN CORAL GABLES GOLF TOURNEY

Coral Gables, Fla., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Winfield Day, Chicago school boy golfer, administered a 5 and 4 trouncing to H. W. Faber, Miami, today to win his first match in the Miami Biltmore Valentine's day invitational golf tournament. Day, medalist in the tourney, carded a 39—34—73, two over par.

Howard Tryon, Detroit amateur, advanced to the quarter finals as he won, 2 and 1, from Fred Gennette, Rochester, N. Y. Lee Chase, Buffalo, N. Y., veteran, defeated H. F. Bowbeer, Chicago, 6 and 5. Gus Novotny, La Grange, Ill., won, 6 and 5, from H. B. Money, Wilmington, Del. Dan Soccoli, New Britain, Conn., won, 5 and 3, from Jack Vilas Sr., Chicago. John Brown, Portland, Me., defeated E. G. Livesay, Chicago, 4 and 2.

WARNER TO SIGN 5 YEAR CONTRACT WITH STANFORD

Palo Alto, Cal., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Glenn S. (Pop) Warner, football coach at Stanford university, will accept a five year contract to continue at Stanford, it was learned today. It was reported Warner will receive $15,000 a year.

"I have been offered a five year contract. I like it out here and I'm glad that I will be able to continue," Warner said. "This will end all the talk about my going east."

LILLIAN ZECH LOSES, 2 AND 1, IN MIAMI TOURNEY

Miami, Fla., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Mrs. Lillian Zech of Chicago, was eliminated today in the semi-final round of the Miami women's golf championship tournament, losing to Mrs. Joseph Bydolek, Buffalo, 2 and 1.

In the finals today, Mrs. Bydolek will meet Miss Bea Gottlieb of New York, who defeated Mrs. L. G. Riley, Pittsburgh, 6 and 5.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The French Red Devil team of Alfred Letourner and Marcel Guimbretiere put some new color into last night's portion of the six day bicycle race at the Stadium. Picking up the pace which moved them from eighth place to second the night before, the Frenchmen rode into a deadlock at midnight with the combinations of Charley Ritter and Jimmy Walthour and Jean Pijnenburg and Adolph Van Nevele.

Besides the pedaling of Letourner and Guimbretiere there were other thrillers from the Pijnenburg-Van Nevele duo. Their Dutch-Belgian blood became heated over a protracted stay among the tailenders and during the evening sprints they stole three laps in rapid succession to get themselves into the three way tie.

Pace Too Fast for Veteran.

The pace was a bit too swift for old man Reggie McNamara and his pal, Harry Horan, who enjoyed a portion of the first row until the night's disturbances began.

Pijnenburg's rapid rise to the front wasn't accomplished without traces of the sort of riding which may cause him annoyance before the finish tomorrow night. Several times he gave his rear wheel to those who persisted in sticking with him, but the only sufferer was the popular 18 year old Jules Audy. During a jam he was dumped off his bike by the flying Dutchman and the race was flagged down while repairs were being made to the Canadian kid. His injury, the first, despite the fact that he has fallen a half dozen times, consisted of a gashed knee.

Possibly because weariness is beginning to crawl over them the boys abandoned their usual practice of hitting 'er up early in the night. It was 9:30 before anybody stepped out. McNamara and Horan were the first to make a move and their industry netted them an undisputed claim to the leading honors. This put Ritter and J. Walthour one lap behind and the dashing Frenchmen two.

Ritter and J. Walthour didn't give McNamara and Horan any time to enjoy their honor. They caught them again. Then things began to happen and the lead circulated faster than a plugged dime. The Frenchmen caught the two leaders. Pijnenburg and Van Nevele also were in on this rush of business. They did it once more, but the Frenchmen stuck with them in this jam and in that way harvested exclusive claim to first place.

Tie Race Immediately.

Pijnenburg and Van Nevele then staged another coup and this time Ritter and J. Walthour followed the pace. This put the two pairs into a midnight tie with the French fellows.

Just so that young Audy couldn't claim the distinction of being the only one to become separated from his bike, Rodak, Ritter and Kroschel also soiled their pants on the board surface. Kroschel bumped his head and was out of circulation for a few minutes. Rodak required attention for a leg wound. Ritter escaped with nothing worse than a good bouncing.

Results of the 2 a. m. sprints:

First—B. Walthour, Rodak, Wals, Ritter.

Second—Georgetti, Horan, De Lille, Stockholm.

Third—Hill, B. Walthour, Spencer, Wals.

Fourth—Pijnenburg, Horan, J. Walthour, Stockholm.

Fifth—Hill, McNamara, Rodak, Wals.

Sixth—Guimbretiere, Horan, Peden, J. Walthour.

Seventh—Ritter, B. Walthour, Hill, Audy.

Eighth—Peden, Horan, Georgetti, Kroschel.

Ninth—Spencer, Wals, Audy, B. Walthour.

Tenth—J. Walthour, Pijnenburg, De Lille, Georgetti.

Londos Beats Rudy Dusek in Straight Falls

Jim Londos, claimant of the world's heavyweight wrestling championship, defeated Rudy Dusek, Omaha challenger, in two straight falls in the feature match of Doc Krone's wrestling show at the Coliseum last night. A crowd of 9,100 fans, the largest at a Chicago mat bout since Londos and Kola Kwariani met at the Stadium last year, witnessed last night's match.

Dusek several times during the first fall questioned Referee Emil Thiry on Londos' neck hold, which had been barred by the Illinois athletic commission after Jim had twice pinned him with it in a December match. Londos, however, did not use the disputed hold to dispose of the challenger.

He pinned Dusek the first time with a reverse body slam in 52 minutes and 32 seconds after Rudy had him in distress several times with his own Omaha split. Dusek was almost unconscious on the mat at the end of the first fall, but returned for the second fall, in which Londos made short work of him with a reverse body lock in 3 minutes and 40 seconds.

In the semi-windup bout Hans Kampfer, a newcomer from Germany, who has made several good showings here, won the decision over Frank Bronowicz, Polish star, at the end of the regular thirty minutes' time limit.

Jim McMillen, former University of Illinois football player, defeated Jim Clinstock, Indian wrestler, in 15 minutes and 26 seconds with a series of flying tackles, followed by a body hold.

Hans Steinke won the second bout of the evening by pinning George Hills of Wisconsin with a body slam and a crotch and body hold in 17:30.

Hornsby Rounds Up Cubs to Get Away Tomorrow

Actual work for 1932 began yesterday for Rogers Hornsby, Cub manager, when he arrived here preparatory to the start tomorrow night for the training camp at Catalina Island, Cal. Shortly after reaching here from St. Louis the Cub boss went into a huddle with President William Veeck, but details of the discussion were not revealed. It was presumed that instead of talking about the acquisition of a needed worth while outfielder, Hornsby gave the Cub president the names of the few rookies whom he already deems not sufficiently talented for big league employment.

When the advance squad reaches the island camp next Tuesday noon there should be 19 players in the party, not counting Pat Malone who is already there. It is Hornsby's intention to confine the daily drill to one session, starting at 11 o'clock and continuing for about 3 hours.

The getaway is scheduled for 9:30 tomorrow night on the Los Angeles Limited out of the Chicago and Northwestern terminal.

KNOCKOUTS AT DAVENPORT

Davenport, Ia., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Three knockouts featured the 112 pound division in the quarter finals of the third annual Daily Times-CHICAGO TRIBUNE Golden Gloves boxing tournament here tonight before a crowd of 1,500 fans. Twenty-nine bouts are on the card.

Eddie Borgonjon, Moline, knocked out Cliff Mohler, Davenport, in the second round, and Jack Dempsey Jr., Moline, knocked out Monty Rashid, Kewanee, in the first round. Cliff Bordeau, Davenport, won on a decision over Leonard Kuhlman, Davenport, and Charles Popejoy, Kewanee, defeated Russell Pollard, Moline. All bouts were in the 112 pound division.

CHAMPS WIN AT DANVILLE

Danville, Ill., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—A capacity crowd of 3,500 packed the state armory here tonight to witness the finals in the Danville Commercial-News third Golden Gloves tournament. It was the largest crowd of the four night classic.

Maurice De Barba, 135 pound entrant from Westville, was awarded a mounted trophy for the best sportsmanship displayed during the tourney. De Barba was eliminated during the semi-finals last night, losing to Lewis Poulson of Alvin.

Fred Tyus, Decatur colored welterweight, 147 pounds, had little trouble annexing his third championship in as many years of tournament competition when he defeated Chris Chibucos, Champaign university student, on a technical knockout in the third round.

Fred Nichols of Danville, former navy lightweight champion, furnished the fans a surprise by outpointing Lewis Poulson of Alvin in the 135 pound finals. Russell Kamp of Kankakee was awarded the 126 pound championship by default when Harold Roe, Hoopeston, the other finalist, appeared with an injured hand.

Notre Dame's First Football Captain Dies

PAIN STOPS IN 7 to 10 MINUTES

MUSCLETONE DOES IT!

Don't take chances . . . you work too hard for your money to throw it away on worthless remedies . . . when you buy something to relieve pain caused by rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, or any other muscular pain, be absolutely sure that it will do the work . . . that it's safe. Get MUSCLETONE. It is the actual prescription of Dr. Chapin, who specialized in the treatment of muscular pain. He discovered MUSCLETONE. In it, he found a remedy that would actually relieve pain in from 7 to 10 minutes . . . it is entirely free from any burning or blistering substances. And, remember this: it satisfies or it doesn't cost a penny. . . our money-back guarantee takes care of that.

Get Rid of Stiff Joints, Lame Muscles, Tired Feet

No internal drugs are taken . . . you merely rub MUSCLETONE on the place that hurts . . . it penetrates way down deep into the muscular tissues . . . energizes them . . . stimulates blood circulation . . . soothes . . . heals, and, by inunction, neutralizes the accumulated toxins. For "aching" feet, there's nothing in the world like it, nor is there a more pleasant treatment. Its quick-drying action enables you to put on your shoes and stockings right after you rub it on . . . isn't sticky . . . never soils or stains.

Pain saps vitality . . . you can't work . . . can't play . . . can't sleep. Relieve the pain . . . do it quickly . . . instantly. Use MUSCLETONE. Over two million bottles have been used. It must be good . . . it is! All good druggists sell, recommend and guarantee it. If yours happens to be out of it, fill in the coupon and mail it today.

Mrs. Watkins writes: "Best Remedy We Have Tried"

"My mother has been suffering with rheumatism for a long time, and tried most everything known until she heard of MUSCLETONE and decided to use it. It certainly did wonders for her. It is the best remedy we have tried—I really can't praise it enough."—Mrs. Guy Watkins.

Muscletone Ended Her Worries, writes Antoni Grzeika

"I have been suffering with rheumatism for many years and have tried various remedies, but they never seemed to help me. Your first bottle of MUSCLETONE ended my worries. It is remarkable the wonderful relief your MUSCLETONE has given me, and I will always keep a bottle in my home."—Antoni Grzeika.

MAIER, MANDELL MEET IN FRONTON RING TONIGHT

Dave Maier, Milwaukee southpaw, will seek his eleventh straight victory when he fights Mike Mandell, St. Paul heavyweight, in the eight round main event of Pep Kerwin's boxing show tonight at the Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue. He will weigh in at 173 pounds, and Mandell said yesterday that he'll scale about 190. Maier has scored seven knockouts recently, the most sensational being his 50 second knockout of Abie Bain.

Mandell is aware that Dave is a finalist in the National Boxing association's light heavyweight championship tournament, but he thinks he can take away some of his popularity by a knockout. Chicago fans saw Mike whip Paul Swiderski and knock out Walter Madey. He is a wild swinging heavyweight with a terrific punch in either hand.

Seven bouts, 32 rounds, will compromise the supporting card. The six round semifinal will match Mickey Patrick, South Chicago middleweight, and Sid Novak of Milwaukee. Another six round combat brings together Babe Colima of Mexico and Joey Bozak, Blue Island featheweight. The feature four round match pairs Benny Goldblatt and Billy Gladstone, Ravenswood lightweight.

A double windup involving Danny Welch and Steve Chastain and Jimmy Myers and Johnny Blue will headline the amateur program tonight at the Coulon club, 1154 East 63d street. Six supporting matches have been arranged.

Phil Pernice and Rubin Meyer, north side lightweights, will meet in the windup bout on the amateur card to be presented by Lou Heckl and Jabber Young tonight at the Northwest Lions Athletic club, 4300 West North avenue. The semifinal encounter brings into action Jimmy Spata and George McGee. Six other matches will be held.

Just Follow These Rules

1. Each day for 36 consecutive days (except Sundays) the Chicago Daily Tribune will print a Washington Bi-Centennial Crossword Puzzle. In each puzzle an historic event in Washington's life will be named. You are invited to solve the puzzle and name the event.

2. The Chicago Tribune will pay $5,000.00 in Cash Prizes to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved complete sets of puzzles in accordance with these rules. Note: This means that you do not necessarily have to solve each of the 36 puzzles correctly to win. The prizes will be paid to the persons whose entries rank highest.

3. This offer is open to every-one—men, women, boys, and girls—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

4. Puzzles are to be submitted only in complete sets. Do NOT send in each puzzle separately. Hold all puzzles until you have the complete set of 36. Then send them to "Crosswords," Chicago Tribune, Postoffice Box 1539, Chicago, Illinois. All entries must be in by midnight 15 days after Puzzle No. 36 has been printed.

5. Each entry must be sent by First Class Mail, postage prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Postoffice Department. Make your entry simple and neat. Neatness will count.

6. You need not buy the Chicago Tribune. You may copy or trace the puzzles and send them in. The Chicago Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at Public Libraries free of charge.

7. The Judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. In case of ties a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

Two sectional lightweight basketball championships of the Chicago Public High School league were decided yesterday when Parker and Wendell Phillips won their last district games to enter the semi-finals. Parker captured the south section title by defeating Calumet, 44 to 11, while Phillips triumphed over Hyde Park for the central division crown, 33 to 15.

Roosevelt and Lake View, by scoring victories yesterday, went into a three way tie with Lane Tech for the north section heavyweight lead. Rosevelt, led by Weinhouse and Fine, scored its third victory by defeating Schurz, 24 to 13, while Lake View overwhelmed Waller, 54 to 13.

West Section Race Tied.

Another tie in the heavyweight division was created when Marshall and Crane Tech, defending champion, continued their winning ways in the west section. Marshall triumphed over Austin, 30 to 16, and Crane won from Tuley, 21 to 11.

Pins Rosen and Pecky Feingold led Marshall to its third victory. Rosen sank six baskets and two free throws, while Feingold collected ten points. Marshall led, 18 to 6, at the end of the first half.

York Beats Maine.

While Riverside's heavyweights were upset by Glenbard, York last night defeated Maine, 20 to 13, to again tie for the west suburban conference lead. Riverside dropped its second contest of the league season, 29 to 16. The lineups:

The North Central college basketball team will meet Elmhurst at Naperville tomorrow. North Central defeated Elmhurst earlier in the season, but since then it has been slowed down.

SORE THROAT

FIVE minutes after you rub on Musterole your throat should begin to feel less sore! Continue the treatment once every hour for five hours and you'll be astonished at the relief.

This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other ingredients brings relief naturally. Musterole gets action because it is a "counter-irritant"—not just a salve—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation and helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by doctors and nurses.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Western State, Loyola Renew Basket Feud

Loyola university and Western State Teachers of Kalamazoo, Mich., renew basketball hostilities at the Loyola gymnasium tonight.

It will be the last game of the season for the Ramblers and they will be fighting to maintain an undefeated record on the home court. Western is one of the two teams which this year has defeated Loyola in its sixteen starts. They broke the Ramblers' nine game winning streak early in January with a 28 to 18 victory at Kalamazoo.

Sophomores Help Western.

Capt. Harold Althoff and James Den Herder are the only veterans on the Western starting lineup. William Perigo, Harold Leiphan, and Donald Hanna are sophomores, but they have been playing great ball. Western has won 10 and lost 3 this season, scoring 529 points to their opponents' 322. Michigan, Butler, and Ball State Teachers have defeated the Teachers.

Loyola will have a decided advantage in height, for Western's starting lineup averages only 5 feet 9 inches. A fast breaking offense and a shifting man to man defense, however, offsets the height disadvantage. In contrast the Ramblers employ a slow, deliberate offense and a modified zone defense.

Last Game for Three.

Three Loyola regulars, Schuhmann, Betzen, and Wagner, will be playing their last college basketball game. Lineup:

LOYOLA.		WESTERN STATE.
Schuhmann	L. F.	Althoff
Hogan	R. F.	Hanna
Wagner	C	Perigo
Cavanaugh	L. G.	Leiphan
Butzen	R. G.	Den Herder

SACRED HEART TAKES LEAD IN GIRLS' LEAGUE

Sacred Heart's girls ousted the Zippers from the lead of the Sacred Heart division of the C. Y. O. Girls' basketball league last night by winning a 12 to 10 victory. Alvina Ford was largely responsible for the Sacred Heart triumph by contributing eight points as her share on the offense.

St. Brendan's lightweights maintained their lead in the southwest division of the Catholic Youth basketball league by eking out a 19 to 18 win over Sacred Heart's ponies. Scores last night were:

Huey Long, Duffer, Wins Match with Hagen as Partner

New Orleans, La., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Playing a dub's game in the very best tradition, Senator Huey P. Long stole the spotlight from a score of the nation's golf stars today in a pro-amateur event at the Metairie Golf club, played as a preliminary to the $5,000 open tournament starting there tomorrow.

The stars went almost unnoticed as the gallery of cash customers, newspaper reporters, and photographers trailed the big boss of Louisiana politics to see him shoot a neat brace of 64's for an 18 hole total of 128.

Long paired in the pro-amateur with Walter Hagen against Seymour Weiss, lately a colonel on Long's gubernatorial staff, and Joe Kirkwood, the trick shot artist. It was a best-ball affair, and Long and Hagen defeated their opponents, 4 and 2, thanks to Hagen's card of 77, just five above par, scored under a running fire of conversation from the senator. Kirkwood had an off day with a card of 81. Weiss shot a 98.

Wearing a light green golf outfit and with his shirt open at the collar, Long was in high good humor for the match, even refusing to allow a miss on the first tee to upset him. He called it a practice swing.

"All I need is a little help from Mr. Hagen, and the match is won," he said. At the end of the first nine, when Hagen was even with par, he admitted, however, that "Walter is doing pretty good by himself."

Coming down the seventh fairway, the senator did considerable divot digging and Hagen stepped forward and made a low voiced suggestion about the way he was holding his club.

"Don't you think you had better let me play this ball?" Long shot back and Hagen backed away and doubled up with laughter that spread in a roar through the gallery.

At the eighteenth tee, it was agreed the high aggregate would pay the caddy fees. The honor fell to the senator, who drove into the woods, recovered into a ditch, struck a tree on his next shot, and had to walk back a hundred yards to find the ball.

BARON LONG TO SELL HIS RANCH AND QUIT RACING

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Baron Long is through with horse racing. The former vice president of the Agua Caliente race track, who was barred from the track after a betting coup, today announced that he was selling his ranch near here, which is valued at $500,000.

"I am going to quit the sport forever," he said.

Long already has disposed of several horses, including Ervast, which won many races as a 3 and 4 year old.

CHESTERTON RANGERS WIN.

Poloists Clash Tonight in Two Charity Games

Two indoor polo matches will be played tonight in the Chicago Riding club arena, 330 East Ontario street, for the benefit of the Joint Emergency Relief fund. These games will vie for interest with a drill and band music exhibition by the Chicago Black Horse troop, along with races and other feats of horsemanship.

The first of the two polo matches, starting at 7:30 o'clock, will open the program. This contest will bring together the Riding Club Yellows and the 124th Field artillery. Then will come a one hour program by the Black Horse troop. The polo battle between the all-star Blues and Reds will be the final event of the evening.

Among the players of national renown who will compete tonight are Maj. C. C. [Square] Smith, Capt. Max Corpening, Herbert Lorber, Frank Bering, Prentice Porter, James Hannah, Lieut. H. D. [Cowboy] Reed, Lieut. Col. R. G. Hunter, Capt. W. S. Everett, and Lieut. Chris Schuh.

The all-star Reds rate 14 goals as compared to 13 for the Blues, who, by virtue of this slight disparity, will enter the game with a one goal handicap. Similarly, the 124th Field Artillery carries a 9 goal rating as against 7 for the Riding Club Yellows, who will be awarded a two goal handicap.

Polo lineups:

James Hannah	No. 1	Prentice Porter
Herbert Lorber	No. 2	Capt. Corpening
Maj. C. C. Smith	No. 3	Frank Bering
RIDING CLUB YELLOWS.		124TH FIELD ARTILLERY.
George Bates	No. 1	Lt. Col. Hunter
Lt. H. D. Reed	No. 2	Capt. Everett
Dave Silberman	No. 3	Lt. C. M. Smith

NEW WRESTLER MAKES DEBUT FOR N. U. TODAY

Northwestern and Ohio State's wrestling teams will clash at Patten gymnasium this afternoon. The Wildcats have one of their strongest lineups in years.

Two conference champions are numbered among the Purple matmen. They are Jack Riley, heavyweight, and Wes Brown, light heavyweight. Jack Spencer, sophomore 145 pounder, will make his debut in today's match. Spencer was a Chicago high school champion when he competed for Harrison.

Tony Herrera Gains Decision Over Cohen

Yump! Splash! Who Said Olympics Are Winter Games?

were called off just as the 1,200 fresh customers were detraining from the Pullmans at an early hour. After a night of rain, water was coursing down the chute in a fair imitation of the rapids in the Ausable chasm, which is a neighborhood scenic asset appealing to the summer trade. The resemblance was a distinct embarrassment to the local committee, and it was by no means relieved when one of the Italians began to sing a Venetian song and plunk a hypothetical guitar.

It was reluctantly admitted that the bob run, or chute, was in no shape for bobbing today, because the first two or three bobs down the slide would cut grooves in the slush which might slew the others over the top and might even founder and drown the gallant yatchsmen of the crews.

Maj. Fleming Goes Home.

Maj. Phil Fleming of the United States military academy, an official of the bob race, finally retired, returning to West Point, but his grievance probably did not relate solely to the weather. Maj. Fleming had not been treated well by the Olympic officials in the distribution of the official red and white blue suits and he had endured the humiliation as long as an officer and gentleman of the United States army could be expected to.

The committee gave Maj. Fleming a red, white, and blue coat and cap, but no red, white, and blue pants. It was explained that one of the chief officials of the A. A. U. had drawn one pair of these pants originally, but had lost them playing the quarter in the slot machine in the Cellar A. C. He had therefore drawn a second pair and when Maj. Fleming arrived there were no official pants left. The gallant officer demanded his, but yielded when it was explained that the high official could not sign his official reports in triplicate without the pants in question.

A Matter of Honor.

Since then, however, several substitute bobbers, who were not entitled even to red, white, and blue caps have appeared in official pants and Maj. Fleming obviously could not be expected to officiate in unofficial slacks with substitute bobbers standing around the start of the run in the official kind.

The state troopers have discovered a clue which indicates that the substitute bobbers obtained theirs from a masquerade place, but Maj. Fleming refused to believe this.

"Nobody can tell me," he said, "that you can find such pants in a masquerade place. Masqueraders do some funny things, but they draw the line somewhere."

Bobbing Still Hazardous.

For all the genial merry-making about the sedentary character of the sport of bob-sledding down the mountain and the natural talent of the sleds to slide better unattended, the bob-run remains a gruesome hazard in these games and there is a strong premonition of horror. If cold weather comes unaccompanied by snow the run will become a mile and a half of glare ice and the teams, in the fury and heat of competition, probably will tear down the winding course, climbing the banks and diving into the slippery trench of the straightaways without brakes.

In fact, it is becoming a point of pride among the teams to disregard the brakes entirely, and the bobber who calls for his brakeman to dig the big sawteeth into the ice going into the perpendicular banks of the turns is quietly reported to have lost his nerve. Some of the Europeans are either not good pilots, unable to time their curves with the exact nicety which means the difference between safety and accident, or not sufficiently familiar with the course. If a bob goes over a bank in a run for the championship at a speed of sixty miles an hour, the course ahead consists of trees and boulders, and any one who has ever driven an automobile may appreciate the dangers of such a mishap to four men riding on a frame of steel pipe covered with a cockpit of interlaced cord.

The customers may yet go away from the bobrun on Mount Van Hoevenberg with a sense of sorrow for having promoted disaster with their patronage. It is magnificent, but I am not sure it is sport.

Maroons Meet Purdue Track Team Tonight

The first conference track meet in the new fieldhouse of the University of Chicago will be held tonight between Purdue and Chicago, with the Boilermakers the favorites for the first time since 1923.

The two teams have been meeting in indoor and outdoor dual competition since 1907, Chicago holding a big margin of victories. The Maroon teams have won 16 out of 17 outdoor meets, the lone Purdue victory being won in 1925. Indoors, Chicago has taken 17 out of 20 engagements, the last Purdue triumph coming in 1923 at Lafayette.

Purdue will bring to the meet several new men who are first rate. Sears, half-miler, who won a Stagg interscholastic 880 in 1929 with the fast time of 2:00 8-10, will be a certain winner in the race Friday night, for the Chicago team is weak in the longer races. R. W. Gohl, an all around star in the broad jump, high jump, low hurdles, and pole vault, is another important addition to the Boilermaker squad this year. Gohl has bettered 22 feet in the broad jump, and will be real opposition for John Brooks, the Maroon sophomore.

AMOS RESIGNS W. & J. FOOTBALL COACHING POST

In relinquishing his position with the presidents, Amos also surrendered his place as varsity track coach and freshman basketball tutor, the resignation to become effective with the end of the present academic year in June, when his contract will expire.

In announcing that Amos had resigned, college authorities merely stated that he had decided his period of usefulness at his alma mater had ended and that it would be for the best interests of sports at the institution.

Following announcement of the resignation widespread conjecture was apparent over a possible successor. It is generally believed that Leroy P. [Hank] Day, W. & J. alumnus, now coach of Washington High, would be chosen.

340,000 ILLINOIS HUNTERS PAY TO SHOOT WILD LIFE

But New York Has Twice as Many.

BY BOB BECKER.

If sportsmen of Illinois think they have a lot of competition they have only to look over a recent census taken during the 1929-'30 season, which reveal that some states turn out almost double the number of hunters that take the field in Illinois.

But to get a complete picture of how hunting has developed, the government gives us this start. A year ago last fall more than 6,900,000 hunting licenses were issued in the United States and Alaska. Including receipts from combination hunting and fishing licenses, the states took in more than $10,000,000.

New York Sets Record.

In this census Illinois' figures are 340,000. But competition among 340,000 hunters is nothing compared to that which must exist in New York state. During the 1929-'30 season New York issued 721,171 licenses with a return of $735,295 to the state.

Figures for 1929-'30 undoubtedly will surpass those for 1930-'33. Information from several states tells of fewer sportsmn taking out licenses during the last season, but hundreds of hunters, possibly not able to afford the the cost of a license, were busy just the same.

Sport's Popularity Increases.

That hunting as a sport is gaining popularity in spits of the difficulty in finding places to hunt and game enough to shoot, is indicated by this 1929-'30 census. During the 1926-'27 season the government records show 5,989,795 hunters bought licenses. In the 1927-'28 season the number jumped to 6,462,555, a gain of nearly half a million. Then in the 1928-'29 season there was a slight drop, but so small that it is almost negligible. The number issued was 6,428,761. Then the number jumped to 6,900,000.

Illinois' 340,547 hunters left $286,233 in the state treasury. Pennsylvania sold 509,926 licenses and received $1,029,745 for them.

BRODAR ENTERS SEMI-FINALS OF STATE HANDBALL

Jack Brodar of the Illinois Athletic club, defending champion, advanced to the semi-final round of the Illinois state singles championship tournament at the Medinah Athletic club by defeating Tom Alman, Midwest Athletic club, 21-5, 21-4, in the quarter-finals yesterday.

Others reaching the semi-finals were Maurice McCarthy, Mickey Lawler, and John Stenson. McCarthy won from Joe Platek, 21-10, 11-21, 21-8; Lawler defeated Bert Cavenaugh, 21-7, 21-7; and Stenson triumphed over C. C. Bergherm, 21-9, 21-9.

Kieckhefer Wins 1st Game in All-Star Tournament

Augie Kieckhefer, world's three-cushion champion, won the opening game in the all-star three-cushion tournament which opened at the Kieckhefer Recreation yesterday. He defeated Charles Morin, 50 to 37, in 51 innings. Each had a high run of 12.

CHICAGO STOCKS RISE ON NEWS OF CREDIT PROGRAM

Commonwealth Edison in 4 Point Gain.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

News of the government's credit expansion program provided a much needed hypodermic for stocks on the Chicago exchange yesterday. The entire list executed a quick turnabout with securities of all descriptions carried along in the general advance.

Quotations marched across the tape in brisk bullish fashion. It was essentially a professional demonstration but it sent a thrill through those on the sidelines.

Selling Pressure Absent.

Although the utility stocks trailed the general market in New York they were in the van of the movement here. With selling pressure absent Commonwealth Edison pushed ahead 4 points on a fair volume of trade and retained 2½ points of its gain. On a heavy volume of trade Middle West Utilities common moved up to 4½ and Insull Utility debentures spurted 3. Cities Service was in better demand and showed moderate improvement.

U. S. Gypsum common on transactions of a few hundred shares was bid up 1¾ benefiting from estimates showing earnings for 1931 considerably ahead of dividend needs.

Goldblatt Shares at Peak.

Goldblatt Brothers shares were traded at 19, the high for the year, following publication of the company's favorable statement for 1931 showing record earnings and sales.

Shares in the lower price bracket stepped in for modest improvement. Grigsby, Corporation Securities preferred and common and Railroad shares registered slight gains.

Omission of the dividend by McWilliams dredging directors prevented the company's stock from sharing in the advance. The stock was quoted a point lower at 6. The stock has been on a $1.50 yearly dividend basis.

Distillers Products Firm Reports Higher Earnings

National Distillers Products corporation yesterday reported 1931 net profit of $372,328 after charges, as compared with $307,286 in 1930.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Cotton goods were steady and quiet today. Merchants were looking for a substantial increase in activity next week. Silks were quiet and burlaps slightly firmer. Rayon demand continues good with weavers most active. Women's wear worsteds in fair demand. Men's wear quiet.

BUYS BOUL MICH FEE UNDER THE GAS BUILDING

Attorney Takes Title to Small Parcel.

BY AL CHASE.

Homer D. Dines of the law firm of Cooke, Sullivan & Ricks, yesterday purchased for an undisclosed purchaser a 26x180 fee under the Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company building at Michigan and Adams. The parcel bought is 129 feet north of Adams street. It was purchased from the Northern Trust company, trustee for the heirs to the estate of Charles William Wheeler, who died twenty years or more ago.

The property was left in trust to his widow, Adeline, who passed away two years ago, and the fee has been held in trust for twenty beneficiaries. The parcel is under lease to the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company for ninety-nine years, beginning in 1886, at an annual rental of $1,500.

Only $1,153 a Front Foot.

Figuring this on a 5 per cent basis establishes a leasing value to the property just purchased of $30,000, which is only $1,153 a front foot, which, of course, is way below Michigan boulevard values, but this lease, it must be remembered, was negotiated forty-six years ago. The lease contains no revaluation clause, but calls for a flat rental of $1,500 annually for ninety-nine years. The purchaser, of course, paid many times this leasing value for the fee.

Although no one connected with yesterday's transaction would discuss who the undisclosed purchaser happens to be, we believe it's safe to assume that the Insull interests eventually will take title from Mr. Dines and thus merge the fee and leasehold.

Renews Loop Lease.

George P. Chiagouris reports that Raklios & Co., restaurateurs, have renewed their lease on the space at 60 West Adams street for an undisclosed term. Earle Shultz, manager of the Marquette building, represented the lessor.

Dave and Bess Greenberg, for many years engaged in the women's ready to wear retail business in South Halsted street, have leased a new store for the same purpose at 6406 South Halsted for a term of years on an undisclosed rental. Harry M. and Louis Englestein were brokers for all parties in the transaction.

U. S. SUGAR SUIT SEEN AS BATTLE OF STATISTICS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 11.—The federal government's action under the Sherman anti-trust laws to dissolve the Sugar Institute, Inc., became something of a battle of statistics today at the third session of the trial before Judge Julian W. Mack. William W. Gardiner, chief statistician for the firm of Willett & Gray, analytical authorities in the sugar trade, was recalled to the witness stand to qualify and substantiate the reports of his organization.

John C. Higgins, counsel for the institute, in his address to the court yesterday stated that Willett & Gray's figures and totals on prices for raw and refined cane sugar were inaccurate and had led the government into error because the true prices, particularly on raw stocks, were carefully guarded by the big refiners which are the sources of the statistical firm's information.

Today, however, James L. Fly and Walter L. Rice, assistant to the attorney general, brought out through the examination of Mr. Gardiner that the big refiners and the institute itself relied largely on Willett & Gray's reports in preparing their own financial statements and charts. Twelve volumes of statistics were introduced by the government covering the years from 1926 to Dec. 31, 1931, containing quotations on imports, production, sales, and prices of cane sugar.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil close firm today at 8 to 13 points net advance for the active positions on sales of 14 contracts or 2,100 barrels. U. S. SEEN NEAR EXPANSION OF ITS CURRENCY

Bill Would Enlarge Reserve Scope.

Principal commodity and security markets in the United States, together with the banks, will be closed today—Lincoln's birthday. Trading will be resumed tomorrow in all markets, including the Chicago and New York Stock exchanges and the Chicago Board of Trade. The Chicago Live Stock market remains open today.

BY O. A. MATHER.

If congress approves the changes in the federal reserve act proposed in the Glass-Steagall bill, which seems a foregone conclusion, the United States will embark on a program of currency inflation. Whether it be only mild or of considerable proportions depends on the extent to which the reserve banks avail themselves of the new regulations.

Under the provisions of the new bill the reserve banks are given practically a free hand in lending to the member banks. The reserve banks may accept almost any form of collateral, whereas now this is confined chiefly to government obligations and short term commercial paper. Therefore, the basis for borrowing from the reserve banks will be vastly broadened and member banks that now do not hold collateral eligible for rediscounting may secure credit.

Possible Circulation.

It is estimated that money now in circulation could be increased between three and four billion dollars, ir the proposed change in the federal reserve act should be used to the maximum extent. While the act now provides that the federal reserve banks may issue currency to an extent that it is backed by 40 per cent in gold, this privilege has not been exercised since the depression of 1920.

The weekly statement issued by the federal reserve board last night shows that the reserve banks now hold $2,967,218,000 in gold, most of which is available for coverage of currency. But the reserve banks have only $2,661,959,000 of currency outstanding. Therefore it would be possible for the banks to issue a total of about $7,000,000,000 in currency with a 40 per cent gold backing.

Money in Circulation.

The reserve board also announced last night that total money now in circulation is $5,626,000,000 and that the country's stock of monetary gold is $4,403,000,000. Therefore, if the reserve banks should issue currency to their full legal limit there could be an expansion of about 50 per cent. But the currency could be expanded still further. If gold coin now in circulation and gold certificates, which require full gold coverage, be withdrawn and federal reserve currency substituted for them, it would be possible to expand our total currency to more than 10 billion dollars and still have a 40 per cent gold coverage. However, this is only a theoretical possibility.

The practical possibility is that our currency may be expanded two or three billion dollars if there is sufficient demand for such additional credit. At present the reserve banks are extending less than $1,764,000,000 of credit, about half of which is represented by loans to the member banks and the other half represented by the banks' own investments in government obligations and bankers' acceptances.

Effects of Inflation.

What would be the probable effects of currency inflation, particularly if confined to a mild degree? It would tend to halt the long decline in prices of commodities and securities and cause them to advance. It is axiomatic that money expansion causes higher prices. It also is axiomatic that moderately rising prices has an initial effect of stimulating purchasing. Purchasers defer buying when prices are falling and hasten buying when they are rising. An increased buying of goods would stimulate production and employment.

While financiers and economists generally frown on currency inflation, especially on prolonged inflation their present attitude is that deflation has been so severe and prolonged that mild inflation now is excusable as a means of reversing the trend. It is their belief that currency expansion can be held within proper limits until recovery is well under way and then can be gradually contracted as other agencies of credit become reëstablished to normal usage.

Fennell Heads Furniture Division of Mdse. Mart

The appointment of D. D. Fennell as manager of the furniture division of the Merchandise Mart has been announced by Hughston M. McBain, general manager of the mart. Mr. Fennell has been active in the furniture industry for many years, having been executive secretary of the National Association of Upholstered Furniture Manufacturers, treasurer of the American Homes bureau, and lecturer to manufacturers and merchants on furniture manufacturing and distribution.

Milwaukee Ry. Gross for January Near $6,900,000

According to preliminary estimates gross revenues of Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad company for the month of January, 1932, will be about $6,900,000, as compared with $9,361,892 for January, 1931, and the net railway operating deficit will be approximately $285,000, as compared with net railway operating income of $672,344 for January, 1931.

Union Pacific Pays Dividend at Same Rate

Directors of the Union Pacific railroad yesterday voted to maintain the $10 annual dividend rate on the common stock which has been in force since 1917 by the declaration of the usual quarterly disbursement of $2.50 a share. Because the road has suffered a sharp decline in traffic and a considerable reduction in income on its large holdings of railroad securities the action came as something of a surprise to speculators.

On the strength of the dividend decision the stock rallied sharply on the New York exchange climbing more than 6 points to 76. Doubt concerning the safety of the dividend had arisen chiefly from the fact that several of the roads in which Union Pacific has large holdings have recently cut or omitted dividends. These carriers include Illinois Central, New York Central, and Baltimore and Ohio. In addition to the reduction in income from these sources there was the large decline in the market value of the holdings.

Expression of Confidence.

Despite these unfavorable factors, however, the road is said to have just about covered its dividend requirements in 1931. The action of the board was regarded in the financial community as a concrete expression of confidence—a rare thing in recent weeks.

Directors of Atlantic Refining company declared the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents.

Underwood Elliott Fisher company declared a dividend of 50 cents on the common. Three months ago the company declared a quarterly dividend of 75 cents on the common, six months ago $1, and nine months ago $1.25, at which rate the dividend disbursement had prevailed since November, 1929, when the dividend rate was increased from $1.

Heyden Chemical corporation declared a dividend of 25 cents a share on its common. This is the first payment since August, 1931, when 50 cents was paid, prior to which date dividends of 50 cents a share were paid semi-annually.

Suspends Payments.

General Alliance corporation, which recently reduced its dividend to 60 cents a share annual basis, has decided to suspend further payments until surplus fund has been built up. E. H. Boles, president, states that this action means "more and better reinsurance business for us in the long run."

The Banca Commerciale Italiana, largest commercial bank in Italy and controlling similarly named trust companies in this city, Philadelphia, and Boston, has declared a dividend of 8 per cent for 1931, compared with 12 per cent for 1930 and previous years, according to advices from Milan. For 1931 the bank reports profit of 61,559,000 lire, compared with 87,902,000 lire in 1930. The bank has decided to absorb its subsidiary, the Banca Commerciale Triestina.

The General Empire corporation declared a dividend of 10 cents. This compares with former payments of 25 cents quarterly.

RAILS WILL TRY OUT NEW PLAN TO REGAIN TRAFFIC

Western railroads will attempt to regain some of the less than carload freight business lost to motor trucks through a plan, effective March 15, whereby they propose to offer lower rates, less red tape in classification and speedier service. Preparations are being made to file new tariffs with the interstate commerce commission. The territory involved includes Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri, Colorado and the Chicago district in Illinois.

The plan is experimental and is scheduled to last only until Jan. 27, 1933. Under the plan, shippers who comply with certain weight requirements will be permitted to load any kind of freight, regardless of present classifications, the sole provision being that they load it themselves and have the consignee unload it at destination. Reduced rate schedules are being worked out.

Railroad representatives yesterday morning started a concerted attack on the expansion of motor truck activities in the state before the Illinois commerce commission. Railroad attorneys asserted that the truck carriers skim only the cream from the transportation business.

LIST EXEMPTIONS IN NEW BRITISH TARIFF SCHEDULE

LONDON, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The measure by which Great Britain will throw over her century old tradition of free trade and become a protectionist country was published today.

It provides for a general 10 per cent tariff on all imports with certain important exceptions and sets up the machinery under which duties above 10 per cent may be imposed on the recommendations of a special committee.

Imperial preference was assured by the exemption of goods from the dominions from all tariffs until Nov. 15, 1932, by which time the question will have been threshed out at the Ottawa conference and by complete exemption of goods from colonies and mandated territories.

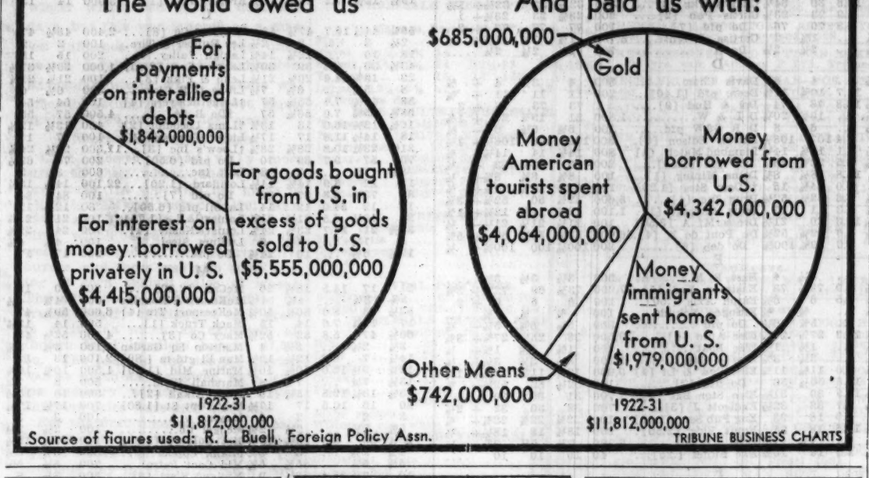

The chief exceptions on imports from other countries included wheat in grain, meat, tea, raw cotton, wood pulp, newsprint, raw rubber, iron ore, and scrap iron. Others were gold and silver bullion and coin, live quadruped animals, fish of British taking, raw wool, hides, and skins.

Also sulphur, mineral phosphates of lime, unset precious stones, radium compounds, and ores were excepted.

WOODLAND FLAT BUILDING NOW 82% OCCUPIED

Bondholders' Group Makes Report.

O. P. CURRAN JR. [Anthony photo.]

The Sheridan Trust and Savings bank bondholders' committee has mailed a report on the Woodland apartments, at the northeast corner of Maplewood and Leland avenues, to the bondholders. It states that the property on the first of this year was 82 per cent rented. The rental income from August, 1931, to January, 1932, was $7,024. Operating expenses for the same period totaled $3,178, leaving a net of $3,846. Decorating and repairs amounting to $2,219 left a balance of cash on hand of $1,626. Taxes for 1928 were paid in full, but 1929 general taxes remain unpaid.

The original Woodland bond issue, underwritten by the Sheridan Trust and Savings bank, was for $100,000, at 6½ per cent. When default occurred a partial foreclosure suit was instituted by the Sheridan Trust and Savings bank.

Reduced to $90,000.

"This partial foreclosure was concluded by the bank and did not disturb in any way the lien of any other outstanding bonds," the committee statement reads. "Moreover, it resulted in the inclusion under the partial foreclosure of $10,000 in bonds, thereby reducing the outstanding first mortgage lien to $90,000.

"This sale resulted in title, which is, therefore, now vested in the nominee of the bank receiver, subject to some legal technicalities under the old Illinois law, which objections will shortly expire under the law.

"With the closing of the Sheridan Trust and Savings bank a general foreclosure suit was filed July 18, 1931, in the interests of the outstanding first mortgage bonds, and on July 19, 1931, the Straus National bank was named receiver for the property for the benefit of all bondholders."

Carolan Apartment Hotel.

Eighty-six per cent of the $774,000 defaulted bonds of the seven story Carolan apartment hotel, at 5480 Cornell avenue, have been deposited with the bondholders' protective committee, it was stated yesterday by V. C. Scully, secretary of the committee. The original issue, underwritten by S. W. Straus & Co., was for $950,000. Prior to the default they were reduced to $774,000 and of these $669,000 have been turned in to the depositary by the bondholders.

Melvin L. Straus, as trustee, is in possession of the property and in coöperation with S. W. Straus & Co. is supervising the operations for the bondholders. The occupancy for the year 1931 averaged 77.8 per cent. The cash receipts for the year ending Dec. 31, 1931, it is stated, were $142,767. Disbursements were $135,339. Cash on hand on the first of this year was $11,274. Of this amount $3,846 was carried forward from 1930.

Bright Spots in Business

The Baltimore & Ohio took its first step in increasing employment yesterday. Officials announced that a full force of 1,200 men will return to work Feb. 15 in the road's shops at Beach Grove, near Indianapolis, Ind. It will be the first activity at the shops since Dec. 1, 1931.

Net earnings of United States Gypsum company for 1931 exceeded common dividend requirements of $1.60 a share by a comfortable margin, the annual report to be mailed stockholders next Monday will show, it was learned yesterday. Net income is placed slightly more than $3,000,000, which would be equivalent to $2.46 a share on 1,216,596 common shares outstanding as of June 30, 1931. In 1930 the company reported net income of $5,408,684 or $4.10 a common share.

National Distillers Products corporation reported 1931 net profit of $372,328 after charges, as compared with $307,286 in 1930.

ORGANIZE DRIVE TO COMBAT HOARDING; PICK 12 DISTRICTS

Progress toward the formation of an organization to combat hoarding throughout the country was announced yesterday by Frank Knox, who was named by President Hoover as chairman of the campaign. The country is to be divided into twelve districts corresponding with the twelve federal reserve districts in the conduct of the anti-hoarding drive.

A general chairman will be appointed for each federal reserve district who will work with the individual state chairmen for the states under his jurisdiction. Each state chairman is to organize the communities as was done in Liberty loan drives. In turn all will have the support of the fifty national organizations which have pledged their aid to the President.

Mr. Knox stated that it will require about three weeks to perfect the organization. When this is done an intensive drive lasting a week is proposed to accomplish the goal.

"We are now at work selecting the chairmen of the various states," Mr. Knox stated. "Acceptances from many state chairmen already have been received. This campaign is entirely a citizens' movement and is to be handled from Chicago. All the twelve district chairmen will be Chicago men so that there can be close coöperation between them and the national headquarters here."

Six of the district chairmen already have been named. These are: Robert Isham Randolph, former president of the Chicago Association of Commerce; H. D. Pettibone, president of the Chicago Title and Trust company; Max Epstein, chairman of the board, General American Tank Car corporation; Harry L. Stuart, president Halsey, Stuart & Co.; Arch W. Shaw, publisher, and E. H. Powell, treasurer of Sears, Roebuck & Co.

National Tea Adopts 13 Period Fiscal Year.

Sales of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company for the four week period ending Jan. 30 were $68,966,599. This compares with $78,814,870 for the same period in 1931, and is a decrease of $9,848,271, or 12.5 per cent.

January sales, expressed in tons, were 395,428 this year, compared with 410,807 in January, 1931. This is a decrease in quantity of merchandise sold of 15,379 tons, or 3.74 per cent.

Average for Week.

Average weekly sales in January were $17,241,650, compared with $19,703,718 in 1931, a decrease of $2,462,068. Average weekly tonnage sales were 98,857, compared with 102,702 in January, 1931, a decrease of 3,845.

Effective as of Jan. 1, 1932, the National Tea company has adopted a thirteen period fiscal year for the purposes of accounting and in the future will report its sales on this basis instead of by twelve calendar months as in the past.

Sales Are $5,747,427.

For the first period of four weeks and one day ending Jan. 30, 1932, the consolidated sales of the company were $5,747,427, while the sales for the equivalent period in 1931 amounted to $6,578,159.56, or a decrease of 12.6 per cent, of which 3.6 per cent is due to reduction in the number of stores operated.

Finds N. Y. Bank Average Income Yield 7.2 Per Cent

An analysis of the sixteen leading New York banks made by Hornblower & Weeks points out that the average income yield on bank stocks during the last 25 years was 4.15 per cent, while at current price levels the yield is about 7.2 per cent, notwithstanding the fact that these institutions are larger, stronger, better managed and have greater potential earning power today than they have ever had before, due to the growth of the trust business and the development of new sources of earnings.

Kentucky Utilities 7s.

An investment house has offered Kentucky Utilities company first mortgage bonds, series J, due Feb. 1, 1957. Before buying, however, I would like to get what information you have.—M. L. K.

Kentucky Utilities company, a subsidiary of Middle West Utilities company, furnishes electricity to 328 Kentucky and Virginia communities. It also supplies other utility services.

Gross earnings for the twelve months to Nov. 30, 1931, were $6,900,000, and total earnings available for bond interest and depreciation were $3,473,000. Annual bond interest totals $1,573,000. For the preceding twelve months the amount available for bond interest and depreciation was $3,707,000.

Gross operating revenues for 1930 were $7,166,000, against $6,987,000 for 1929 and $6,222,000 for 1928. Balance available for fixed charges, after depreciation, was $3,357,000 for 1930, $3,345,000 for 1929, and $2,794,000 for 1928. Fixed charges were earned 2.28 times in 1930, 2.42 times in 1929, and 2.53 times in 1928. The decline in coverage of fixed charges reflects an increase in fixed charges in a greater proportion than the increase in earnings available for such charges. Earnings in 1930, according to the management, were adversely affected by the drought in Kentucky in that year.

The $2,000,000 first 7s, due Feb. 1, 1957, are equally secured with $27,187,000 other bonds, due from 1948 to 1969 by a first mortgage on all properties of the company.

Chicago Yellow Cab.

I am interested in stock of Chicago Yellow Cab Company, Inc., and would appreciate your comments on it.—D. M. L.

Chicago Yellow Cab company, Inc., operates a fleet of 2,350 taxicabs in Chicago. In addition it has interests in "drive it yourself" automobile renting concerns in Chicago and New York.

Earnings have followed a generally downward trend since 1928. Net income for the first nine months of 1931 was $975,000, or $2.44 per share, against $1,261,000, or $3.15 per share, for the corresponding 1930 period.

Net income for 1930 was $1,209,000, or $3.02 per share after deduction of $794,000 for loss on cabs sold or scrapped. For 1929 net was $1,786,000, or $4.47 per share, after deductions of $706,000 for such obsolescence.

On Dec. 31, 1930, current assets were $2,258,000 and current liabilities were $729,000. Working capital was $1,529,000, against $2,521,000 the year before. There was no funded debt. Capitalization consisted solely of 400,000 shares of no par stock.

With the dividend payable March 1, 1932, the stock will be on a quarterly 50 cent basis against a previous 25 cent monthly basis.

THE PURE OIL COMPANY

Plan to Merge Big Oil Firms Starts Battle

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 11.—Protests from various quarters against the terms of the agreement to merge the Prairie Pipe Line company with the Prairie Oil and Gas company and the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation today brought an answer on behalf of the Prairie Pipe Line management in the form of a circular letter to the stockholders in defense of the merger plan.

Coincidentally with the issuance of the letter sent out by the company another stockholder went into action against the plan. C. R. Armstrong, president of the Lock Haven Trust company of Lock Haven, Pa., who said he represents 7,000 shares, announced that he will attend the annual meeting called for March 1 to vote on the merger unless his objections are answered to his satisfaction.

Letter of Gates.

W. F. Gates, president of the Prairie Pipe Line company, starts his letter by showing from a financial statement as of November, 1931, that the company had an operating deficit of $2,385,802 for the eleven months ended on that date and had a net loss of $547,813 before nonrecurring items of income tax refunds and back interest. He estimates that a further net loss of $120,000 was suffered during December, making a total net loss of close to $670,000 for the year.

"During the year the company obtained income tax refunds for the years 1915 to 1928, inclusive, which together with interest thereon amounted to $3,670,532," he continues. "Accordingly after dividends of $6,075,000 paid during the year the net reduction in surplus at the end of the year was approximately $3,060,000. Operating revenue for the eleven month period was $10,67,994, as compared with operating revenue for the similar period in 1930 of approximately $29,400,000, and in 1929 of approximately $36,600,000."

Decline in Revenue.

That decline in operating revenue is ascribed to changes in the oil industry. Mr. Gates then goes on to say that "the outlook in the future is even less promising than it was in 1931. In January of this year the deliveries of crude over the lines of your company averaged only approximately 60,000 brls a day, compared with an average of about 86,000 brls in 1931, 164,000 brls in 1930, and 215,000 brls in 1929.

"The result for 1931 and the outlook for the future under separate operation confirm your directors in the view that your company must either acquire production and refining and marketing facilities or combine with other companies having such production and facilities."

Against Liquidation.

Mr. Gates says that it is not practicable to acquire facilities through purchase while construction of refineries and other needed facilities would be uneconomical and prohibitive in cost. Liquidation also is impracticable because it would occasion "tremendous loss of intrinsic values," he adds. "It would mean the termination of the business as a going concern with all of the sacrifices that such termination would entail."

He defends the merger term, reminding the stockholders of the Prairie Pipe Line company that after the exchanges arranged become effective they will own 40 per cent of the common stock of the consolidated company. "The proposed ratios of exchange give due recognition to current position," he adds. "The book value of your company's stock May 31, 1931, was $32 a share; that of Prairie Oil just under $36 a share, and that of the common stock of Sinclair just under $34 a share."

GUARDIAN LIFE REPORTS 1931 GAIN IN ASSETS

A net increase in assets of more than 8 per cent and a gain in insurance in force equivalent to 20 per cent of the year's paid production during 1931 are reported by the Guardian Life Insurance Company of America.

Surplus earnings exceeding $4,000,000, likewise, established a new high record which is attributed to an exceptionally favorable mortality experienced as well as investment and managerial policies pursued by the company.

Paid production for the year advanced the Guardian's total of insurance in force to $516,201,459. A net increase in assets of $7,082,682 brought the year-end total to $91,819,758.

Only 47 per cent of the expected mortality rate was realized during the year 1931. This is the best record mortality experience of the company over a ten year period and is considered unusually low.

PRICES CLIMB NEARLY 2 CENTS IN WHEAT PIT

Credit Expansion Lifts Market.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A marked change in sentiment occurred in the grain trade overnight. Prospects of currency inflation, which the trade anticipated would occur some months ago, now appears likely to become an actuality, according to the construction placed upon the new federal reserve bank bill.

There was a rush of commission house and general buying of grain futures at the opening yesterday and buyers had to pay sharply higher prices, opening sales on wheat being 1@2c above the finish of Wednesday, with the July showing the most strength. Stop loss orders were uncovered on the way up, and sellers of offers were forced to protect themselves. The wheat market was fairly active during the first 15 minutes of trading and again at the close, but sufficient profit taking and selling against offers developed to check the advancing tendency and the price failed to get above the high figure at the opening.

Wheat Closes Near High.

At no time was there any great pressure on the market except around 59c and over for the May delivery, with locals free sellers around that figure. Despite the sharp upturn the actual trading during the day was within a range of only ⅝@⅞c with the close within a fraction of the top, with net gains of 1⅞@1⅞c, with September leading. March finished at 56c; May, 59@59⅛c; July, 59⅞@60c, and September, 61⅜@61⅝c.

The trade paid no attention to routine news, which was generally rather favorable to a higher level of wheat prices, although the foreign demand was by no means as aggresive as on Wednesday. Sales of around 600,000 bu Manitobas were estimated in all positions, and it was claimed more interest was shown in hard winters. No sales of the latter grain were reported, however.

Firmer Argentine and Canadian wheat offers had considerable influence on Liverpool, which closed equal to 1⅛c per bu higher, with May at 57⅛c, or 1⅞c under Chicago. Winnipeg was inclined to lag and gained only ⅝@¾c, with May at 64⅛c in Canadian funds, but the exchange

Abraham Lincoln and The Alton

TODAY, February 12, Lincoln's Birthday, stands out as one of unusual interest and significance to the officers, employes and the patrons of The Alton Railroad. In memory we are carried back to the days when the great emancipator traveled regularly upon The Alton lines, served as attorney for the company, and when finally his body was carried via The Alton to its last resting place.

Mr. Lincoln's name as attorney appeared in connection with several railroad cases which were carried to the State Supreme Court. One case, in which he successfully defended the rights of the railroads to build bridges across navigable streams, is said to have marked a turning point in American railroad development.

Abraham Lincoln, as a resident of Springfield and later as President of the United States, was never too busy to listen to another's troubles. He laughed with those who were happy and wept with those in distress.

It was therefore no wonder that as his funeral train wended its way via The Alton from Chicago to Springfield, people who had come ahead of time kindled bonfires and waited for hours at the little towns and villages en route. The homes of these people were draped in mourning and banners were hoisted on which were printed mottoes expressive of their sorrow.

Twelve thousand people assembled in the rain at Joliet. At Lincoln, Illinois, the train passed under an arch bearing Lincoln's picture. Bands played funeral dirges, bells were tolled and guns were fired in salute as the train, draped in mourning, made its solemn way toward Springfield.

MARKET RISES THREE BILLIONS IN A SINGLE DAY

Stocks, Bonds and Grain Score Gains.

Sweeping gains were made throughout the first hour and the pace of trading quickened to such an extent that the ticker fell out of step. The pace slackened somewhat shortly before 11 o'clock, but it gathered momentum again at midday. There was a demoralized retreat of "shorts," most of them in the category of small fry with slender margin accounts. The urgent covering, augmented by active buying for long account, kept the market firm and at times buoyant most of the afternoon, and closing prices were not far below the best of the day.

Some of the Leaders.

The widest net gains, taking the day as a whole, included: American Can, 5⅝; American Telephone, 7⅛; Santa Fe, 5⅛; American Tobacco B, 5¼; American Water Works, 3¾; J. I. Case, 5; Columbian Carbon, 4⅝; Coca Cola, 6⅜; Consolidated Gas, 4⅝; International Business Machines, 4¾; Du Pont, 5⅝; United States Steel, 5⅝; Union Pacific, 6⅝; Southern Pacific, 3¼; Public Service of New Jersey, 3⅝; National Biscuit, 4¼, and Norfolk and Western, 6½.

Transactions on the stock exchange involved a total of about 2,600,000 shares, or about double the volume of the day before. The trading was the second heaviest of the year, and, measured by the averages, the gain was the sharpest since Dec. 18. The combined averages of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, calculated on the basis of fifty representative stocks, were up $4.58 on the day, twenty-five industrials $8.94, and twenty-five rails $2.22.

May Exceed 3 Billion.

No exact calculation of the aggregate appreciation in security values is available, but estimates apparently reliable put the total at not less than 3 billion dollars. Possibly the estimate should be much higher. This includes both stocks and bonds on the stock exchange and the curb exchange. Twenty-eight common stock issues, with a total of 462,262,000 shares, showed an enlargement in value of about 780 million dollars. This calculation is based upon 38 per cent of all listed common stocks, indicating a gain of 2 billion 57 million for common stocks alone on the stock exchange, preferred issues not being taken into account.

The aggregate market value of American Telephone and Telegraph shares was lifted about 133 million dollars, General Motors $87,000,000, General Electric more than $71,500,000, United States Steel $46,800,000, and so on.

Commodities Also Gain.

Bank stocks were stimulated correspondingly. Commodities staged a brisk advance on the Washington news, wheat showing gains of from 1⅛ to 1⅜ cents a bushel, and corn 1¼ to 1½. The various cotton options also moved forward sharply.

ALL CLASSES OF LOANS ADVANCE IN BOND MARKET

New York, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Secondary railroad bonds staged a sizable recovery today and practically all classes of loans advanced their prices from fractions to several points.

Announcement from Washington of plans to ease the credit situation was viewed in some quarters as highly constructive for the general mortgage list. The cheaper bonds of the carriers were in the greatest demand although the high-grade legal liens were well supported.

Among loans that advanced from 1 to more than 5 points were some of those of Baltimore and Ohio, Boston and Maine, Allegheny corporation, Chesapeake and Ohio, St. Paul, Chicago and Northwestern, Rock Island, Denver and Rio Grande, Erie, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Frisco, and Nickel Plate.

The United States government section was steady and price changes narrow. Traders were somewhat uncertain just how the liberties and treasury issues would be affected by any revision of federal-reserve practices.

Utilities and industrials moved moderately higher in a somewhat restricted range. Communications companies' mortgages were in favor, most of them recording substantial gains.

The foreign category was generally featureless. Japanese obligations firmed and German government 5½s were slightly higher.

Union Oil Company 1931 Net Profits Are $3,054,912

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Net profits of the Union Oil Company of California for the year ending Dec. 31, 1931, after charges and federal taxes, totaled $3,054,912, equal to 70 cents a share on 4,386,070 shares outstanding, says the annual report. This compared with net profits of $9,694,996, or $2.19 a share, in 1930.

Another slight bulge of 5@10c in the hog market early yesterday flattened out before the end of the session, and plain quality stock at the close slipped down as much as 5@10c under the average selling Wednesday. Evidently nothing more than the influence of light supplies was in back of the advance.

Receipts at 22,000 were smallest for Thursday since the middle of last October and compared with 32,773 a week ago and with 39,288 a year ago. However, restricted buying of meat by retailers, coupled with the unseasonably warm weather, hampered the trade and action was poor even at the later reductions.

Best grades of hogs were scarce and sold mostly on the early rise, the extreme top at $4.25 standing highest since last Friday and 5 cents above Wednesday's peak. The later turn of the market held the average for the whole day steady at $3.90.

Offer $6.50 July Hogs.

Medium weight hogs were offered at $6.50 for July delivery, but bids stopped at $5.00, which was also bid for May contracts. The latter were offered at $5.50. March hogs were bid $4.25 and offered at $5.00.

The edge was off the cattle market soon after a strong opening yesterday and later reductions more than offset the early strength, with the bulk of sales figuring lower than on Wednesday's average market. The midweek unexpected rise was regarded yesterday as a "flash in the pan," and some buyers refused to acknowledge the Wednesday upturn by placing their bids in line with Tuesday's quotations. However, compared with the close of last week, most cattle sales show gains of 25@50c, with the exception of low grade off colored steers selling at $4.00 and below.

The scant supply of choice grades of steers elegible to $8.00 and above cut little figure in the trade. Most of yesterday's offerings consisted of stock selling at $4.75@7.50, a good many loads of plain quality but moderately fat steers going for slaughter at $4.50@5.00. Those at $5.50 and above carry a good layer of flesh and only steers showing evidence of a long feeding period are eligible to $6.50 and more. One load of choice 987 lb yearlings went to Armour at $8.75, the top for load lots.

Yearlings of outstanding quality and finish are exceptionally scarce. One buyer picked three such from a load of fat cattle and paid $9.50, indicating what a load might sell for. Butcher stock held firm and showed gains of mostly 25 cents for the week. Heifers have advanced 25@50c since a week ago. Little action was reported in calves, and prices in that division are $1.00@1.25 lower than a week ago. Stockers and feeders are strong to 25 cents higher for the week.

Lambs Decline Again.

Lamb prices continued to slide during yesterday's session and at the close losses of 25 cents were general with bulk of good slaughter stock at $6.00@6.10. City butchers paid up to $6.25 for their selections, while a good many medium grade of natives and "fed" lambs sold around $5.75. Prices have tumbled $1.00@1.25 since the high point of last week, but are still $1.00 above the low spot of the winter, last December, when top lambs went down to $5.35. The top last week reached $7.40.

The lamb market has been in a turmoil for almost two weeks and prices have been bobbing about in wild fashion. The trade hopes for a more even course now that bulk of slaughter lambs are back around the $6.00 line. Aged and yearling sheep yesterday were in line with Wednesday's low close.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 1,500 cattle, 23,000 hogs, and 12,000 sheep, against 1,322 cattle, 28,245 hogs, and 15,794 sheep the previous Friday, and 1,939 cattle, 32,566 hogs, and 13,305 sheep a year ago.

Wheat Pit Prices Gain Nearly 2c

rate was stronger at 18 per cent discount. Buenos Aires closed ⅜@½c higher, with March at 44c, the highest price quoted on any delivery in the Argentine market since Dec. 7.

Weather map readers said they saw prospects of a cold wave entering the winter wheat belt in the next few days, but this was ignored as a market influence in view of the unexpected developments at Washington. Rumanian winter wheat acreage was officially estimated at 5,590,000 acres, against 7,260,000 acres last year.

Short Covering in Corn.

Corn showed relatively more strength than wheat, and closed at practically the top with net gains of 1¼@1½c, March being 36¼c; May, 39⅜c, and July 41⅜c. All of the decline which occurred early in the week was wiped out with shorts active buyers, and there was also some buying of corn against sales of wheat. The advance in futures failed to increase country offerings of cash grain to arrive as much as expected, although local handlers bought 47,000 bu. The basis in the sample market was as much as ½c lower, as a leading industry withdrew as a buyer. Shipping sales were only 4,000 bu.

For the first time since Feb. 1 oats futures closed higher, the finish being ⅞@1c above the final trades of the previous day in sympathy with corn. Cash interests and the local element sold on the bulge but the finish was at the top, with May 25¼c and July 25c.

Rye closed 1⅛@1¼c higher with wheat, but trade was not large and nothing was said regarding foreign demand. May finished at 45⅞c, and July at 47⅛c. Rumania acreage is officially estimated at 683,000, against 800,000 acres last year.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Traders were inclined to feel that the wheat market would not advance materially from the prevailing levels despite the prospect of mild inflation in the currency, unless there was a marked improvement in the export demand or a severe crop scare. The statistical position is regarded as unchanged, and until the trade sees evidence of the burdensome surplus starting to move into consumptive channels it is felt bulges will be hard to maintain.

As corn and oats crops are largely domestic affairs there was a belief in some quarters that if there is a broadening of the credit base they might gain on wheat. This view gained ground yesterday and led to some closing of spreads between corn and wheat.

According to pit observers a good part of the advance in grain prices yesterday was due to short covering and resulted in weakening the technical position. Developments over the holiday are expected to have considerable influence on the markets tomorrow.

COTTON RISES $1 BALE

A sudden impetus was given to all commodity and security markets in the first hour yesterday on advices from Washington indicating liberalization of federal banking laws with increase in currency circulation and more liberal credits, causing buying and short covering which advanced prices over $1 per bale in domestic markets. Net gains at Chicago were 16@18 points, or slightly under the top while New York was up 14@17 points and New Orleans 13@16 points. Large business in actual cotton transacted in the interior sections in the south the last few days indicate continued excessive exports. Stocks of cotton in India on Dec. 31 were close to 1,500,000 bales less than on that day a year ago. Liverpool closed 6 points net higher. Spots in New York and New Orleans gained 15 points, at 6.70c and 6.55c respectively, Galveston 6.55c and Houston 6.50c. Prices follow:

BUTTER FUTURES HIGHER

Butter futures were active on the Chicago mercantile exchange yesterday, advancing 1c shortly after the opening, but reacting at the close, ending the session ¼@½c higher. Egg futures were up ⅛@¼c. Heavy buying in butter resulted largely from the news concerning the new federal reserve bill, but further encouragement was derived from storage and production news. The four markets reported a fairly heavy movement of stocks and the various production reports recorded decreases in the make. New support and covering combined in carrying the market forward quickly early, but profit taking developed at the close. There was a slightly improved interest in egg futures, with statistical news continuing neutral. Sales: Butter, 153 cars; eggs, 24 cars. Deliveries: Eggs, 1 car. Prices follow:

LARD IN STRONG RALLY

Aggressive short covering, combined with scattered investment buying based on prospective inflation in the currency, carried lard futures up sharply yesterday. On the advance there was hedging pressure and some liquidation, but the close was about the top with net gains of 17½@20c. Bellies were inactive, but gained 5@20c, the latter on May. Strength in stocks and grain had some effect on sentiment. Hogs were strong to 10c higher with the movement in the west slightly larger than a week ago, but well below that of last year. Spot lard in Liverpool was 6d lower and futures 3@6d lower. Prices follow:

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was firmer today, advancing 1-32 of a cent as a result of the upturn in futures. The only sale confirmed was 13,000 bags of Porto Rican for prompt shipment at 2.94c.

Indications of progress in negotiations between Cuba and Java in connection with crop restriction had a favorable influence on futures and led to increase covering and some new outside buying, closing prices showing net gains of 6 to 8 points. Approximate sales, 59,100 tons. Prices follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. close.
March	.92	.98	.92	.95	.89
May	.96	1.02	.96	.99	.92
July	1.03	1.08	1.03	1.06	.99
September	1.09	1.13	1.09	1.11	1.05
December	1.15	1.18	1.15	1.17	1.10
January	1.17	1.20	1.17	1.20	1.12

Refined sugar was unchanged. Prices were quoted at 4.15c for fine granulated.

CITY SALESMEN.

Our plan has been unusually successful and because of additional attractive items sales are now better than ever. Our name is well known to the people our salesmen call on and we have many thousand new customers secured in past six months to prove our offer an extraordinary one.

No drawing account seekers wanted. Our daily finance plan permits capable men ample funds; calling on the consumer is our business, which has prospered for many years. We are a mighty well rated house and enjoy a very good reputation for honest dealing.

If you have had this kind of experience and have been successful you should do exceptionally well with us. We want ambitious men who are really anxious to work hard and steadily. We require men who can furnish good references, as we bond at our expense all of our sales help.

JUST A REAL GOOD JOB.

This is not one of those propositions where you are promised $200 per week selling ice to the Eskimos.

We haven't a salesman in our organization making $200 per week, but we do have a happy successful sales force earning a very comfortable living.

We are an old established concern, doing business all over Chicago for the past 50 years. The department this ad refers to is a new branch of this business. The next six months is our busiest season and we therefore wish to talk to salesman who are sincerely seeking a permanent connection where a day's effort is rewarded with cash and not promises.

If you believe in yourself and can tell the truth, call at the address below. You will be given a prompt, courteous interview of plain unvarnished facts, and if we employ you, you will receive every assistance and co-operation.

Why pay more than HOUSEHOLD'S LOW RATE on loans? . . . .

Household loans, $50 to $300 to families at reasonable rates. Rate on loans above $100 almost one-third lower than maximum permitted by small loan law.

For example, average monthly cost of $200 repaid in 20 equal monthly payments is $2.63—the lowest in Chicago.
